INTRODUCTION

The first Mandaean book which came into my hands was a small volume of two hundred and thirty-eight pages in a poor handwriting. It was presented to me by an old Mandaean silversmith a year or two after the first world war. This volume inspired me with curiosity, and later, when I had read Lidzbarski's translations and had studied Nöldeke's Mandäische Grammatik, I found that it contained prayers for the minor ablutions, the daily office (the 'niana) and the masiqta prayers.

An early visit to 'Amarah resulted in the acquisition of a damaged and imperfect copy of the entire codex, I mean prayers considered canonical and still used by priests. A head priest (a ganzibra) copied into it some of the missing pages, and to these I added others when I had had access to other MSS. Complete copies of the collection are hard to come by, for they are in constant use.

It was not until many years later, in the spring of 1954, that I persuaded the owner of a prayerbook, himself a ganzibra, to give me his in exchange for a money gift, for sacred manuscripts are never bought. This codex, No. 53 of my collection, is in a good hand and from it very little was missing. That little I was able to supplement from D.C. 3 and other fragments of the liturgical prayers that I had acquired or seen. It is this manuscript which is photographed and reproduced for the present volume, and into it, regardless of desecration, I have pasted numbering to correspond with the numbers in the translation, following throughout the arrangement of the prayers in the original.

Of the canonical prayers used for centuries by the priests fragments had reached Europe. In 1867 Euting transcribed the Qulasta (a word which means "collection") from manuscripts in Paris and London, and this provided Lidzbarski with the greater part of his Mandäische Liturgien published in Berlin in 1920. Whilst this volume contains all the baptism prayers and masiqta prayers, it represented only about a third of the complete book possessed by Mandaean priests. Important sections, such as the Blessed Oblation prayers and the Coronation prayers are missing.

In presenting the full version I ventured to re-translate into English, and sometimes to differ from the translations made by Lidz-barski. His was a brilliant and scholarly achievement. However, the possession and study of a number of texts unknown to him and, above all, a personal knowledge of Mandaean rites as I have seen them performed and explained by celebrants, elucidate some obscurities although, indeed, far too many still exist, for the language used by gnostics is purposely archaic, symbolic and intended to mystify. Translation often limps when forced into literal rendering of obscure passages. I have been helped by the perusal of ritual texts. These, forbidden to the Mandaean layman, contain traditional teaching about the symbolism and true meaning of the ancient rites during which prayers are recited.

That an ancient gnostic sect should have survived into our time is remarkable: that so many of their writings, their magical texts, their secret doctrine in the ritual scrolls and their liturgical literature has been preserved, is little short of a miracle.

The sect is dying out rapidly: priests are few and old and the numbers of the faithful dwindle year by year. I feel it a privilege to have been brought so nearly into contact with a religion which may before long become extinct.

THE CANONICAL PRAYERBOOK OF THE MANDAEANS

My Lord be praised!

In the name of the Great First Other-Worldly (lit. "strange") Life! From far-off <sup>1)</sup> worlds of light that are above all works may there be healing, victory, soundness, speech and a hearing, joy of heart and forgiving of sins for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš through the strength of Yawar-Ziwa and Simat-Hiia!

I

In the name of the Life and in the name of Knowledge-of-Life (Manda-d-Hiia) and in the name of that Primal Being who was Eldest and preceded water, radiance, light and glory, the Being who cried with His voice and uttered words. By means of His voice and His words Vines grew and came into being, and the First Life was established in its Abode.

And He spoke and said, "The First Life is anterior to the Second Life by six thousand myriad years and the Second Life anterior to the Third Life by six thousand myriad years and the Third Life more ancient than any 'uthra by six thousand myriad years. And any 'uthra is older than the whole earth and older than the Seven Lords of the House <sup>2)</sup> by seven hundred and seventy thousand myriad years. There is that which is infinite.

At that time there was no solid earth and no inhabitants in the black waters. From them, from those black waters, Evil was formed and emerged, One from whom a thousand thousand mysteries proceeded and a myriad myriad planets with their own mysteries.

The Seven were wroth with me, were outraged and said, "The man who set out and came towards us hath not bound a circlet <sup>3)</sup>

about his head!" Then I turned my face toward my Creator who created me, the celestial Lord of Greatness, and I said to Him, "O my Creator who created me, (O) Lord of lofty Greatness! As I went (my ways) the Seven were wroth with me and said, 'The man who went and came towards us hath not bound a circlet about his head!'"

Then that Lord of Lofty Greatness took a circlet of radiance, light and glory and set it on my head; He laid on me His hand of Truth<sup>1)</sup> and His great right hand of healings and said to me, "Upon thee shall rest something of the likeness of Sam-Gufna and of Sam-Gufaian and of Sam-Pira-Hiwara (Sam-the-White-Fruit?), whose radiance gleams and whose appearance beams, for they are holy and believing beings in the Place of Light and in the everlasting<sup>2)</sup> Abode."

And Manda-d-Hiia, the valorous 'uthra, taught, revealed and said "Every Naṣōraean man who is righteous and believing, on arising from sleep, must take a white turban symbolising the great mystery of radiance, light and glory and shall recite this prayer thereon. And he shall twist it round his head and repeat the prayer secretly. It will be his praise in the house of the great Celestial Father. And all persons<sup>3)</sup> who behold him will be subdued in his presence: any persecutor, or one who inciteth to wrath, will stand before him in fear, terror and trembling, (their knees) knocking together. And for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, who have prayed this prayer and (these) devotions, there will be forgiving of sins and I shall be pure in all my words. And Life is victorious. [This is the prayer of the turban].

Illumined and illuminating is<sup>4)</sup> Zihrun, the great Mystery of radiance, light and glory, from whom Manda-d-Hiia emanated and was divulged, and from whose very Self noble sons of the mighty and sublime Life proceeded. He created 'uthras at his right and his

<sup>2)</sup> Tagna has a double meaning (a) lustrous, gleaming (b) enduring, durable, constant (particularly when in antithesis to baṭla in dawra baṭla, "the abode that comes to nought").

In the name of the Life!

Life created Yawar-Ziwa<sup>4)</sup>, son of Light-of-Life, Hamgai-Ziwa son of Hamgagai-Ziwa. Illumined and illuminating is the Great Mystery of Radiance, Zihrun, a Crown of radiance, light and glory from whom a flow of living water streamed out to the škintas. For he is the revealer (lit. opener) of radiance and light and displayeth his treasure<sup>5)</sup> which emanated from him, to eager 'uthras. All worlds adore and praise the mighty First Life in its Indwellings, and Life is victorious.

[This is the prayer of the turban]

As the 'uthras stand in their škintas they adore and praise the Great Place in the Light which is eternal, and praise Manda-d-Hiia and speak with him. When the 'uthras are standing in their škintas they adore and praise that Tarwan-Nhura. To what shall they

<sup>5)</sup> D.C. 3 has l'ušria, D.C. 53 ul'ušria as in M.L. p. 7). Lidzbarski inserts den Schatz to make the sentence grammatically correct. The omission of u, as in D.C. 3, makes the insertion unnecessary. 'Ušria also means (perhaps here also) "his mind", "his thought", "minds".

dedicate the wreath upon their heads and upon what shall they hang it? They dedicate it to the Tree of Radiance and hang it (thereon).

And Life be praised!

[This is the prayer of dedication of "Life created Yawar-Ziwa]

5

In the name of the Great Life!

Let there be light, let there be light! Let there be the light of the Great First Life! There shone forth wisdom, vigilance and praise of the First Mana <sup>1)</sup> which came from its place. He who twineth the wreath is Yufin-Yufafin: the bringer of the wreath is 'It-'Nšibat-'utria. 'It-Yawar son of 'Nšibat-'utria set on the wreath. He brought it and placed it upon the head of the implanted mana which was transplanted from guarded (?) <sup>2)</sup> manas. The wreath flames and the leaves of the wreath flame! Before the Mana there is light, behind the Mana glory, and at either side of the Mana radiance, brilliance and purity. And at the four corners of the House and the seven sides of the firmanent silence, bliss and glory prevail (lit. are found). And Life be praised!

6

A crown of ether-light shone forth dazzlingly from the House of Life. 'Uthras brought it from the House of Life and the mighty First Life established it in His škintas. He who setteth it up shall be set up and he who uplifteth it shall be raised up into the world of light and he who establisheth it into the enduring Abode. Ye are established and uplifted to the place (in which) righteous (beings) are established.

And Life be praised.

[This is the prayer of "loosing" <sup>3)</sup>, "Let there be Light". These three prayers "In the name of that Primal Being", "Life created Yawar-Ziwa" and "Let there be light" read near thy crown <sup>4)</sup> and place

it on thy head. And read "Manda created me" over the myrtle-wreath and put it on thy head above thy crown. And twine a myrtle-wreath for thy staff and hold it with thy crown. And when thou goest to the jordan read "Answer me, Father, answer me!]

In the name of the Great Life!

There shall be healing for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš! Strengthened and enhanced <sup>1)</sup> is the great mystery of radiance, light and glory which resteth on the mouth of the Great Life! for from it came into being and was manifest <sup>2)</sup> Knowledge-of-Life (Manda-d-Hiia) who knew and interpreted the thoughts of the First Life, which are wondrous.

And Life be praised!

[Read this prayer and hold thy pandama <sup>3)</sup> for thy baptism.]

8

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the mighty, first, sublime Life from worlds of light, the Ineffable above all works! for the ancient Radiance and for the Primal Light, for the Life which emanated from Life and for Truth (Kuṣṭa) that was pristine, from the beginning.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for Yukabar-Ziwa who was mighty in his radiance, and came in his light and his glory (as) messenger <sup>4)</sup> to the first righteous elect (people). He crossed over the worlds and came and rent the firmament and revealed himself.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for Yuzaṭaq-Gnosis-of-Life, source of Life, who interpreteth silence and giveth hope and taketh <sup>5)</sup> the prayers of spirits and souls of righteous and believing men, the virtuous and wellpleasing, into the Place of Light and into the Eternal Abode.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the Father of 'uthras, the Ancient, Lofty, Occult and Guarded, the Man who is high (yet) remaineth deep and hidden. He seeth and understandeth that which the worlds and generations do in the worlds of darkness.

Incense that is fragrant, incense, that is fragrant! yea for the dwelling of Life and the planting of 'uthras. Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the dwelling of four beings, sons of Perfection. Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea for the Dwelling of Abathur. Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the dwelling of Hibil, Šitil and Anuš<sup>1)</sup>, sons of a living, brilliant, healthy and steadfast stock, beings not removed by sword, nor burnt by flames of fire, nor drowned in water-floods; whose (very) sandal-straps on their feet are unwetted by water. They sought and found, went to judgment and were vindicated, spoke and were heard. They are complete, lacking in nought; perfect are they and not imperfect. They came from a pure place and go to a pure place.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the lives of the men who were our ancestors, of righteous and believing men who rendered up (their souls) and departed from their bodies; and of those who yet live in their bodies. They testified and the door of Sin will be shut to them and the door of light open to them and they will be knit together in the union of Life, in which there is no separation.<sup>2)</sup> Pray ye for us from there, and we will pray from here for you! All fruits perish; all sweet odours vanish, (but) the perfume of Life is established for ever and unto world's end, upon those who love His name of Truth.

Those souls who descend to the jordan and are baptised shall be without sins, trespasses, follies, mistakes and evil deeds: they will rise and behold the great Place of Light and the Eternal Abode. And praised be the Great Life in light. And Life is victorious.

[This saying, "Incense that is fragrant, yea for the First Life" recite over both incense and sandalwood and put them before thee on the jordan-bank in a new incense-pan. And make a fresh fire on the copper<sup>3)</sup> incense-pan - (these) are aids of all order which ye carried, put (lit. "performed") at the jordan. Then read the baptismal "We acknowledged" "Praises" "Thee, Life," "I sought to raise eyes" (Prayer 77) and "Raising eyes".]

Raising <sup>1)</sup> my eyes and lifting up my countenance <sup>2)</sup> toward the Place which is all portals of radiance, light, glory, beauty, repute and honour and to the Abode which is all beams of light; I adore, laud and praise the Mighty, Strange (other-worldly) Life, and the Second Life and the Third Life; and Yufin-Yufafin, Sam-Mana-Smira, and the Vine which is all Life and the great Tree which is all healings. I adore, laud and worship the precious and guarded Place, the secret and guarded manas and the Lord of Greatness from the Secret Place and, from the Hidden Place, the pihta <sup>3)</sup>, need(?) <sup>4)</sup>, truth and faith.

I worship, laud and praise Sam-Smira, the great radiancy of the First Life, son of the Great Primal Life who thought and was manifest, seeking His own: His shecinah resteth on waves of water. The assembly of souls which proceeded from Him, on the Last Day, when they leave their bodies, will rejoice in Him, will embrace Him and will rise up and behold the outer Ether and the everlasting Abode.

I worship, laud and praise the multitudinous Radiancies and great mighty Lights: I worship, laud and praise Piriawis, the great Jordan of the First Life which is all healings. I worship, laud and praise the pure Yušamin who abideth on treasures of the waters and upon mighty celestial wellsprings of light. I adore, laud and praise the life which proceeded from Life and the Truth which existed before, in the Beginning. I worship, laud and praise Yukabar-Ziwa, envoy of the Life and the Word of the first Elect Righteous ones. I worship, laud and praise the Ancient, Supernal, Occult and Guarded Abathur, who is high, hidden and guarded, whose throne is placed at the gate of the House of Life. He sitteth with the scales set before him,

weighing deeds and (their) recompense. He seeth and discerneth that which the worlds and generations do. I worship, laud and praise Manda-d-Hiia lord of healings, the being whom the Life summoned and bade him heal the congregation of souls, divesting the congregation of of souls of (their) darkness and clothing them with light; raising (them) and showing them that a great restoration of life exists, a place where the spirits and souls of our forefathers sit clothed in radiance and covered with light; showing the great restoration of life which is before them.

I worship, laud and praise Šilmai and Nidbai, the two delegates of Manda-d-Hiia, who rule over the great jordan of Life, for they baptise with the great baptism of Light.

And Life is victorious.

IO

On the day that the Jordan was bestowed upon Sam-Smir, the great pure radiance<sup>1)</sup> of the First Life which flowed forth<sup>2)</sup> from Him, Bihram and Ram-Rba-Hiia went with him<sup>3)</sup> (and?) four hundred and forty-four thousand myriads of 'uthras, sons of light, who descended to the jordan. He baptised them and they rose to the bank. He raised them up and conferred upon them some of the glory and some of the greatness which was (conferred) on himself.

And Life is victorious.

II

I have worshipped and praised that Yawar-Ziwa whose škinta is situate in the world of Outer Ether and in the Enduring Abode. I have worshipped and praised the seven holy and guarded mayas which were transplanted from it. I sought in prayer the First Life, and, in the presence of the mighty sublime Life, discovered that which offendeth in myself, (in me), Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš and about what which causeth my friends to offend, and my friends' friends and the friends of the great Family of Life.

<sup>3)</sup> The first part of the hymn is obscure. Were it "aus Bihram" as Lidzbarski translates, it would be minh mn Bihram, moreover, the word ma before "four hundred" is meaningless. The baptist is Sam-Ziwa, although one would expect Bihram-Rba to be the officiating baptist. The formula at baptism is "Thou art immersed (baptised) with the baptism of Bihram-Rba". The names of Bihram and Ram are coupled in Prayer 25.

And Life is victorious.

[Pray these three prayers, " Raising eyes", "The day that the Jordan was bestowed" and "I have worshipped and praised that Yawar-Ziwa" on the jordan-bank after "I sought to raise eyes". They are the helpers (aids to) baptism.]

12

I am Yur son of Barit (I shone forth). In great effulgence the radiance glowed (with heat?). The tanna<sup>1)</sup> dissolved and a škinta came into being, a škinta came into existence and was established in the House of Life.

And Life is victorious

[Read this prayer and grasp thy kanzala (stole).<sup>2)</sup> It is the opening prayer for the jordan. Then recite "I went to the jordan".]

13

I went to the jordan, but not I alone, (for) Šilmai and Nidbai, my helpers, went with me to the jordan; Hibil and Šitil and Anuš went with me to the jordan - they who baptise with the great baptism of Life. Piriawis-Ziwa and Piriafil-Malaka give free movement<sup>3)</sup> to the limbs of my body!

I go down before these souls whom the Life delivereth and saveth, and protecteth these souls from all that is evil and from those who give nothing, but take away; and from those who lend nothing and

<sup>3)</sup> D.C. 53 pralia hindamia, D.C. 3 pralia handamia, M.L. prulia handamia. See also p. 17. The verb PRA (cf. פִּרַע "to break through", "to loosen") also means "cause to move or to flow". (See Pet. v. 17: 20; D.C. 36: no. 174 etc.) when used for the command to clear channels to the baptismal pool so that water may flow through it without obstruction.

(yet) are paid back; and from evil spirits which hasted yet did not arrive, and from liliths which fell down and did not arise.

Their hands fell (powerless) on their knees; their eyes were blinded and unable to see and their ears became deaf and unable to hear. In your names, Šilmai and Nidbai, and through the strength of Hibil, Šitil and Anuš, secure, seal and guard these souls who go down to the jordan and will be baptised, by the great seal<sup>1)</sup> of Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia, the healer, whose strength none can attain.

And Life is victorious!

[Recite until thou reachest (the words) "Piriafil, loosen the limbs" (etc.). And descend (into the water) up to a fourth of thy thighs. If thou art baptising a single soul, say "my body, and I go down before this the soul of N."

If there are several souls, recite as written (above), and at the place where it said "secure, seal and guard" say "secure, seal and guard this soul of N. and establish it" and then recite thy saying over the staff.]

In the names of Yusmir the First Vine, from whom Yawar took a staff of water and went to the bank of the jordan, covered, as it were, with radiance and clothed in light. Over it he pronounced secret sayings - these mystic names: "In the name of Yusmir-Yusmir, and of Sam-Mana-Smira; in the name of Hauran-Hauraran by which the first Yawar raised up 'uthras, flourishing Vines of life, in the jordan. By it (by its power) Hibil raiseth up living souls in the jordan, those worthy of the great Place of Light and of the Everlasting Abode. By it they will be established and raised up in the House of the Mighty Life. It will raise these souls who go down to the jordan and are baptised: they will behold the Great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.

[This saying is for the staff. Recite it over the olivewood staff and stick it into the jordan (-bed), then recite the baptism (al prayers.)]

I am secured and sealed, I, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, and these souls who are descending to the jordan and will be sealed by the seal of the Mighty Sublime Life, and by the great MA <sup>4)</sup> and the great YA and the great BAZ and by the great AZIZ and by the great AS and by the great ASIN and by the sea (of?) AS. Bound are (Magian) priests <sup>5)</sup>, slaughterers <sup>6)</sup>, priests who cut up victims,<sup>7)</sup> scorners, those who make evil signs and the seven mysteries which are in the sea. Every demon (exorcised) by name, every evil spirit by his appellation, every amulet-spirit and all idol-demons who raise their heads and show their countenances, lifting themselves in pride against the Sublime Being and directing their evil Eye <sup>8)</sup> towards these souls who are going to the jordan, shall be struck down and smitten by Yaha-Yaha and by Zha-Zha and by angels which were sent and come against them. Flee in fear before them! and before the glory which is mighty upon them. Depart in fear and avaunt! Seven walls of iron have been set around me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, with which Haiiašum, the first Kušta, surrounded himself.

And Life is victorious.

Avaunt! flee in fear all (ye) evil, restricting, wrathful spirits! Flee, begone, be vanquished and brought to nought before the glory and light of Manda-d-Hiia! Piriawis-Ziwa and Piriafil-Malaka have set moving <sup>3)</sup> the limbs of my body: I descend (to the jordan) before these stedfast, flourishing souls of the living <sup>4)</sup>. Šilmai and Nidbai, fly, approach, arrive! Bear ye witness to these souls who are going down to the jordan to be baptised. Ye four 'uthras, sons of light, Rhum-Hai, 'In-Hai, Šum-Hai and Zamar-Hai, be ye my witnesses on the great day of departure (from the body). Great Jordan of Life, I laud thee and adjure thee by 'Ušar-Nhura (Treasure-of-Light), the great solace and support of life, that thou givest no room to evil beings (who are) against these souls who go down into thee. Healing shall be theirs in the name of the Sublime (Strange) Life from worlds (of light). May Life be established in Its indwellings, and Life is victorious.

In the name of the Life!

ardent<sup>1)</sup> and life burst forth in the great glory which flameth therein, Life arose and founded its škinta above the Tanna.

The radiance waxed ardent, the Tanna dissolved. They opened the waters and Life was established by its own waters<sup>2)</sup>. Yur (brilliant light) established Yur: Life was increased in power by its own radiance and by the great glory which flamed in It.

And in the waters Life established living (creatures); above the the waters fruit appeared<sup>3)</sup> and a škinta was founded.

Thee do I invoke, great Jordan of Life, by (in the name of) Treasure-of-Light, the great support and solace of the Life, and by pure Yušamin<sup>4)</sup> who dwelleth upon the treasures of the waters and upon wellsprings of light; by Yusmir, the being who united with water; by Adatan and Yadatan who sit at the Gate of Life and seek spirits and souls in the Place of Light; by Šilmai and Nidbai who bear witness before the Great Life. Behold these souls who quit destruction for construction, (go) from error to truth and (leave) the abode of fear of the deity of the House (i.e. world) for the great Place of Light and the everlasting Abode!

If he to whom I speak listeneth and he to whom I call is established (in the faith) and is knit into the communion of Life and built into the great fabric of Reality<sup>5)</sup>, I will take his hand and be his saviour and guide to the great Place of Light and to the Everlasting Abode. If I speak to him and he hearkeneth not and call to him and he is not uplifted, he will be put to the question (tortured). (But) I shall not be put to the question, because of the Word of Truth (Kušša) and its uplifting by Yukabar. And Life is steadfast in its Dwellings, and Life is victorious.

¶[Then cry] "In the name of Life! Let every man whose strength enableth him and who loveth his soul, come and go down to the jordan and be baptised and receive the Pure Sign; put on robes of radiant light and set a fresh wreath on his head". [Here baptise the souls. And they shall descend behind thee and shall submerge three times. And thy staff shall be (rest) on thy left arm. Dip them with thy right hand, grasp them with thy left and place them between thee and thy staff and dip them under thrice and

When thou hast signed them, say, “N, son of N. <sup>2)</sup>), thou hast been signed <sup>3)</sup> with the Sign of Life and the name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḡ-Hiia were pronounced upon thee. Thou hast been baptised with the baptism of the great Bihram, son of the mighty (life). Thy baptism will protect thee and will be efficacious. The name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḡ-Hiia are pronounced upon thee!”

And give them three palmfuls of water to drink and say to them “Drink! and be healed and be strengthened! The name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḡ-Hiia have been pronounced upon thee”. Recite “Manda created me” over the myrtle-wreaths and place them upon their heads. <sup>4)</sup> When placing thy hand on their heads recite these secret names: “The name of the great mystic First Wellspring <sup>5)</sup> be pronounced on thee; the name of the great First Palmtree <sup>6)</sup> be pronounced on thee; the name of the great Šišlam be pronounced on thee; the name of the great ’Zlat be pronounced on thee; the name of the great Yawar be pronounced on thee; the name of Simat-Hiia be pronounced on thee; the name of the great Yukabar be pronounced on thee; the name of the Mana and its Counterpart be pronounced on thee; the name of the Great Mystery and the secret sayings be pronounced on thee; the name of the great first Shaq-Ziwa be pronounced upon thee; the name of Sam-Ziwa-Dakia, the Eldest, Beloved, great First (Being) be pronounced on thee; the name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḡ-Hiia be pronounced on thee.”

Then reach them (perform with them the rite of kušṭa <sup>7)</sup>). And he shall go up before thee (on to the bank). Then dip thy phial, fill it with water and give it to whoever standeth on the bank. Then dip

When thou recitest "Bound is the sea", "I am a perfected gem", "Avaunt, flee in fear", "Piriawis" and all as it is written, speak as written if there are two, three or many souls; but if only one soul say "the soul of N. who descended to the jordan and was baptised and received the pure sign." (And pay close attention to thy baptism.)

Manda created me, 'uthras set me up, radiance clothed me and light covered me: Haza-zban <sup>1)</sup> set the wreath on my head, mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, and on these souls who descend to the jordan and are baptised. Its tendrils shine and its perfume is sweet, for they (the tendrils) wither not nor do they come apart, and its leaves do not fall off.

And Life be praised!

[This is the set prayer for the baptism wreath. Recite it over the myrtle-wreath and place it on the heads of the souls that thou baptisest <sup>2)</sup>].

20

Blessed art thou, Outer Door, and blessed art thou, Everlasting Abode! Blessed are ye, great beings of radiance <sup>3)</sup> and mighty and powerful beings of light. Blessed, lauded and honoured be the 'uthras which dwell on the jordan! Jordan! be gentle towards these souls which have descended into thee! Let healing be theirs by virtue of the Word of Truth and its uplifting by Yukabar-Ziwa.

[This is the dedicatory prayer of the jordan. When thou hast extolled the jordan, if thou baptisest several souls recite as it is written; if only one soul, say "The soul of N. who hath descended into thee" and rise to the bank and recite "I rose up from the Jordan" <sup>4)</sup>.]

Bound (together) and sealed are these souls who descended to the jordan and were baptised. By Hauran-Hauraran, the out-thrust of the Great Life: by Its names, by Yufin-Yufafin and Sam-Mana-Smira; by Yusmir, vehicle of the First radiance; and by the being Yukabar, the (well-) equipped 'uthra; seal and guard these souls who descended to the jordan and were baptised, against the deities of the House, lest they gain dominion over them. (Protect them) from their devils and demons so that they shall not go near them nor harm them nor ruin them. Let all pains, diseases, afflictions and tumours be removed from them. Let all evil sicknesses and malignant curses of the body be removed and driven off, so that those who sit before Thee like men attainted<sup>3)</sup> shall stand up like clean men. And healing shall be theirs, those souls who went down to the jordan and were baptised.

[Recite these four "sealing" prayers, "When . . . was bestowed", "Secured and sealed" ". . . By 'Usar-Hiia" and the longer "Secured and sealed" with a loud voice to <sup>1)</sup> the souls whom thou hast baptised after thou hast given them pihta and mambuha. If (several) souls, recite as written; if a single soul, say "for this, the soul of N." Then make them stand and recite "Ye are set up and raised up".]

29

In the name of the Life!

Ye are set up and raised up into the Place of the Good. Established amongst manas of light are these souls which went down to the jordan and were baptised (and those) of our fathers and teachers and of our brothers and sisters who have departed the body and those who are still in the body. There, in the light shall ye be raised up.

And Life is victorious.

[Here recite "What did thy Father do for thee, Soul."]

Yea, Life! lo, Life! Life hath triumphed over this world
And Life is victorious.

[This is a baptism hymn. Set up (recite?) the hymns, and where it says "souls" recite as written, but if it is a single soul say "amongst manas of light, the soul of N. son of N. who went down to the jordan and was baptised and received the Pure Sign" and chant "What did thy Father do for thee, Soul" and recite the antiphonal hymn "How lovely are plants which the Jordan (planted)" and "Rightly did my baptiser baptise me", "Šilmai baptised me with his baptism", "The jordan in which we were baptised", "I rejoice in my priests" and chant other hymns: "Truly do I say to you", "To you I cry, men who have received the Sign, and explain", and "A disciple, a new one, am I who have gone to the jordan-bank"

Then recite the "Blessed and praised" of Šum (Shem) son of Noah and at the place where it says "a wreath from the Vine Ruaz" (say) "will be set on the heads of these souls who have descended to the jordan, been baptised and received the pure sign and who were called, established and sealed by this baptism, and (on the heads of) our fathers, teachers, and brothers and sisters who have departed the body and those who are yet in the body". Should it be a single soul whom thou hast baptised, say "the soul of N. who went down to the jordan and was baptised" and finish.

And recite "Good is the good for the good" and end. And offer up the Petition and say the Rahmia<sup>1)</sup> for the souls thou baptisest. Say "these souls who went down to the jordan and were baptised and received the pure sign." If it was a single soul, say "the soul of N. son of N. who went down to the jordan and received the pure sign."

And beware: from the beginning to this point recite all thy baptism(al prayers) with care, attention and knowledge. And again perform kušta with them<sup>2)</sup> and say to them "Kušta make you whole my brother-'uthras! The communion of the living hath been performed<sup>3)</sup> in the manner in which 'uthras perform it in their škintas<sup>4)</sup>. Fragrant is your perfume, my brother-'uthras, (for) within ye are full of radiance."

<sup>3)</sup> Lidzbarski takes laf for an imperative. The act of communion has, however, taken place when this is said.

<sup>4)</sup> Every act of devotion on earth is paralleled in the world of light, and the earthly cult-hut has its heavenly prototype.

And they shall say "Seek and find, speak and be heard!" and kiss their hands <sup>1)</sup>. If the souls be female or if the soul thou baptisest is one (woman), perform the kušta with them and say to them "Kušta heal thee and raise thee up. Thy kušta shall be thy witness and thine alms thy saviour. When they say "Seek and find, speak and be heard" and kiss their hands, then say to them "Your kušta shall be your witness and your alms shall be your saviour. Your prayer and praise will rise and obtain mercy for you. In the name of the Great Life; we have acted (according to) the goodness of the Great (Life). And we have arranged (all things?) according to Thy loving-kindness from beginning to end. We have called upon the great Jordan of Water of Life and upon the three hundred and sixty jordan in which Hibil-Ziwa was baptised<sup>2)</sup>". And he (H-Z.) said "Warn them, deliver them, save them and protect those souls which went down to the jordan, were baptised and received the pure sign from adultery, theft, black magic, from going to temples and worship in temples and from eating temple-food. And eat not of that which was killed by lion or wolf, or of anything disgorged or (found) dead. But immerse yourselves and purify yourselves. Manda-d-Hiia will be your helper, and your baptism will be efficacious." Then pray a prayer and Rahmia <sup>3)</sup> for thyself, and say "In the name of the Life! I worship the First Life and praise my lord Manda-d-Hiia and that great Presence of Splendour which emanated from Itself". Then recite "The First Life be praised! Truth make you whole! Ye are established and raised up" and transfer thy staff to thy right arm and end (the prayer). Then return it to thy left arm and recite the "Blessed and praised be Life" of Šum son of Noah. And sit <sup>4)</sup> and recite "Good is good for the good" and bend thy knee, sit, and pour out <sup>5)</sup> at "forgiving of sins" (be there for) "our forefathers" (etc.) "and the souls of Mandaeans, priests, ganzivri, treasurers, chief men <sup>6)</sup> and ethnarchs" in the "forgiving of sins". Then rise to thy feet, take the pihta and mambuha and recite the eight pihta prayers for the pihta and the two mambuha prayers for the mambuha. Dip the pihta in the mambuha and recite "The Life spoke and Life opened" for thy pandama and unfasten it. Eat thy pihta and drink thy mambuha and drink the rinsing-water <sup>1)</sup> and take a second rinsing and recite "Life is fulfilled" and "The (Great) Life dwelleth on those who love Him" and cast in thine incense at (the words) "Radiance goeth up to its place" and at the place where it says "will forgive those that love his name of Truth" he shall say "those souls who went down to the jordan, were baptised and received the pure sign, and Life is victorious". Then throw (water) beneath thy staff, recite "Good is the good for the good" and make the Petition and repeat the Rahmia for thyself. Perform the kušta with the šganda <sup>2)</sup> and when he goes down, recite "In radiance that is great am I immersed", slip aside thy pandama and honour thy crown <sup>3)</sup>.]

3I

Radiance goeth up to its place and Light to the Everlasting Abode. On the day that Light ariseth, Darkness returns to its place. The Forgiver of sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes will remit them for those who love his name of Truth, and for those souls who went down to the jordan, were baptised and received the pure sign. Consuming fire will consume thee <sup>4)</sup> and thy ministration will be (noted?) in the habitations. The fragrance of life riseth to the House of Life, and we (too) will rise up to the House of Life: we shall be with the victorious <sup>5)</sup>. It is our support, and our confidence is in life in the Place of Light and in the Everlasting Abode. Life is established and set up in its indwellings, and Life is victorious over all works.

is the baptism wherewith Adam the first man was baptised by Hibil-Ziwa when he breathed the pure mana into him and he got up, sneezed and lived.

And Adam questioned, and spoke, "Through the power of Hibil-Ziwa have I attained my end!"<sup>1)</sup>

Then Hibil-Ziwa arose, put on the seven vestments, and went to the jordan-bank. When Adam had placed the gauqa <sup>2)</sup> (and) fire before Hibil-Ziwa, Hibil-Ziwa twined a wreath for his staff and twined a wreath for Adam, then rose and went to the jordan and recited the prayer "Answer me, my father, answer me, for I have gone to the jordan in the strength of my father Yawar, and in the strength of Manda-d-Hiia a wreath hath been set upon the 'uthras."

Then he arose and recited "In the name of that First Being" for his crown and set it on his head, then recited <sup>3)</sup> "Life created Yawar-Ziwa", "Let there be light" and Manda created me" for the myrtle-wreath and set it beside the crown.

And he held the end of his stole and recited "Strengthened and enhanced is the great mystery of radiance, light and glory" over his pandama, folded his pandama over his mouth and recited "Incense that is fragrant, yea, for the First Life" and cast incense on the fire. And he recited "We have acknowledged," "Praises", "Thee, Thyself", "I sought to lift mine eyes", "The day that the jordan was bestowed on Sam-Smir", "I have worshipped and praised that Yawar-Ziwa" and "I am Yur son of Barit; in great radiance". And he held his stole and recited "I went to the jordan, but not I alone" up to the place where it says "give free movement to the limbs of my body; I go down," and he went down into the jordan up to a fourth of his thighs. And he recited "In the name of Yusmir, the First Vine" over his staff, and at the place where it saith "covered with radiance and clothed in light" he cast the myrtle-wreath over the staff and "clothed" it with his stole <sup>4)</sup>.

thrice over in the jordan. And he recited "I am a perfected gem", and "Avaunt, flee in fear" and splashed the water in the jordan at his right, his left and in front of him and recited "Piriawis" as written. Then he chanted a hymn and said to him "Any man who hath strength thereto and who loveth his soul, let him come and go down to the jordan, be baptised, receive the pure sign, put on robes of radiant light and set a fresh wreath on his head."

And Adam descended into the jordan and submerged himself thrice behind him (Hibil-Ziwa), who took him by the right hand transferred him to his left, placed him between himself and his staff, dipped him thrice and signed him thrice in the jordan.

And he gave him three palmfuls of water to drink and recited "Manda created me" over the myrtle-wreath and set it upon his (Adam's) head and pronounced the secret names over him.

(Then) he took his hand in kušta over the staff and made him go up before him.

(Then) he took water from the jordan into his phial and recited the hymn "At the waterhead I went forth" and "Blessed art thou, Outer Door", and recited "I rose up from the jordan, and a group (of souls) I met". And he came up out of the jordan and completed it (the hymn). And he took up the oil and recited "We have acknowledged the name of Life", "Precious oil art thou" and "Thou wast established, First Life" over the oil. Then he signed him thrice and made passes over him thrice, and at each signing he laid his hand on his (Adam's) head and repeated those names which he had pronounced over him in the jordan.

And he performed kušta with him. (Then) he took the pihta and recited the eight prayers for the pihta over the pihta and the two prayers for the mambuha over the mambuha. And he gave him the pihta so that he should eat and gave him the mambuha that he might drink, and he drank the rinsing (water) <sup>1)</sup>.

And he grasped his hand in kušta and seated him before him and recited the "sealing" prayers, "When a jordan of living water was bestowed upon Sam-Smir, the great Radiance of Life", "Bound and sealed", "By 'Ušar-Hiia" and the greater (longer) "Bound and sealed" and laid his hand upon him and stood and recited "Ye are set up and raised up", "What did thy Father do for thee, Soul?", "How lovely are the plants which the jordan planted and raised up",

“Rightly did my baptiser baptise me”, “Šilmai baptised me with his baptism and Nidbai”, “The jordan in which we were baptised will bear us witness”, and “I rejoice in my priests and Naṣoraeans who hearken to my converse”.

And he chanted the hymns “Truly do I say to you”, “To you I cry and explain” and “A new disciple am I who hath come to the jordan bank”.

And he read all the hymns and homilies unto their end and recited “Blessed and praised be Life” of Šum son of Noah and “Good is the good for the good”. And he recited “In radiance that is great am I immersed” and loosed his kanzala (stole) and “honoured” his crown <sup>1)</sup>.

And Life is victorious.]

[Then Hibil-Ziwa gave judgement and said “The Life hath anathematised and Manda-d-Hiia hath cried out against and the Great First Word hath pronounced against any man, priest, who performed a baptism without his pandama. He shall be accursed by the Name (Vein) <sup>2)</sup> of the Great Wellspring: Šilmai and Nidbai the guardian 'uthras of the jordan will curse him and the Wellspring and Palmtree will curse him. Yukabar will take away his crown and his seal and hurl him back to his natural home, the Place of Darkness. Moreover, before any Naṣoraeen who retains his pandama whilst performing a baptism, a vein of the Great Wellspring will heap up and all that he doeth will be confirmed. All mischances will avoid him and darkness will roll away from him. His vestments <sup>3)</sup> will be kept in our safekeeping. Whilst he is alive in his body the Seven will be powerless to loose fear against him and lofty strength will be sent to him.

When he departeth the body the clouds which precede 'uthras will come towards him and dread of purgatory-demons <sup>4)</sup> will be powerless over him (for) he will not pass through the Purgatories <sup>4)</sup>.

And Abatur will clothe him in his glory and all the 'uthras will shed their light upon him.

This is the limit <sup>1)</sup> (end) of the baptism which came to this world, the (baptism) wherewith Hibil-Ziwa baptised Adam the first man and it was preserved in the ages for the elect righteous, for it was written down in the scroll of the Great Wellspring belonging to Ramuia son of 'Qaimat. And Bayan-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar wrote it here and distributed it amongst a hundred Naṣoraeans, (copying) it from his own scroll which he copied from the scroll of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat. <sup>2)</sup>

It was written in the town of Ṭib and was placed with Haiuna daughter of Yahia, and Bainai son of Zakia.

Those who hold to it, (let them) expound it. (But) he who doth not establish it, let him keep away from it and not approach it.

And Life is victorious.]

Then said Yahia-Adam son of Sam-Saiwia, "When the scroll of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat found in the possession of Haiuna daughter of Yahia and Bainai son of Zakia came into my possession <sup>3)</sup> I put it together and arranged it as it was written originally, and removed nothing from it.

And Life is victorious.]

In the name of the Great Life may there be healing for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš!

Strengthened, enhanced was the great mystery of radiance, light and glory dwelling on the mouth of the First Life, for from It came forth Manda-d-Hiia (Knowledge-of-Life). For he knew and inter-

According to the Haran Gawaita it was the first settlement of the Naṣoraeans when they migrated from Harran under the protection of the Parthian kings. In the same manuscript, as in many other colophons, Ramuia son of 'Qaimat is mentioned as a liturgist who collected scattered texts, edited them and distributed them in early Moslem times.

In the name of the Life!

Water of Life <sup>2)</sup> art thou! Thou art come from the Place which is life-giving and art poured forth from the House of Life.

(At thy) coming, Water-of-Life, from the House of Life, the good come and refresh themselves, (but) the wicked are discomfited and the children of (this) world abashed and say "Is there (not?) room for us in the Place of Light? For those that seek (ask) of it find, and those who speak of it are heard".

We have sought and found and we have spoken and been heard in thy presence, Manda-d-Hiia, lord of healings. As water when poured out falleth on the earth, so (too) so doth evil fall abased before good. As the water falleth on the earth, so shall their sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes be loosed from those who love the name of Truth (kušta) and from the souls of this masiqta, and from (the souls of) our fathers, teachers, brothers and sisters who have departed the body, and those who (still) live in the body And say "Established is Life (or "the living") in Its (their) dwelling".

And Life is victorious.

[This is the mambuha prayer]

34

Hail <sup>3)</sup> to the First Life before Whom none existed, the Sublime from worlds of light, the Ineffable which is above all works; to the Ancient Radiance and the Great Primal Light, the Life which emanated from Life and the Truth that was of old, from the beginning. Hail to the life of sincere and believing men who have come to their end and departed the body, and hail to those who are still alive in the body. May the gate of sin be barred to them and the gate of light be open for them. May they be knit together in the communion of Life in which there is no separation.

Pray ye from there for us and we will pray from here for you. All fruits wither: all sweet odours pass away, but not the fragrance of Gnosis of Life, which cometh not to an end nor passeth away for an age of ages and for world without end. May the souls of this masiqta rise up without sin, trespass, folly, stumbling and mistake unto the Place of Light and to the Enduring Abode.

And Life be praised!

[Read this ordinance for the incense and cast it on the fire. Then recite the prayers for the masiqta.]

In the name of the Life!

I sought to lift my eyes, shoulders and arms towards the Place which is all life, radiance and glory, the place where which is all life, radiance, light and glory; a place where they who seek of it find, those who speak of it are heard and to those who ask of it, it is given them, day by day and hour by hour. This hour I address to thee, my Lord, Manda-d-Hiia, a vital petition, large and not small, for this congregation of people <sup>2)</sup> who have bent their knees to the ground and stretched forth their hands to the intermediate and upper (worlds). They have forsaken images, pictures and idols of clay, gods (made) of blocks of wood <sup>3)</sup>, and vain rites, and have testified to the name of the great, strange (sublime) Life. To them the gate of sin is closed and for them the gate of life is open. May our request, our prayer and our humble submission rise before the supreme Life which is above all works.

Before thee (in thy sight) all hands are thieving, all lips have lied. Water is in the jordan. Before thee (in thine eyes), Manda-d-Hiia, no man is clean: we are slaves who are all sin, and thou a lord who art all mercy. When thou art with us, who shall conquer us and if thou justifiest us who will convict us? Judge us not after the fashion of earthly courts of law; despise us not for our follies and associate us not with the false rites practised by the worlds and generations.

The worlds thrust hard at us, but we fell not. Backed by the Truth which is thine own, we have perfect confidence.

Establish life, and wilt thou not establish <sup>1)</sup> human beings? Thou hast spoken to us in thy Word and hast commanded us with thy command "Ask on earth and I will supply you with heavenly fruit: ask from below, (from) reed <sup>2)</sup>, swamp and mud, and I will supply you from the lofty heavens. Make supplication with the fleshly right hand, and I will bring you (what ye asked) with the right hand of kušta. <sup>3)</sup>

The first (generations) sought and found: let those that come after seek, and they will find. Seek and find for yourselves, for your friends, for your friends' friends and for those who love the great Family of Life. Your eyes shall not turn away from me unsatisfied." <sup>4)</sup>

Thou art the father of all the 'uthras, the Support <sup>5)</sup> which is all light, the Vine which is all Life and the great Tree which is all things. <sup>6)</sup> For Thou knowest hearts, understandest minds and searchest out consciences (even) in the nethermost hells of darkness. Like a servant lying prostrate before Thee, our eyes are lifted to Thee, our lips give Thee praise and blessing seven hours of the day and the three watches of the night.

Those who seek of Him find, and to those who ask of Him it will be given. For to him that standeth at a closed door Thou wilt open the closed door. In the Place of Light Thou wilt wipe away and remove from us our sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes and wilt cast them into the hells of the earth and the nethermost limbos of darkness. Thou wilt raise us up as sinless and not as guilty, as virtuous and not as vicious before thee, Manda-ḡ-Hiia.

The good behold and are refreshed: the wicked are discomfited and the children of (this) world abashed. And they say "Is there no place for me<sup>1)</sup> in the Place of Light, since those who seek therefrom find, and ask thereof and it is given them?"

We beseech thee to let some of thy radiance, thy light and thy glory rest upon us. Thou art the Healer above all means of healing, a Raiser-up above (all) that raiseth up, a Radiance above all radiancies and a light above all lights. For thou openest doors of truth and revealest mysteries and wisdom and showest forth mighty deeds in Jerusalem. Thou confinest demons and devils and frightenest away the gods from their high places. Great is thy name and praised is thy name! Thou art the counterpart of the Life, for thou wast in existence before all. Thou art the Vine, for thou wast in the Ether above heaven and above the earth. When worlds came into being and creations were called forth. thou didst hold in thy grasp the worlds and generations. Thou hast laid down a road for sincere and believing men to the Place of Life. (Though) spirits and souls sit (here) as guilty, (yet) by thy name they shall rise as innocent, (thy name of) Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia. To support the hands of good people, thou wilt be (bring?) healing of life to the souls of this masiqta Life is established in its indwellings and Life is victorious.

[This prayer is good for all occasions: (it may be used) on occasion for the Rahmia (daily office), or for the masiqta, or for baptism and for all purificatory rites. For the masiqta, after thou hast recited over the pandama, "water of prayer"<sup>2)</sup> and the ordinance for the incense, pray "We have acknowledged", "Praises", "To Thee", "Lifting eyes" and "I sought to raise my eyes". And prepare the pihta, mambuha and klila (wreath) and set them out for the masiqta. And recite the ordinance for the oil, (placed) in something clean: in a glass or tin cup when washed and cleansed. And recite the masiqta.]

In the name of the Life!

I worship, laud and praise that great, secret, First Mana who abode for nine hundred and ninety-nine thousand myriads of years alone in his own Abode - for no Companion came to him; (none existed) save that great, secret, First Mana. For he came into existence therein and developed therein.

Then I worship, laud and praise that great, occult, First Drop <sup>1)</sup> who emanated from Him. They existed, (but) She abode for four hundred and forty-four thousand myriads of years in Her own Abode, alone, for She had no consort

Then I worship, laud and praise Šar, that great occult first Vine, who was with them.

Then I worship, laud and praise Pirun, that great occult first Vine from whom there emanated eight hundred and eighty eight thousand myriads of 'uthras.

From Them and from those 'uthras proceeded one 'uthra, whose name is the Great Countenance <sup>2)</sup> of Glory who is (at once) less than his brethren and more venerable than his parents. Manda-d-Ḥiia, the well-prepared 'uthra, divulged and revealed and said "Any Naṣōraean man who sitteth to recite "Established is the First Life" and breaketh bread <sup>3)</sup> will receive condemnation from the House of Life,"

And I am established, in the light of Life and Life is victorious.

37

I worship, laud and praise that Occult, great First Cloud of <sup>4)</sup>

<sup>4)</sup> A Cloud is a spirit of life (female again, like a "Drop"). The word is used for a "divine consort", a "heavenly spouse". As priests are the earthly representatives of 'uthras and malhas, their wives are sometimes spoken of as "clouds" or "drops".

Life, with whom in secret, he <sup>1)</sup> broke bread and gave thereof in secret to the Occult Life and to the Mighty First Life.

38

I have worshipped and praised Yawar-Ziwa, who arose and praised that great mighty Mana at whose right and left hand there stand four hundred and forty-four thousand myriads of 'uthras. A thousand myriads of 'uthras, sons of light, worship and laud the rays of his Radiance.

He arose and broke bread in secret and gave thereof to the sons of men and establisheth his Abode in secret.

I worship, laud and praise that secret saying which Yawar pronounced secretly. He made it known, and divulged and established a Life-ray therein. Radiance and light came and dwelt at his right and glory and resplendence dwelt at his left. And the 'uthras entreated the Life that they might behold the Likeness of Yawar-Ziwa in their own <sup>2)</sup> glory.

Yawar-Ziwa the vigilant 'uthra divulged and revealed and said "Sixty-four sins daily will be forgiven a Naṣōraean man who repeats this secret saying, in the Great Place of Life and the Lasting Abode".

And Life is praised.

40

I have worshipped and praised 'Uṣar, who broke bread for the hidden first 'uthras, so that they (find) rest in their hearts.

The holy <sup>3)</sup> 'uthras stood in their dwellings <sup>4)</sup> and praise the mighty Life in its Dwelling, adorable in Its radiance and wondrous in Its light.

<sup>4)</sup> The various meanings of ṣkinta must be borne in mind: i.e. "dwelling" "indwelling", "shedinah" and "sanctuary" or "shrine" (as of the cult-hut and its precinct).

I worshipped and praised that supreme First Vine, for within it is its Sap: its leaves are 'uthras and its tendrils rays of light. 'Uthras sit in its shade. And within the great first Cloud of Light there came into existence, within the Treasure-of-Light there was generated, the Secret Mana.

41

I worshipped and praised Treasure-of-Light, the great Awaker (yawar) of Life, who broke bread in the Hidden and gave (thereof) to the Mighty First Life in Its Dwelling. I praised the seven mystic precious and preserved manas who derived existence from Their Place and were transplanted from Their Treasure-house. I worshipped and praised the mighty First Life that transported Itself from Its Place, transferred itself from its own Treasurehouse in which it came into existence, was developed, dwelt and was established; and (whereof) It discoursed and wherein It had gloried.

It praiseth and speaketh, "Every Naṣōraean who reciteth these secret sayings will seek and find, will speak and be heard seven times daily. And seven sins will be forgiven him in the great Place of Light and Eternal Abode.

42

I worship, laud and praise that first secret Word which Yawar imparted in secret. He expounded and explained it and established therein that which is living, Rays (of his light). And Yawar said "Enlightenment and praise have come to pass". And Yawar came and his glory rested upon his own škinta. Radiance and Light came and were established before him: Glory and Enlightenment came and dwelt at his right hand. And the 'uthras<sup>1</sup>) ask the Life to behold the appearance of Yawar-Ziwa in their (its?) radiance, and to commend the prayer and praise which they pronounced to Šilmai and Nidbai, the 'uthras who are the two messengers of Manda-d-Ḥiia Yawar hath said, "Every Naṣōraean who repeateth this secret prayer seven times daily, seven sins a day shall be forgiven him. And Life abideth in its Dwelling".

Life is victorious.

43

Thou, Manda-d-Hiia, hast established for thy chosen that which thou hast revealed to us from the book Nhur (Be light) and from Pta'ušra (They revealed treasure<sup>1</sup>) and from 'Ušar Nhura (Treasure of Light), a solace, a great support of life, that which shineth in light, the light of which enlighteneth.

It (Manda, gnosis) came into being, was revealed, fulfilled and went forth in strength abundant and became mighty by growth of knowledge<sup>2</sup>) It increased in radiance and was full of light which proceeded from the Counterpart(?) of<sup>3</sup>) Life, a wondrous counterpart!

Thereupon the worlds were ashamed, for none had seen its like, its brilliance or its glory.

Kušta standeth by his friends and Manda-d-Hiia by his chosen ones.

For thou hast chosen (us), hast taken us out of the world of hatred, envy and disputes and hast set us firmly on paths of truth and faith, so that we stand and praise the holy and guarded place. And he who partaketh of this bread (pihta), put out<sup>4</sup>) (for him) will be sinless in the Place of Light, the Everlasting Abode.

And Life is victorious.

[These are the prayers appointed for the pihta].

44

Biriawiš, source of living waters, first upsurging that sprang forth, great outburst of the radiance of all-abundant Life! (Be) life for the souls of this masiqta.

[This is the appointed prayer for the mambuha. If there are (several) souls, read as written; if one soul say 'for this the soul of N.']

45

Thy name, (O) Life, is excellent: its glory is great, its light abundant. Its goodness came over (or overflowed), inaugurating the First Mystery, life which proceeded from Life and Truth which existed before the beginning. This is a wellspring of life which sprang forth from the Place of Life: we drink thereof, of this Fount of Life which Life transmitted was established in the House of Life, which crossed worlds, came, cleft the heavens and was revealed.

Thou hast shown us that which the eye of man hath not seen, and caused us to hear that which human ear has not heard. Thou hast freed us from death and united us with life, released us from darkness and united us with light, led us out of evil and joined us to good. Thou hast shown us the Way of Life and hast guided our feet into ways of truth and faith so that Life cometh and expelleth darkness and goodness cometh and casteth out evil. (Like) the mingling of wine with water, so may Thy truth, thy righteousness and thy faith be added to those who love Thy name of Truth.

And Life be praised.

[This is the set prayer for the mambuga (sacramental drink). Make the pihta and the mambuha and place them (ready for) the masiqta, and then make the myrtle wreath.]

46<sup>1)</sup>

In the Name of Life!<sup>2)</sup>

The Light became light, the Light became light! The Light became the light of the First Life. Glory<sup>2)</sup> dawned<sup>3)</sup> and (there was)

1) Lidzbarski considers Prayer 5 so like Prayer 46 that he neither reproduces the text nor translates it. The priests, on the contrary, insist on a very exact pronunciation of the first words: (nhur nhura and nhar nhura) and say that there is a difference in meaning. In all the copies of the 'niania' the earlier pages and the last pages are those which become worn out most quickly, I am inclined to think that Prayer 46 is nearer the original version. However, whatever the variations in the text of the two prayers, they should be noted.

2) 'ruta'. I am reluctant to accept without reservation Lidzbarski's translation "Erleuchtung". The root could be 'R' as the 𐌸 would disappear: derivation from 'WR or AWR or unlikely.

3) Nihrai "it became light" "was light" is freely translated as "dawned".

praise of the Mana who came from his Place. He came (with) an ether-wreath, with benefits that are from the Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode. Yufin-Yufafin was the weaver of the wreath; she who brought it was 'Niṣbat'-Utria (She-planted i.e. was the mother of uthras). And he who set wreath on was 'It-Yawar-Ziwa (There-is-dazzling-Radiance) son of 'Niṣbat'-Utria: he brought it and set it on the head of the Mana, planted it (there) so that it was set up (thereon).

The wreath flames and the leaves of the wreath flame. Before the Mana there is radiance, behind the Mana there is light and glory, at either side of the Mana are radiance, brilliance and purity; and at the four corners of the heavens <sup>1)</sup> and on the seven sides of the firmament dwell silence, bliss and glory.

And Life is victorious.

Enlightened and enlightening are words of light to the souls of this masiqta. Sure, assured, <sup>2)</sup> armed and prepared, resplendent and beautiful (are they) when the wreath with its mysteries is set on the heads of these souls of this ascent (masiqta) to the great gate of Abathur's house. They will open to them the great gate of Abathur's house and will guard them by secret and watchful manas. <sup>3)</sup>

And Life be praised!

In the name of the Life!

Manda-d-Hiia went to the stars. His appearance <sup>4)</sup> loosed the bound (souls): he knit (them into?) the communion that is without parting and without limit or number, by his word which issued from him in that place. All the worlds were confounded: the works

<sup>4)</sup> In support of his translation "des (schönen) Aussehens" Lidzbarski adduces GR 10,6 and JB 110,3. I cannot bring myself to agree, for the stars here are enemies, far from admirable. True, in Syriac we get gabra hizua "a man (of handsome) appearance" in proof of GR and JB, but hizua both in Syriac and Mandaic has also the meaning "a vision", "appearance". The reference is to Manda-d-Hiia's (or Hibil-Ziwa's) descent to the planetary purgatories in which souls expiate sins committed on earth.

of the House <sup>1)</sup> were destroyed and there was security for sons of the Great Family of Life.

He planted his planting and descended to the earth, (where) the hand of Evil, of the Lord of the House, lay heavy upon them. And when wickedness oppressed them, they beheld his radiance, and some of the celestial fruits appeared to them, the strength and name of the Ineffable One Who is all light was revealed to them and some of His glory was communicated <sup>2)</sup> to them and Knowledge of Life (Manda-d-hiia) was revealed to all who love his name of Truth at the place which is wholly (inhabited by) those convicted of sin.

And when they beheld him, the lords of the worlds were confounded but did not, from their thrones, loose (the bonds of) the captives.

He passed by: the captives were freed. He loosed them from their sins and trespasses: yea, release from their bodies was made possible to them. And (as for) the lords of the House who looked on, their ranks were discomfited and they were unable to reach him. Yea, the name of Abathur was (set) over them and the name of Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia was fulfilled and revealed to those who love his name. And his name shall (aid) the souls of this masiqta: it will be his name.

And Life is victorious.

[This is the recitation appointed for the masiqta. Read it over pure oil in something (pure?) and place it before thee and then read the masiqta].

In the name of the Strange (Sublime) Life!

This, the glory and light of life, is to bring forth the spirit and soul from the body and to clothe the living soul in a living garment. Yea, she is solaced <sup>4)</sup> and liveth, the counterpart of Life, she that emanated from a . . . . . <sup>5)</sup> of Life, with the Outer Life, with Hauraran and Karkawan-Ziwa, with Treasure-of-Light, the solace

and great support of life, with life that emanated from the Life and with the truth which existed of old in the beginning. They live in their shecinahs, <sup>1)</sup> and the Great Light (abideth) in its purities.

When any human being departeth from his body, there come towards him seven godlike appearances <sup>2)</sup>, and each standeth by his own. And Šauriel the Releaser cometh - he who releaseth spirit and soul from the body. Up there, with those works, he standeth with the vesture of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḡ-Hiia which releaseth (the soul). And Hauraran and Karkawan-Ziwa remove from her that in her which is of the body, and she putteth on the dress of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḡ-Hiia. Garment on garment she putteth on, she arrayeth herself in robe after robe. When she weareth the vesture of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḡ-Hiia there, she laugheth, rejoiceth, leapeth for joy, danceth, exulteth and is overjoyed about the glorious splendour <sup>3)</sup> resting (upon her) and the glory that accrueth to her.

Onward she goeth in the vesture of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḡ-Hiia. The planets who are in their places were out of countenance on seeing it: they clenched their fists, beat on the forecourt of their breasts and say "Woe on (us) planets! for they (we) are powerless, but the works of Their hands are victorious!"

And they say "How beautiful is this radiancy, how steadfast this light, how lovely this glory and how wondrous this appearance!" And they ask "Who will clothe us with this radiance? Who will cover us with this light and who will shed on us this glory? And what is it that passeth before us in this guise? for it is fair, shining and bright: in this world nothing made can be compared to it!" And they exclaim "How good is Kušṭa to the good, and Manda-ḡ-Hiia to all his chosen, (those) who stand in their bodies and dedicate themselves to the name of the Life and to becoming (thus)!"

She goeth on in the vesture of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḡ-Hiia and they let those deeds of hers pass by and (escape) the hands of all the planets.

And on she <sup>4)</sup> went and reached Abathur's house of detention,

<sup>4)</sup> The narrative is here in the 1st. person "I went on" etc. but returns again to the original "she". I think it better to continue throughout in the 3rd. person.

(Abathur), the Ancient, Lofty, Holy and Guarded one. There his scales are set up and spirits and souls are questioned before him as to their names, their signs, their blessing, their baptism and everything that is therewith.

The soul of N. hath entered the House of Abathur and hath given her name, her sign, her blessing, her baptism and everything that is therewith!

The souls of our fathers were signed with the sign of Life and the name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḡ-Hiia was pronounced over them. They put them in the scales, putting in their deeds and rewards <sup>1)</sup> and weighed them. And the perfect went in (also), the spirit with the soul, but they took them out (for they were) clean. Radiance issued from the radiance of Abathur and clothed them and they brought light and covered them (therewith).

(Like them) she (the soul) put on garment on garment and robe over robe like the vestments of Abathur. There she laugheth, rejoiceth, leapeth for joy, danceth, exulteth and is overjoyed about the glorious splendour which resteth (on her) and accrueth to her <sup>2)</sup>. And she proceedeth in the vesture of Yuzataḡ-Manda-ḡ-Hiia and went on <sup>3)</sup> and reacheth the watch-house (house of detention) of four beings, sons of perfection, 'In-Hai, Šum-Hai, Ziv-Hai and Nhur-Hai <sup>4)</sup>. Each of these beings clotheth her with his radiance and each covereth her with his light. Garment on garment she putteth on, with garment after garment doth she clothe herself. When she puts on the vesture of the sons of perfection she laugheth, rejoiceth, leapeth for joy, danceth, exulteth and is overjoyed about the glorious splendour, the honour resting on and belonging to her.

She proceeded in the vesture of Yuzataḡ-Manda-ḡ-Hiia and went <sup>5)</sup> onwards and reached the Waters of Death <sup>6)</sup>. The waters covered her, (but) Radiance crossed over - his name abode in his škinta: honoured and chosen, he created <sup>7)</sup> himself - and said "Life, I am Thine, and for Thy name's sake came I forth from the world of

And Adatan and Yadatan hand her over to two 'uthras, to 'Ušar-Hai and to Pta-Hai who open the Door <sup>3)</sup> of Life, plant the plant of Life and establish the first counterpart of the House of Life. They raised her up beside the living <sup>4)</sup> they bring her in, in the likeness of Life they support her in the Place where radiance, like light, flameth. And the spirit <sup>5)</sup> of N. went and became of the same nature as the soul and was established in the House of Life.

And Life is victorious.

[Note. The following hymn reads like pure nonsense. Lidzbarski suggested that it had been mutilated and misunderstood: Das Stück besteht aus abgerissenden schwer verständlichen, wohl auch stark enstellten Sätzen. (M.L. p. 84, n.4)].

Rightly did the baptist baptise me (in the waters of?) Yaluz-Yaluz<sup>6)</sup> for their spring is Hammamulai <sup>7)</sup>. My name, Ksasar-Hamamulai is spoken, disseminated, guarded, hidden and pure. They (the waters?) knew the source from which they proceeded: its name was on the

<sup>5)</sup> "Of the same nature as the soul". Commentaries say that after purification the spirit unites with the soul "as one". (ATŠ No. 282 "the twain become, as it were, a single body").

sky, its glory on the earth. For upon treasure, in treasure, the Great Life existed and was fulfilled in Its glory.

I sit on a perfected garment <sup>1)</sup> and by the great fountainhead of Yukabar-Hiia, beneath a Vine which riseth above me. Praise-of-Life standeth before me. "Who will manifest himself and come and speak to me?" "I am he who is manifest, for I am great". The life that is beneath me is the Vine which riseth above me, Praise-of-Life standeth before me. This is my name and my sign which I received from waves of water and from treasures of radiance and from the great and lofty Mixing-Bowl (?).

And Life is victorious.

In the name of the Life!

I am baptised in the name of the Strange Life, the Sublime (Being) above all works. I am established in the name of Treasure-of-Light. Yawar from the House of Life revealed (himself?) and shone forth <sup>2)</sup>, establishing his counterpart, transplanting the Great Life in his light. The worlds thrust at us, but we fell not; backed by Thy truth, we have confidence. The first sprout hath burst forth - a ray <sup>3)</sup> of the great radiance of Life in its triumphs; Truth (kušta) and the great Source (kana) <sup>4)</sup> of its glory.

52

Whose son am I? (Of?) the guarded Mana, who is Yusmir, the First Great Radiance, son of the great Primal Life, who pondered and went forth seeking His own, that which came from Him. The congregation of souls, on the last day, when departing from their bodies, rejoice in Him, embrace Him and rising up, behold the outer ether and the enduring Abode and praise the Great Life in Its light.

Yukašar chose her that passeth (crosseth) over <sup>5)</sup>; he chose her, called her forth and established her. He clothed her in radiance ineffable and brought light abounding and covered her therewith. He raised her up to the Great Place of Light and the everlasting Abode, and in his own škinta his (the dead man's) soul was assigned (a place) and found rest in his treasure.

Living waters (water of Life) from the House of Life burst forth (in splendour <sup>6)</sup>) and (like them?) shall shine forth the souls who are

<sup>4)</sup> Hamra (wine) is made just before the masiqta by macerating four raisins in a bowl of water.

called upon, raised up and signed <sup>1)</sup> in this masiqta, (the souls of) our fathers, teachers, brothers and sisters who have departed the body, and of those who still live in the body. They shall rise upward on a smooth road and by the path of the perfect, shall behold the Place of Light and the everlasting Abode and be established by Him who opened (revealed) the great first light.

55

The Great Life spoke and revealed (opened <sup>2)</sup>) with His mouth, in His own radiance light and glory.

And Life be praised.

[This is for the loosing of the pandama. Recite this "Yukašar chose her who passeth over" over the "water of prayer" and wine when they are mingled together. If it is for (several) souls that he has recited read as written, but if for a single soul say "the soul of N. shall be awakened" <sup>3)</sup>. And say "The Great Life spoke and opened with His mouth" and part thy pandama, eat thy pihta and drink thy mambuha. And recite "The living water shone forth in its place" then rise, and read one prayer after another until the (prayer) "Yukašar chose her that passeth over" hath been offered up.]

56

In the name of the Life!

Living waters shone forth (in splendour) in their škinta. The robes of <sup>4)</sup> the good were resplendent in their place. The great Mana was dazzlingly bright in <sup>5)</sup> His glory. So (too) shall these living, (brightly) shining, steadfast and vigorous souls shine in splendour in the great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.

[This is a prayer of dedication for the "water of prayer"]

<sup>2)</sup> Priests associate this short verse with the opening up of the pandama for the sacramental eating and drinking. This rite is, according to tradition, an "opening of the mouth" of the dead, as the celebrant acts as the proxy of the deceased. Cf. the Babylonian pit pi.

57

Fragrant incense riseth to its place and Thou, Life, be victorious! The Forgiver of sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes will forgive all those who love his name of Truth (kušta) and (likewise) the soul of N.

And Life is victorious.

[A dedication prayer for the incense]

58

In the name of the Life!

Praised be the First Life, praised be the Word of the First Life: praised be that radiance, light and glory; praised be that Light which is boundless and endless and none know when it came into being. Praised be the Lord of Greatness<sup>1)</sup> and praised be all the 'uṯhras that stand to the right and left of the Lord of Greatness and praise the Lord of Greatness. Praised be my father Yawar, praised be all the 'uṯhras who stand and praise my father Yawar. Praised be that great first Jordan in which the First Life was baptised. Praised be all jordans of living water: praised be the fruits, grapes and trees which stand by them. Praised be all the mighty and lofty worlds of light; praised be all those sanctuaries (škinata) of the Hidden<sup>2)</sup> for in each and every škinta sit a thousand thousand 'uṯhras, ('uṯhras) without end, and the myriad myriad sanctuaries that are countless. Praised are those thousand thousand 'uṯhras without end and the myriad myriad sanctuaries beyond count.

Praised be all those banners of radiance, light and glory unfurled before them which give them light. Praised be the great gate of the House of Abathur; praised be all 'uṯhras who stand before Abaṯhur and praise him. Praised be the three hundred and sixty scales which are set up before the ancient Abathur; praised be that first great Scales that was set up before Abathur the Ancient. Praised be that great occult Drop from which he proceeded. Praised be all 'uṯhras who sit upon thrones of rest and recite ordinances and masiqtas and secret prayers. Praised be those recitations, masiqtas, and secret prayers in which the Great (Life) is praised. Praised be those priests<sup>3)</sup> who sit with them.

Praised be all mountains of radiance, light and glory; praised be all roads and paths of light.

First Life! Lift up Thine eyes upon these souls called upon, raised up and signed in this masiqta and (the souls of) our father, brothers and sisters who have departed the body, and of those who still tarry in the body. Deliver them, save them and protect them from this world of the wicked and from those watch-houses (purgatories). Let thy mercy, Great First Life, rest upon them. And ye shall say "Life is established in its indwellings".

And Life is victorious.

[This is an offering-up of supplications. It is the dedicatory prayers of the masiqta. Pray "We have acknowledged", "Praises", "Thee, Thyself", "Raising eyes" and "I sought to raise my eyes". If thou recitest for (several) souls read as written, if it is one soul say "Lift thine eyes upon the soul of N"].

59

Life is fulfilled in its own glory and the Great Light established by its victories.

[This is the prayer offered up for the pihta].

The Great Life dwelleth in those that love Him, and His devotees dwell in the Great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.

And Life be praised!

[This is the dedicatory prayer for the mambuha.]

An earthly wreath fadeth, <sup>1)</sup> but the wreath of Life is fresh and living <sup>2)</sup>. The wreath of an elect righteous man is set and shineth on the heads of those who love the name of Truth (kušta). The wreath is from the world of light and the robe from the Everlasting Abode. The ether-wreath is set, with its purities <sup>3)</sup>, and shineth on the heads of these souls of this masiqta.

And Life is victorious.

[This is the prayer put up for the wreath of a masiqta. If thou recitest for several souls, read as written, but if for a single soul say "on the head of this soul of N."]

62

The worlds glisten (with costly) oil, but Naṣōraeans shine with the radiance of Life.

63

In great radiance am I immersed and in steadfast light am I established. Manda <sup>1)</sup> baptised me, Kuṣṭa confirmed me. A letter, communication (communion) and purity came to me from the House of Life. Its fastening is water, its wreath is light, its weapon the living word, and its seal the chosen, pure one <sup>2)</sup>. Every man who openeth it and readeth therein shall live, shall be whole and his name will be set up in the House of Life, in the name of the great Sublime Life from worlds (of light?).

[This is the prayer offered up for the masiqta oil.]

64

The Life dwelleth in its own radiance and light.

And Life be praised!

[This is the confirmation of the (prayer) "Yukašar chose her who passeth over". Here recite "Ye are set up and raised up" and the masiqta-hymns.]

65

Ye are set up and raised up into the Place where the good are established amongst manas of light, the souls called upon and raised up and signed by this masiqta and (the souls of) our fathers, our teachers, our brothers and our sisters who have departed the body, and of those who are(still) living in the body. Your manas shall be set up in the Light and ye will be established in the Light.

66

In the name of the Life!

I am crowned with a wreath <sup>3)</sup> and lay me down <sup>4)</sup>

In a dress in which there is no blemish.
 No spot is there in the dress,
 Nor is there aught missing or lacking in it.
 The Life knew about me.
 Adam, who slept, awoke;
 He grasped me with the palm of his right hand
 And gave (not?) into my hand a palmbranch. <sup>1)</sup>
 Light cast me into darkness,
 But the darkness was filled with light.
 The day that light ariseth,
 Darkness returneth to its place.
 The souls of this masiqta
 Approach a cloud <sup>2)</sup> of light.
 Their journey is to the Place of Light.
 And Life be praised.

[This is a masiqta hymn]

67

With him, with the Deliverer <sup>3)</sup>
 The souls of this masiqta will ascend.
 They will behold the Place of Light
 And the Everlasting Abode.
 On their road the Seven will not detain them,
 Nor will the Judge of the False question them.
 The Life will count you in His reckoning
 And the good will set you up in their midst.
 To the place to which the good go they will guide you
 And in the place in which they stand they will set you up;
 Lamps of radiance are found before you,
 Beams of light behind you.
Kušta will come at your right
 And Piety will smoothen your path.
 For you there will be loosings <sup>4)</sup>
 From here to the Everlasting Abode.
 For the ferry which ferries over the Elect
 Will set out towards you and take you across.

(Then) from Abathur of the Scales
 A saviour will come forth towards you.
 The saviour that cometh towards you
 Is all radiancy and light from head to foot
 Like the wreath in his right hand.
 And on his two arms is a robe.
 Bestir yourselves! Put on your robes!
 Put on your living wreaths, gird on your girdles
 In which nothing is awry or blemished.
 Above your head there will be fruit,
 And there, at your time and season
 Your manas will be set up in the Light.
 Your manas in the Light will be set up.
 (So) rise up, behold the Place of Light!
 And Life is victorious.

68

Between the Hidden and the Radiance,
 Between Light and the 'uthras,
 Between the Hidden and the Radiance
 Stand those who question the soul,
 Saying to her "Speak! say, soul,
 Who constructed thee? who was thy Builder?
 Who built thee and who was the Being, thy Creator?"
 The soul spoke and said —
 The edified, well-constructed soul spoke —
 And saith to the Being who questioneth her,
 Said to him, "My father, One built me, One constructed me".
 One was the Being who transplanted me;
 One of the sons of salvation in his goodness
 Took (accepted) his lot (duty).
 He folded me in a wrapping of radiance,
 Took (me) and gave me over to Adam.
 Adam, in his simplicity, whilst he knew not nor understood,
 Took and cast me into a physical body <sup>1)</sup>;
 Took me and cast me into a physical body
 That is all sour and bitter fluids and decaying substances <sup>2)</sup>.

(There) the soul remaineth and waiteth in the hostel of the body
 Which he had bequeathed her: sitteth and watcheth over it
 Till its measure and count were accomplished.
 When its measure and count were accomplished
 The Deliverer came to her <sup>1)</sup>;
 To her came the Deliverer
 Who loosed her and bore her away:
 (Yea), he who had bound her, who had loosed the soul,
 Went before her whom he had bound.
 Coming behind him, the soul hastened
 Reached <sup>2)</sup> her Deliverer, ran (after) him
 Who had bound her to her dwelling.
 The soul and her Deliverer (go):
 Her course is to the Place of Light,
 To the place whose sun goeth not down,
 Nor do its lamps of light grow dim.
 To it, and to that place, those souls
 That are called upon in this masiqta
 And signed by this sign, are summoned and invited.
 They shall behold the great Place of Light
 And the abiding Abode.
 And Life be praised.

69

Bliss and peace there will be
 On the road which Adam attained:
 Bliss and peace there shall be
 On the road which the soul traverseth.
 The soul hath loosed her chain and broken her bonds;
 She hath shed her earthly garment. <sup>3)</sup>
 She turned round, saw it and was revolted
 She uttered an evil curse on the being
 Who had clothed her in the body.
 She provoked the Framer-of-Bodies, she roused him
 From the lair in which he lay. She said to him,
 "Rise up, look, Framer-of-Bodies;

The hollow of thy hand is filled with water!"
 The voice of the Framer-of-Bodies (is heard)<sup>1)</sup>,
 Who howleth and weepeth for himself
 And saith "Woe is me that the hollow of my hand
 Is filled with water!" And to her he saith
 "Go in peace, daughter of the free, whom
 In the house of evil ones they called handmaiden.
 Go in peace, pure pearl that was transported
 From the treasuries of Life;
 Go in peace, fragrant one who imparted
 Her fragrance to the stinking body.
 Go in peace, radiant one, who illumined
 Her dark house. Go in peace,
 Pure and chosen one, immaculate and spotless!"
 Flying, the soul went
 Until she reached the House of Life:
 She arrived at the House of Life.
 'Uthras went forth towards her,
 Saying to her "Take and put on thy robe of radiance
 And set on thy living wreath!
 Arise, dwell in the škintas,
 The place where 'uthras abide, conversing;
 And Life is victorious and triumphant is Manda-q-Hiia
 And lovers of his name".
 And Life be praised!

70

Blessed and praised be Life
 Who is filled with compassion for these souls.
 Praised be thou, my lord, Manda-q-Hiia,
 For thou raisest up these souls and dost not condemn them.
 Praised be thou, pure Yušamin,
 For thou wilt give them thy helping hand.
 Be ye praised, Šilmai and Nidbai,
 For ye will give true witness concerning them.
 And be ye praised, Hibil, Šitil, and Anuš
 For ye will ransom them from the House-of-Dues
 And from Abathur of the Scales!

For toward you will go forth a messenger,

And the messenger who goeth toward you
 Is all radiance and light from head to foot.
 In his right hand a kind of wreath
 And on both his arms a robe.
 Up! put on your robes, set on your living wreaths!
 Gird on your girdles that are flawless and faultless!

Above your heads there will be fruit,
 And your lamps will hang amongst lamps of light
 And will shed light.
 The Lord of Tolls will not confront you
 Nor will lying judges put you to the question.
 They will bring you liberating words <sup>1)</sup>
 From here unto the Everlasting Abode,
 The building that was built for you in the House of Life,
 Will not come to nought in an age of ages!
 And may some of Manda-d-Hiia's radiance and light
 And the revivifying-breath of Life <sup>2)</sup> rest upon us!
 Blessed is the Voice of Life
 And praised be the great Beam which is all light.
 And Life be praised.

[After thou hast recited "The Life dwelleth in its own radiance and light", "Ye are set up", "I am crowned with a wreath and lay me down", "With him, with the Deliverer", "Between the Hidden and the Radiance", "Bliss and peace there will be", "My vigilance and my praise giving", "Go in peace, Pure Chosen one", "Well, well is it for thee, soul" and the other hymns, as many as thou art able, then recite the "Blessed and praised is Life" of Shem son of Noah.

If thou readest for (several) souls, read as it is written, but if only for one soul, say "The soul of N." and pay attention, with all watchfulness, clearness of mind and studious attention and recite "Good is the good for the good"; perform kušta <sup>3)</sup> with one another and recite "In great radiance am I immersed".

And pray a prayer for yourselves and make pihta and mambuha

<sup>3)</sup> Just as in the Eastern Church the Pax marks a stage in the ritual of the mass, so in Mandaean rites the kušta is performed after every stage of a rite.

for yourselves <sup>1)</sup> and eat your pihta and drink your mambuha And offer up the prayer "Good is the good for the good", perform kušta <sup>2)</sup> with one another for yourselves and (then) honour <sup>3)</sup> your crowns. And Life is victorious.]

71

In the name of the Life!
 Blessed and praised be the Life!
 Blessed and praised be the name of Life in the Place of Light!
 Blessed and praised art thou, my lord, Manda-ḡ-Hiia;
 Thou and thy strength, thy radiance, thy light, thy glory and thy help.

Praised art thou, my father Yušamin the Pure,
 Son of a transplanting of the mighty Life.
 Praised art thou, Second Life, Life that is from Life.
 Praised are ye, Šilmai and Nidbai, guardian 'uthras of the jordan.
 Praised are ye, Nṣab and Anan-Nṣab.
 (Praised are) <sup>4)</sup> our fathers Hibil, Šitil and Anuš
 The name and chief of the whole race.
 Praised art thou, Lofty Abathur;
 Blessed and established is the great škinta in which thou sittest.
 Praised are ye four beings, sons of Perfection, who go to meet the good;
 Go forth to meet the good and clothe the good with robes.
 Praised art thou, Earth of Light and blessed and praised Those who dwell in thee.

Blessed art thou, Road of the great <sup>5)</sup>, path of the perfect
 And track that riseth up to the Place of Light.
 Blessed art thou, Naširutha <sup>6)</sup> from whom the elect learn;
 From thee learn the elect, and deal out reward <sup>7)</sup> and pious gift <sup>8)</sup>

They deal with reward and pious gift and rise up and behold the Place of Light.

Praised art thou, Jordan of living water, for from thee we obtain purity;

We obtain purity from thee and receive the pure sign.

My fathers beheld the Life and my teacher the Place of Light.

The 'uthras of light are victorious,

And victorious Abathur and the sons of Perfection

Who stand, praising the Life.

Enlargement <sup>1)</sup> of life there shall be for the believing

Who have departed out of our midst;

The believers, the poor, the lowly and priests.

And my lord Manda-d-Hiia will lend them his helping hand.

Thankfully received are the good gifts <sup>2)</sup> (tabuta) of life,

The good gifts of life and of knowledge of life,

The pihla <sup>3)</sup> that . . . . at the name of the Life.

For any man who giveth an oblation,

His oblation will be his helper: elect and perfect men

Who bestow oblations will rise by Kušta's path.

To them <sup>4)</sup> it shall be given.

Of the Ether-wreath they twisted them a wreath

Of speech and hearing, of joy, purity, goodness and greatness.

A wreath from the Vine Ruaz He will set on the heads

Of those souls called on, signed, and raised up by this masiqta;

(And the souls of) our fathers, our teachers, our brothers and our sisters, of those who have departed the body and those who are yet in the body:

(A wreath like that) set on Its head by the Great (Life)

And by the Great (Life) given to 'uthras

And given by 'uthras to their priests.

Healer, whose medicine is water, come!

Be thou a healer to thy devotees,

To thy devotees be thou a healer

<sup>3)</sup> I am still of the opinion that pihla here refers to the phallus which, on the table of oblation is modelled in dough and represents the male principle of creation. The meaning of the verb depends on that of pihla,

And to him that giveth oblation be thou a helper:
 On him whom thou hast healed, do thou,
 My lord, bestow soundness.
 Behold him who standeth before thee and condemn him not.
 My Lord, High King of Light, Revealer
 Whose eyes are uncovered, seeking justice
 And enacting justice for those who love it,
 Do justice on those who persecute us,
 Those persecutors who pursue us,
 And on the wicked and furious ones
 Who scheme to work evil upon us.
 If it please Thee, High King of Light,
 Look on us and condemn us not!
 Behold these souls who believed in Thee
 And for Thy name's sake stood by on earth
 And were persecuted. Show us pure ether-air
 So that we may forget earthly persecution,
 That we may forget the persecution of earth
 And the vexation of the wicked and liars.
 Strengthen our insight, our voice, our vigilance and our praise!
 Thereby the Great Life communed with thee
 And set thee up completely(?) <sup>1)</sup> with His radiance
 And His light, Manda-d-Hiia!
 And may the vivifying-power <sup>2)</sup> of Life rest upon us.
 My elect, ye shall say "Blessed be the Voice of Life
 And praised be the great Beam which is all light!"
 And Life be praised!

[This is the "Blessed and praised be the Life" of Shem son of Noah. Afterwards, read here "Blessed and praised be Life" of the souls, and then recite "Good is the Good for the good".]

72

those who love His name. We will seek and find, speak and be heard. We have sought and found, have spoken and been heard in thy presence, my lord, Manda-d-Hiia, Lord of all healings.

Forgive him <sup>1)</sup> his sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes and (those of) him who furnished this bread, masiqta and (ritual) food <sup>2)</sup>. My lord, Manda-d-Hiia and (Thou) Great First Life, forgive the sins trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes of the donor(s) of fee and oblation, and their wives, children, their priests and those who placed (brought) this bread and food; (likewise) you, my parents, teachers, instructors and preceptors when ye support from the Left to the Right. <sup>3)</sup> And ye shall say "Life be established in Its Dwellings and Life be praised; Life is victorious over all works.

[Recite this "Good is the Good for the good" when thou readest a masiqta. When thou performest a baptism recite it, when thou distributest oil recite it, when thou recitest the Rahmia ("Devotions" <sup>4)</sup> recite it, and after the Rahmia. And recite it when thou partakest of the (ritual) dish. <sup>5)</sup>

And Life is victorious.]

In the name of the Life!

A sealed letter which leaveth the world —

A letter written in good-faith (kušta)

And sealed with the seal of the Mighty (Life) —

Righteous men wrote it, believing men tied it on <sup>6)</sup>,

And suspended it about the soul's neck

And despatched it to the Gate of Life.

The soul, in her wisdom,

Pressed her nail on the letter,

Her nail she pressed on the letter;

She imbued it with her mystic radiance,

Wrapped it and veiled it in her light.

How came it that Daium saw

That the soul bore a letter?

How was it that Daium<sup>1)</sup> saw it
 As her seven sons gathered about her
 And said "Who hath written the letter
 Whose secret no man knoweth?
 Who wrote the letter that is sealed in
 By these protective<sup>2)</sup> strands?"
 The letter is written in good faith,
 And sealed with the seal of the Mighty(Life).
 Righteous (men) wrote it, believing men tied it on
 And hung it about the neck of the soul
 And despatched it to the Gate of Life.
 The soul flieth and goeth until she hath reached
 The watch-house of the Seven.
 The Chief-of-Dues, when he saw her,
 (And) the Governor<sup>3)</sup>, when they saw her, Murmur discontent<sup>4)</sup> and say
 "Who hath written the letter
 Whose secret no man knoweth?
 Who wrote letter that is sealed
 By these protective marks?"
 "The letter is written in good faith
 And sealed with the seal of the Mighty (Life).
 Righteous (men) wrote it;
 Believing men tied it up
 And hung it about the neck of the soul
 And despatched it to the Gate of Life".
 The soul flieth and travelleth on Until she reacheth spirits of Purgatory<sup>5)</sup>.

<sup>2)</sup> Miṣra has a double meaning here, and in my translation I have tried to convey both. In general miṣra is a line traced about a sacred or untouchable thing or area. It isolates that which it contains from contact. In ritual, it refers to the furrow drawn about a purified area, which is purified by water, in much the same way as the Parsi priest pours water into the protective gutter (pavi) round a sacred area. The ceremony of "the Letter" is protected by such water-containing furrows. Miṣra (Aramaic מִסְרָא) could also mean a rope, "a twisted cord".

The spirits of Purgatory abased their heads
 And the soul passed the purgatory-spirits by.
 The soul flieth and goeth
 Until she came to the waters of death.
 As she reached the waters of death
 There came forth towards her
 A great Beam <sup>1)</sup> of radiance (and) of life, (who)
 Grasped her by the palm of her right hand
 And brought her over the waters of death <sup>2)</sup>.
 The soul flieth and goeth
 Until she reacheth the House of Life.
 When she reached the House of Life
 She uttered a cry to the House of Life,
 And when He heard her call, the Life
 Sent a messenger towards her,
 (Who) grasped her by the palm of her hand,
 Conducted her, (came) to support her
 In the likeness of the Life to the place
 Of radiance, light and beams of effulgence <sup>3)</sup>;
 To unite her to (the company of) 'uthras
 And to set her up amongst beams of light <sup>4)</sup>.
 Upon her head they placed a wreath of ether
 And took her out of the world in splendour.
 Life supported life: Life found Its own:
 It hath found Its own, and my soul hath found
 That for which she hoped.

And Life is victorious.

In the name of the Great Life!

Health and victory be mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš.

When thou wishest to administer unction to anyone leaving the body (dying), say "In the name of the Great Life, union and renewal of life and forgiving of sins be there for this soul of N. son of N. of this "Letter and masiqta". And bring a clean new bottle never before used, press out pure oil and place in it. When enough, twine a wreath of myrtle about the bottle. And set it before thee and recite for thy crown "In the name of that First Being" and set thy crown on thy head. And recite beside thy crown "Life created Yawar-Ziwa", "Let there be light", and "Manda created me" for thy crown. And recite "Strengthened and enhanced is the great mystery of radiance, light and glory" and bind thy pandama over thy mouth.

And take the phial into thy hand and recite "Water of Life art thou" over the bottle. And recite "Hail to the First Life" for the incense and cast incense on the fire and recite "We have acknowledged", "Praises", "To Thee" and "Raising my eyes"; and the bottle shall be in thy hand. And recite "I sought to raise eyes" and at the place where it says "wilt wipe away and remove from N. his sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes and cast them into the hells of earth and into the nethermost Abaddons of darkness and wilt raise him up as guiltless and not as guilty and as virtuous and not as vicious before thee, Manda-ḡ-Hiia. With thy radiance thou wilt clothe him and with thy light thou wilt cover him, and wilt set thy living wreath on his head, (the head of) this the soul of N." And take care that thou redest to the end with attention!

And recite the eight prayers for the pihta over the bottle and the two prayers for the mambuha over the bottle and recite over the myrtle wreath "The Light became light", "Enlightened and enlightening" and place the bottle on his head. Recite "Manda-ḡ-Hiia went to the stars: his appearance loosed" over the bottle and take with thy forefinger some oil from the mouth of the bottle and recite "(In the name of the) Strange (Sublime) Life, this, the glory and light of Life" and at the place where it saith "to send forth spirit and soul" say "of N.". and where it saith "And Šauriel the Releaser cometh, who releaseth spirit and soul" say "of N." and at "everything that is therewith" sign the mouth of the bottle; and at "the house of Abathur" sign the mouth of the bottle. And where it saith "the spirit of N. went and became like the soul and was raised up into the House of Life and Life is victorious" sign the mouth of the bottle. And recite "Truly did my baptiser baptise me", "I am baptised in the name of the Life", and "Whose son am I? Of the guarded Mana", cover the bottle with the clay and take thy seal-ring with three of thy fingers - thy thumb and the finger next thy thumb and the little finger - and recite "The sealed letter which leaveth the world" and at the place where it saith "a letter written in good faith and sealed with the seal of the Mighty (Life)", seal with thy ring and the nail of thy little finger. And until the end let thy seal and the nail of thy little finger rest in the clay. And recite "Bound and sealed are the spirit and soul of N. with the seal of Kuṣṭa and the great safeguard of strength in the word of Kuṣṭa and the raising-up of Yukabar-Ziwa".

And lift thy seal-ring, thy nail and thy little finger from it and set it before thee and recite "Praised be the First Life" and at the place where it says "Lift thine eyes" say "upon N.". And thy pandama must be over thy mouth. And recite "Ye are set up and raised up in the place where the good are established amongst manas of light" (insert) "the soul of N. is established in that place".

And (recite) "I am crowned with a wreath and lay me down",

“With Him, with the Deliverer”, “Between the Hidden and the Radiance”, “Bliss and peace there will be on the road which Adam attained”, “My vigilance and praise”, “Go in peace, chosen, pure and guiltless one in whom there is no spot”, “The Mana rejoiceth in his treasures”, “Well is it for thee, well is it for thee, soul that departest from the world”, “Sunday, and Kušta and Oblation”, “I am provided and provisioned”, “He rose and took me up with him”, “The day that the soul goeth forth” and “Ye are set up and raised up, my Chosen”.

And recite the “Blessed and praised be Life” for the souls and here recite the “Blessed and praised is Life” of Shem son of Noah. And where it saith “To you it shall be given, of the Ether-wreath” say “to N. son of N.” (it shall be given).

And recite “Good is the good for the good”; ask mercy for him and remit his sins and his trespasses. And give it to him to whom thou givest it and grasp in kušta the hand of him who holdeth (the hand) of the dying person and say to him “This kušta which I entrust<sup>1)</sup> to thee, do thou convey it to Abathur”<sup>2)</sup>.

If it is urgent to carry him away, bestir thyself (hurry) when thou recitest “The sealed Letter which leaveth the world” and “Bound and sealed are the spirit and soul of N.”. Give him that which thou givest him, and take in kušta the hand of him who taketh (the hand of ) the dying person and say to him “This kušta I speak to thee do thou speak it to Abathur”. Thy pandama must be over thy mouth. Then thou shalt recite “The First Life be praised”, “Ye are set up and raised up.” and (so on) till the “Good is the good for the good”, just as I tell thee.

Offer up for him the devotional prayers, hymns and the “raising” (prayers) of the masiqta<sup>3)</sup> from beginning to end. And be careful (to insert) the name of him to whom thou didst administer the oil. Let nothing be lacking and recite with attention and care.

And Life is victorious.

Then, when thou holdest thy pandama over thy mouth, pray for thyself. Make pihta and mambuha for thyself, recite “The Great Life spake and opened Their mouth” and eat thy pihta and drink thy mambuha. And recite “Life is full”, and “The Great Life dwelleth” for thyself and recite “Good is the good for the

And beware, beware and beware lest thou begin any of the "loosing prayers" <sup>1)</sup> without thy panđama. (Do it) only after thou hast made petitions for thyself.

And Life is victorious.

This is the Benediction of Oil, which Bihram-Rba, son of Adam, celebrated for his mother Hawa wife of Adam when she departed the body, whilst Hibil-Ziwa sat before them.

This Benediction of Oil was in the Diwan <sup>2)</sup> of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat of the town Tib, written by Zazai-d-Gawazta son of Hawa. And Bayan-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar wrote it. Here he distributed it, with these books, amongst a hundred Naşoraeans, from his own Diwan which he had copied from Ramuia son of 'Qaimat's Diwan that was found in the possession of Haiuna daughter of Yahia and Bainai son of Zakia.

And Bayan-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar said "Just as it was written, I wrote it and all the mysteries of the Oil were therein. As far as Jerusalem, the city of the Jews, their mysteries (sacramental ceremonies) are like these.

And Life is victorious.

Exhort those who administer the oil to be careful. If he (the apparently dying person) doth not depart the body, let them bring him to thee. Recite "In great radiance am I immersed", break open the seal, bear it away (?) and throw it into the jordan.

And when thou administerest oil, beware lest thou make a mistake. If thou hast committed an error, it will need a "masiqta of the sixty" <sup>3)</sup> for him on whom the oil falleth and it will be well. If impossible to carry him <sup>4)</sup> read a "sixty" masiqta for him with seven food-trays <sup>5)</sup>, and at "that which is with her" <sup>6)</sup> sign him and at "the House of Abathur" sign him.

(If) the soul (be that of) a good, pious person, one who hath people who will do good after him, bring priests and celebrate sixty masiqtas for him in full with everything. In the uprising of the sixty" sign him<sup>1)</sup> alone at (the words) ma d-bh; at the words bit Abatur sign him alone. And in the last uprising sign him alone at bit Abatur and (then) sign the souls of our fathers.

For a masiqta thou requirest meat, water of prayer,<sup>2)</sup> incense, pihta, hamra, wreath and oil. And in (on) the seven trays: - place there all that thou wishest in the trays together with those mysteries (named above).

And when (there is) a masiqta, read the homilies about the soul<sup>3)</sup>; let them be many, and be compassionate. It is good (beneficial) for a soul on whom oil falleth. Recite over him and over the seven rahbata<sup>4)</sup> and (pray for) Mandaean, Naṣōraean and the faithful. And pray the masiqta prayers "We have acknowledged", "Praises", "Thee", "Lifting eyes", "I sought to raise eyes" and all the appointed prayers for the pihta and mambuha, the "bindings and loosings"<sup>5)</sup> of the masiqta from beginning to end.

Be careful; make enquiry, display kindness, show compassion (during?) the homilies, and loose him from his sins.

And Life is victorious.

Then Hibil-Ziwa taught and said "Great disgrace will fall on any Naṣōraean who (whilst) reading the masiqta openeth his pandama or adulterates the water of prayer. He will not behold his Creator and will be smitten with that blow which was administered to the First Eldest One because he sinned and blundered before his Parents. And I, Hibil-Ziwa, will not reckon him amongst my own, nor count him as one of my own".

And Hibil-Ziwa said "Any Naṣōraean who holds (to?) the pandama and doth not adulterate the water of prayer, as long as he remaineth in the body shall have increase<sup>6)</sup>, speech and a hearing because he hath neither removed nor changed aught of that which his fathers

Every man who celebrateth these mysteries must hold (wear) the ḡandama. When he holdeth his ḡandama all the creatures of darkness are turned back from his presence, his appearance will shine and all that he hath done will be confirmed by us.

And Life is victorious.]

This is the Book of Gadana which Hibil-Ziwa gave to the chosen elect, which I have copied for myself. I am poor, lowly, child-like and striving, one whom the Seven and Twelve persecute; one of the Root of the First (Life), one insignificant amongst my fellow-priests and ḡanzibras, earth beneath the feet of Naṣoraeans and dust beneath the feet of the pious <sup>3)</sup>.

I, a slave who is all sin, copied this Book of Gadana for myself so that there should be someone to commemorate my name on earth and yonder in the celestial worlds of light. For my heart hath loved the Life and mine eyes wait upon Manda-ḡ-Hiia, who will be to me a support, a deliverer and a rescuer from the sons of Krun <sup>4)</sup> And I testify to the Life and to my lord Manda-ḡ-Hiia with a true and faithful heart.

I am Rabbi Adam-Yuhana son of Bihram son of Sa'dan son of Msa'dan, Kamisia by name, Riš-Draz. I copied it for myself from the book of a righteous and upright woman, a believing (creature) whose mind is pure; in it there is no lechery, lust or harlotry. She consecrated herself to love of Truth (Kuṣṡa) and copied this Book of Gadana so that there should be for her a commemorator on earth and in the mighty celestial worlds of light, yonder. She was my own paternal grandmother, her baptismal name was Anhar daughter of Šarat. May there be for her enlargement of life! And the name by which she was called <sup>5)</sup> was 'diia, daughter of Adam son of Sa'ad-Juwiri. (She copied it from.<sup>2)</sup> the copy of the great, lofty and respected R. He copied it from a book (copied by?) Bihram-Br-Hiia son of Adam-Zakia-Br-Hiia son of Baktiar son of Adam-Bihram, family name Kuhilia, that was copied by the great, lofty and respected master-builder of knowledge and understanding, a noble and distinguished ganzibra, an excellent, accomplished man, devoted to the First Life, son of an orthodox family (root), son of a highly-distinguished family, our teacher, R. Yahia-Bihram son of a father of ganzibras, R. Sam-Bahran son of Yahia son of Zakia son of Yuhana known as Buhaiiar, Zakia by name. May Manda-d-Hiia forgive him his sins for he was kindly and long-suffering, and wrote this book so that there should be commemoration for him on earth and yonder in the worlds of light. And now, ye priests who hold to it, be staunch to this masiqta so that there may be forgiveness for your sins, and the Life and Manda-ḡ-Hiia and all the 'uthras sons of light will be your helpers. But we will abandon and not approach any man untrue to it.

And Life is victorious.

So these prayers were arranged from the "Explanation of Prayers of Baptism and the Masiqta" which was copied from the Diwan of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat: their father wrote (it?), Baian-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar and our master Baian son of Zakia. It was in his library. So that these injunctions were written by Baian son of Brik-Yawar. He distributed these books here amongst a hundred Naṣoraeans from his own library, which he had copied from the Diwan of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat which was housed by Haiuna daughter of Yahia and Baian son of Zakia.

For it was written in the town of Ṭib. And Zakia copied it from the Diwan of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat and Yahia (?) copied from the Diwan of Sam son of Anuš-Yahia, and Sam copied from the Diwan of Bihram son of Brik-Alaha. . . ? and Anuš copied from the Diwan of 'Qaiam son of Šarat and 'Qaiam copied from Qaiuma son of Brik-Alaha and Qaiuma copied from Šganda son of Yasmin, and Šganda son of Yasmin copied from the Diwan Zazai-ḡ-Gawazta br Hawa and Zazai-ḡ-Gawazta copied from the Diwan of the First Life.

And Ramuia son of 'Qaimat said "From the day on which it fell from (was written by) Zazai-ḡ-Gawazta son of Hawa till now, the years in which I wrote it, is (a space of) 368 years in the ages". And Ramuia son of 'Qaimat said "I wrote this Diwan in the town of Ṭib in the years when Anuš son of Danqa departed with the heads of the people (ethnarchs), in the years when the Arabs advanced".

Then Baian-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar wrote "I purified myself when I got possession of these mysteries. And I myself travelled around and went on foot to Naṣoraeans and took many diwans from place to place. And nowhere did I find "mysteries" as reliable as these Mysteries of Baptism and Masiqta and Oil-of-Uncion. I have written them here and have distributed them to a hundred Naṣoraeans in order that they may hold to and be staunch to them.

“And now, ye priests! Hold and abide by this end (purpose), like ’uthras of light who stood by these mysteries, all of them, and confirm it in a communion to which Yawar is joined.<sup>1)</sup>”

“And any man who doth not confirm this end (conclusion) we will avoid and not approach him. He may go in his clothes and roll in his filth! His habitation will be the Sumqaq Well.”

Then the writing of Ram-Ziwa-Bihram son of Baian: — “I have looked into the Diwan of ‘The Great Wellspring’ of Ramuia son of ’Qaimat. Any person who writeth the Book of Gadana and removeth any of the injunctions assigned and written therein, Thou wilt place in clouds of darkness. And anyone who wriṭeth a book of rejection, or removeth any of the injunctions written therein so that they are broken, shall be cursed with a great curse. For this is the curse which the First Life uttered and pronounced, “Anyone who becometh hostile to the Life shall die the second death of an enemy: he will belong to the Darkness; he will fall and for him there will be no uprising”.

(But) those who have not removed trust in the Life or (changed) any part of that which they wrote and taught about it, any individual, he and his opinion: and hath delivered them from their sins. . .<sup>2)</sup> Moreover, anyone who cuts a copy, or extracts therefrom the name of its owner, shall be cut off (himself and sent) to the watch-houses (purgatories) of the planets. And at the Great Judgement he will stand up, but Abathur will not take his hand in kušta<sup>3)</sup>.

Life is victorious over all works and victorious is Yawar-Ziwa and his helpers, his people, his priests, and his holding (partisans).

And Life and all Its works are victorious.

 Chariots! wherefore did ye overturn and fall on your faces?
 Cedars of Lebanon! why were ye rent?
 Mountains! wherefore were ye shaken and why did ye leap like stags?
 (Why) did ye open and give praise?
 Does in the desert! on account of Whom did ye miscarry your young?
 Heights! in Whose honour did ye arise and speak?
 Earth! Whom didst thou behold and (at what) didst thou tremble <sup>4)</sup>

At the Light which surpasseth all lights,
 And at the Good Being who crossed the worlds
 And came and cleft the firmament and revealed Himself.”
 When the Life gazed (down) and looked on the earth
 And Its Glory alighted upon the roofs of Its Building, (Lo!) they were sitting on thrones of rebellion.
 They got down meekly from their thrones
 And fell upon their faces. It eclipsed and took away
 The glory of the worlds and generations
 And quenched the flames of their lamps.
 It set the eyes of the planets in the depths of the earth
 And in the lower glooms of Darkness.

Spirit (ruha) lifted up her voice,
 She cried aloud and said, “My Father, my Father
 ‘Why didst Thou create me? My God, my God,
 My Allah, why hast thou set me afar off
 And cut me off and left me in the depths of the earth
 And in the nether glooms of darkness
 So that I have no strength to rise up thither?’”

All arose, prayed and praised the majesty of mighty (Life)
 And their voices sang to the Glory that is mighty
 Praising the Radiance which surpasseth (all) radiance
 And the Light which surpasseth (all) lights,
 And the Good Being who crossed the worlds,
 Came, cleft the firmament and revealed Himself.
 He sundered Light from Darkness and sundered Good from Evil,
 He sundered Life from Death,
 And He brought out those who love His name of Truth
 From Darkness to Light and from Evil to Good
 And from Death to Life and set them
 On roads of Truth and Faith.
 And Thou hast spoken to us with Thy Word
 And hast commanded us with Thy commandment —
 “Be My glory and I will be your Glory.
 Be my light and I will be your Light.
 And my name shall be in your mouths
 And I will be with you”.

Thou art He who overthrowest (false) gods in their high-places
 And bringest reproach on the divinity of (false) deities.

They were broken down by shame on their way
 And deep ignominy befell their temples
 And fettered their might. <sup>1)</sup>

Great is the splendour in which Manda-d-hiia is arrayed!
 Blest is that day of light, praised is that dawn
 On which Thou didst travel and come from worlds of light!
 (That day) is not reckoned in a count of days.
 Nor in a reckoning of months;
 Except that day on which Thou wast revealed from worlds of light.

We will reveal to them, that day on which Thou wast revealed,
 To all who love Thy name of Truth (kušṭa).

We offer up our commemoration, our petition, our prayer,
 Our submission, our ṭabuta <sup>2)</sup> and our faith
 In Thy presence, (O) 'Uṣar-Hiia, Delight and great Support of Life.
 Were we to stand and praise Thee, Thy name,
 Thy title and Thy goodness seven times a day, my Lord,
 Who could praise Thee, Life,
 Or magnify (worthily) the greatness of Thy victories?
 Can the stinking body praise Thee? or the vain tongue?
 Were our mouth like the sea, our lips like its waves
 And our tongue like cleft mountains,
 Then might we praise Thee, magnify Thee, honour Thee and bless Thee!

Thou knoweth him who feareth Thee with his heart
 • And him who confesseth thee with his lips.
 With a pure mouth be Thou blessed
 And lauded with a tongue of praise.
 Supporters who do not waver, interpretations <sup>3)</sup>
 Of Truth (kušṭa) which vary not praise Thee.
 Sons of Perfection beside Thee, (an) endless, countless
 And everlasting (company), all shining with reciprocal radiance,
 Praise Thee, for amongst them all hatred,
 Envy and dissensions exist not.
 The Place which is all portals of radiance, light and glory

Praiseth Thee. The ancient, lofty, occult
 And watchful One, Abathur, who sitteth according
 To his rank, like the Life, praiseth Thee,
 The 'uthra Pthahil praiseth Thee and saith to Thee,
 "Blessed art Thou, my Lord, Manda-d-Hiia
 And praised. And blessed is the Place
 From which Thou camest: praised, magnified
 And honoured is the great Place from which Thou camest.
 And praised, magnified and honoured is the great Place
 To which Thou goest."

Elect righteous (men) from lower sanctuaries <sup>1)</sup>
 Praise thee; for Thy knowledge, Thy wisdom,
 Thine understanding and Thy goodness do they praise Thee.

Thou hast come! Thou comest and art ready to reveal Thyself.
 Thou art immeasurable, infinite and everlasting.
 Thou art the Father, Thou art the Brother, Thou art the Son;
 Thou art the Source, Thou art the great Root of Life;
 Thou art the First, Thou art the Last,
 Thou art the Future, for Thou preparest Thyself to come
 And didst depart in order to reveal Thyself.
 Put far from us Thy wrath and bring near Thy mercy.
 Turn back, push back, remove and make impotent
 Angels of wrath, frost and hail from my land
 And my house — mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš —
 In the twinkling of an eye and at a turn of the wheels,
 (Let) our petition, our prayer and our submission
 Rise up before Thee, Manda-d-Hiia!
 That which we have done forgive us,
 And that which we do, forgive us,
 (For) Thou, (O) Manda-d-Hiia art a forgiver of sins,
 Trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes.
 If Thou, (O) Manda-d-Hiia, didst not forgive our sins,
 Our trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes,
 Who would stand guiltless before Thee, Manda-d-Hiia?
 Slaves are we, who are all sin
 And Thou the Lord who art all mercy.
 Before Thee, all hands are thieving and all lips lying;
 In Thine eyes, Manda-d-Hiia (even) Jordan-waters are not cleansing.

The worlds know not Thy name, nor recognise Thy light.
 O (fie on) those who sit and eat and drink,
 On those who quarrel and persecute!
 O (fie on) those who fornicate and are adulterous!
 O (fie on) those who worship portico and clay brick!
 Day by day they sit on thrones of insolence
 And persecute the name of the Life;
 (Yet) they knew not the name of the Life,
 Nor did the idea of the Life enter their minds.
 (But) we have testified to Life and put our trust in Life;
 And Manda-d-Hiia stood by us, was of our company
 And was our Helper.

The worlds reviled us and persecuted us.
 With (to?) the . . . ? of the world do not Thou abandon us,
 Nor with the judgement of the world judge us:
 Range us not with the world-guilty,
 Nor cut us off from the Life.

We spoke in chants <sup>1)</sup> of the Life
 And we revealed mysteries that were veiled;
 (But) the worlds reviled us and persecuted us.
 Life! From the Hidden accept Thy <sup>2)</sup> prayers,
 And we will establish delight in Thy light.
 Thou art our Radiance, our Brightness, our Strength,
 Our Help and our Enlightenment which thou didst reveal to us,

- To the first lovers of thy Name, in rays of radiance.
 We have confessed Thy truth and will spread Thy light
 (Shed) upon us. Thy victories will bring it to pass
 And we will be stablished in Thy truth (kuštak).
 The (false) gods in the height will see us
 And will be convicted of guilt and put to shame.
 Thou wilt clothe us with Thy radiance
 And cover us with Thy light;
 Thou wilt show us the road
 By which Thou camest from the House of Life
 And therein we will walk the course

(Set for) righteous and believing people.
 Causing our spirit and souls to dwell in abodes of Life
 According to the purpose of the Life
 And the will of the three 'uthras<sup>1</sup>),
 And according to the will of Manda-d-Hiia
 Sublimest of beings, and according to the will
 Of the Four Beings, sons of salvation.
 In Thy presence there will be restoration
 For our spirit and our souls.
 Thou wilt clothe us with Thy radiance
 And cover us with Thy light
 And will stand us before Thee with the innocent
 And not with the guilty;
 With the richly-endowed and not with the lacking.
 Knowledge of Life is Thy name, Truth is Thy name.
 Pure<sup>2</sup>) is Thy name, magnified is Thy name,
 Honoured is Thy name, blessed is Thy name
 And abiding is Thy name. Victorious<sup>2</sup>) art Thou
 And victorious is Thy name.
 Victorious are the words of Truth which proceed from Thy mouth
 Over all deeds. Make victorious and establish
 This my soul (the soul of) Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš.
 And Life is victorious over all works.

76

In the name of the Life!
 Praises to the Outer Life
 Whom Ye caused to dwell without (beyond),
 The abode that hath limit.
 For Your eyes are open to (discern) Your own,
 Your ears hearken at Your Place<sup>3</sup>).
 Praises to that one great name of Life
 Which is above all names.
 Its name resteth on the great Place of Light,
 On the everlasting abode and on the city of 'uthras,
 And on the Beam who was greater than all beams,
 With Whose light all beams shine
 And by Whom all souls are justified;

Who establisheth our strength and cutteth us not off
 From the House of our trust;
 Who restoreth our souls <sup>1)</sup> at the House of Ransom
 On the Day of Judgement, and perfecteth our souls
 On the great Day of joy.

Praises (be) to One Who is all the 'uthras,
 And to One Who is all prayers, and to the Predestined One
 Who came and remained for our commemoration <sup>2)</sup>
 And who was established in the presence of Outer Life.
 (One) on whose mouth Life rested and whose praise
 Was established without.

Praises, praises to the Ancient, the First,
 To the Son of the great Primal Life
 Whom Life called, prepared, armed and sent Him forth
 To the generations. (Lo) Thou camest and didst open a door,
 Thou didst level a road and tread out a path,
 Didst set up a boundary-stone
 And didst knit together a community.
 Thou wast Helper, Saviour and Guide
 To the Father of the great Family of Life <sup>3)</sup>,
 And didst knit it together in a Communion of Life,
 Didst build it into a great Building of sound construction <sup>4)</sup>
 And didst bring it <sup>5)</sup> forth to the great Place of Light
 And the Everlasting Abode.

O callers whom I have summoned!

O nourishers whom I have nourished!

O builders whom I have raised up

And brought out from amongst the peoples, nations and tongues!

Behold, here I stand! Behold, here I dwell!

Worlds against whom I guard myself

Though your words are not far from my face,

If ye take mountains (of food) as your viaticum for eating,

They will not satisfy (lit. "complete") you.
 If ye take seas for your drinking
 They will not make you perfect <sup>1)</sup> (content you).
 (But) if with perfections <sup>2)</sup> ye stand before the Outer Life
 And before the Eternal Abode, I will count your number,
 And your reckoning shall be reckoned.
 Betimes I will come and will fly
 And will reach <sup>3)</sup> the sons of my Name, the sons of my Sign,
 And the sons of the great Family of Life.
 I will bind you together into the bundle <sup>4)</sup> of Life
 And I will build you into a great Building of Truth <sup>5)</sup>
 And will bring you forth to the great Place of Light
 And to the Everlasting Abode.

If there is no hatred, rancour, or dissension amongst you
 The hand of the mbartablas (customs-officers?) will not search amongst your garments;

Ye will not pass over the Bridge <sup>6)</sup>
 Nor walk in a narrow street;
 Ye will not stand before the judge
 Nor look on the countenance of the Adversary-at-law;
 Nor will ye see an averted face.
 The chief customs-officer will not question you.

Ye will go forth: ye will behold the Perfecter of Souls,
 One who setteth on paths of surety
 His friends that are made perfect,
 A great comrade of the faithful,
 One of the great band of souls,
 Who will come out toward you
 And clothe your souls in a garments of radiance

<sup>6)</sup> The "bridge" here probably refers to the Zoroastrian "Bridge of Çinvat", "narrower than a hair" over which departed souls must pass. Only the righteous succeed. The hymn was probably written at a time when the state religion was Magian. Tidun from ADA to pass, make a pass.

And in good pure vestments <sup>1)</sup> of light
Which he will bring you from the Great Place of Light
And the Everlasting Abode.

He will bring out toward you wreaths,
A wreath of victories.

And every leaf of your wreaths will (weigh)
One thousand and eighty mithqals <sup>2)</sup>.

Its brilliancy will exceed the brightness of the Sun
And its light outshine the light of the moon.

Ye will receive your vesture and will receive your wreaths
In the presence of the Great (Life).

Ye will be great, and called 'uthras amongst the 'uthras.

Ye will open your eyes and behold your Judge.

Betimes will the dayspring dawn upon you,
In strength ye will arise and behold the Outer Ether

And the great Beam who is all light,

Who was set up before the Great Life:

He whom Life created, prepared and sent forth
To the ages and to the worlds.

And <sup>3)</sup> every man who giveth oblation <sup>4)</sup>;

And took part in the communion <sup>5)</sup> from beginning to end.

They will make as perfect as the manas,

Like rays of light he will be made to shine

On the day of deliverance, on the Day of Redemption,

The great Day of Joy; so that his righteous act

Stretcheth onward. It will precede you and will uplift,

• Showing you the Outer Ether and the everlasting Abode,

The place which is ancient, (of) Primal Beings,

And sons of the great Family of Life.

They eat of that which is imperishable

And drink that which is not wine, eating well

And asking solace. And an 'uthra of Life
 Cometh and resteth upon them day by day and hour by hour
 Praises (be) to the fame of the righteous
 And to the existence of Chosen Elect (men),
 And to the Unearthly <sup>1)</sup> Being who standeth without,
 Whose eyes are open and fixed upon those
 Who love his name of Truth (kušta) —
 Thou art he, Manda-ḡ-Hiia! for thou knowest
 About that in which the perfect man is made perfect,
 And about the virtuous man, in what his virtue consisteth <sup>2)</sup>.
 And the Lie <sup>3)</sup>, of what doth it consist.
 Not a word issueth from the mouth of a perfect man
 But thou knowest it, hast understood and expected it
 In the great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.
 The mountain doth not boast its strength, nor a hero his doughty deeds, <sup>4)</sup>
 Nor doth a bowman vaunt his bow, nor the physician his drugs,
 Nor the righteous and sage man the utterance of his mouth.
 Not so: it is an 'uthra of Life which cometh
 And resteth upon Thy devotees.
 And those who seek from Him shall find, and to those who ask of Him
 It will be given. Day by day, hour by hour, behold us
 Who stand in Thy name and are upheld by (calling on) Thy name.
 We hold to Thy Leader <sup>5)</sup> of the great company of Truth
 We have held staunch because of Thy victories.
 Humiliate us not; cast us not into the hands of tormentors,
 Liars, hypocrites and the censorious.
 Let not torturers strike us nor condemners damn our souls!
 The good will see and will be found ready <sup>6)</sup>,
 (But) The wicked will be discomfited and the children of the world be shamed
 Perfected (souls) will see that the Life existeth
 ,And will direct their gaze to the great Place of Light and the everlasting Abode.

Thou, Manda-d-Hiia, callest the caller <sup>1)</sup>, nourishest the nourisher, buildest the builder,
 And dost knit together in communion.

Thou art He who constructeth, and who takest out from amongst the peoples, nations and tongues every man who is summoned, worthy and invited. To every man whose term of life is over Thou wilt be a Helper, Saviour and Guide to the great Place of Light and to the everlasting Abode. As to one whose term is incomplete <sup>4)</sup> and he standeth (liveth) in the body, (able) to open his mouth, lift up his voice, pray his prayers and to offer up his praise, and whose feet can walk to my House <sup>5)</sup>, thine 'uthra shall come and shall rest upon him, Thy friend.

Diffuse Thy light over all who love Thy name of Truth (kušta). Thou hast spoken with Thy Word and hast commanded us with Thy commandment, "Over your words My Word hath precedence: and at the raising of your right hands (towards Me?) My right hand will be lifted <sup>6)</sup> towards you. Ye will call, and I will answer you quickly. Ye will seek My hand and I will not withhold it (from) your hands".

We will pray with Thee the 'uthras' prayer and ask of Thee, of the Great (Life),<sup>7)</sup> a petition for ourselves, for our friends, for our friends' friends and for those who love the great Family of Life, for the whole Naširuta <sup>8)</sup> of Life, fulfilled and disseminated on earth. Thou wilt bring us some of Thy radiance, thou wilt lend us some of Thy light. We will enter into Thy radiance will go forth in Thy light, will rise in Thy name and be kept right by Thy nature <sup>9)</sup>. Truth is Thy name, Knowledge of Life is Thy name,

<sup>4)</sup> Lit. "who has his measure" (or "span"), i.e. has years of life still before him: everyone being allotted a fixed measure of years.

precious is Thy name, magnified is Thy name, victorious is Thy name, victorious are the words of truth which issue from Thy mouth, and victorious are all Thy deeds<sup>1)</sup>.

And Life is victorious!

Great fruit for Himself.

(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Yukabar-Ziwa, who increased in his brilliancy
And was great in his light.

(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia, the life which proceeded from Life,
The truth (kušta) that was aforetime, in the Beginning;
Who was mightier in His radiance than the worlds of light.

(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Haš, <sup>1)</sup> the Stem of splendour, <sup>2)</sup> radiance, light and honour

And taketh in keeping in the World of Light
The prayers of pious and believing people.

(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Haiašum-Kušta <sup>5)</sup>, messenger of Life,
The Word of the first chosen elect (men).

He crossed the worlds, came, pierced the firmament
And revealed himself.

(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Bhaq-Ziwa <sup>6)</sup>, who is called "He acted and succeeded in his

(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Yukašar <sup>7)</sup>, source of radiance

<sup>7)</sup> It seems likely that the words of the preceding clause attached to Bhaq-Ziwa, were originally part of those attached to Yukašar, whose name seems to mean "the spirit of success".

Who bestoweth radiance and displayeth his light.

 (Meet it is) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
 The pure Yušamin<sup>4)</sup> who resteth upon
 The treasures of the waters
 And upon mighty wellsprings of light.
 (Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
 The 'uthra Tauriel<sup>5)</sup>, the being who resteth by The pastures<sup>6)</sup> of the water.

- When a fragment from the little finger of his right hand
 Fell (off?) There was consternation on earth,
 And vexation(?)<sup>7)</sup> in the world of falsehood.
 (Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
 Adatan and Yadatan<sup>8)</sup>, who stand at the Gate of Life
 And praise and extol Life,
 And pray for the spirits and souls
 Of righteous and believing people
 In the Place of Life.
 (Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
 Šilmai and Nidbai<sup>9)</sup>, two 'uthras
 Delegates of Manda-d-Hiia

<sup>5)</sup> Tauriel is often invoked in phylacteries. An obvious cattle-spirit, he calls into mind the Mithra myth, in which the bull's blood released the forces of fertility and life. The verse is obscure. To lose a little finger is one of the causes of disqualification to priesthood.

Who are active and do (the work of) the Life.
 With kušṭa and with the testimony of the Life
 They immerse living, shining, bright and well-doing <sup>1)</sup> souls
 Who go in sincerity to the Jordan (and are baptised)
 (But) not in the name of gods <sup>2)</sup> or of a messiah!
 (It is meet) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
 Šum-Hai, Rhum-Hai, 'In-Hai and Zamar-Hai <sup>3)</sup>,
 Four Beings, sons of perfection,
 Who come towards sincere and believing people,
 And take them out of bonds
 (Tied by) the hands of the wicked
 And from beneath the claws of scheming men;
 And lift them up to the great place of Light
 And to the Everlasting Abode.
 They knit them into the Bundle of Life
 And build them into a great Building
 Of sure strength <sup>4)</sup>.
 (It is meet) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
 Hibil, Šitil and Anuš <sup>5)</sup>,
 Sons of a Stock which is living, light-giving,
 Vigorous and sturdy:
 Beings that cannot be taken by the sword
 Nor consumed by flames of fire;
 Nor swept away by floods of water;
 Nor will the thongs of their sandals
 Be dipped in the water.
 • They were judged and were justified;
 They sought and they found;
 They strove and reached the Great Place of Light
 And the Everlasting Abode.
 (It is meet) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
 Šihiun, and Pardun, and Kanfun <sup>6)</sup>,
 'Uthras whose names, each one, are in the House of Life <sup>7)</sup>;

<sup>7)</sup> D.C. 3 has q-had had hawia šumaihun bit hiia adam kasia bihram uram utria q-had šumaihun bit (hiia) utrin trin kimamun. The sentence is obscure.

And the 'uthras Adam-Kasia <sup>1)</sup>, Bihram and Ram whose names are
 Each one in the House of life, (but) their nature is two two, (dualistic?)

And the names of righteous and believing people
 Will be established in the Place of Light.
 Thy name giveth out light, Thy name is illustrious,
 Thy name is pleasing and Thy name raiseth up.
 Thy name is victorious and victorious are the words of truth
 Which issue from Thy mouth, (victorious) over all works.
 Make victorious and raise up this my soul,
 (The soul of) Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš!

And Life is victorious over all works.

I copied these three prayers "We have acknowledged", "Praises", and "Thee (Life)" for myself so that there may be commemoration for me on earth and yonder in the mighty and lofty worlds of light.
 For my heart hath testified to the First Life and I endure the persecution of the world from sons of the planets. For one name -
 Yawar - do I strive with a pious and believing heart for the love of precious Truth.

My waiteth on the Life and mine eyes upon Manda-d-Hiia; for they will be my support, my deliverer and saviour from the Place of Darkness to the Place of Light.

I copied for myself, poor and lowly a slave who is all sin, dust on the feet of Našuraeans ...etc.

(The rest of the colophon, which resembles the former colophon, is omitted).

THE RESPONSES. ('niana)

78

In the name of the Great Life!

May my thought, my knowledge and my understanding
 Enlighten me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš,
 By means of these responses <sup>2)</sup> and homilies for baptism and the masiqta.

<sup>1)</sup> Adam Kasia, the occult Adam, has the occult Eve (Hawa Kasia) as spouse, Ram's spouse is Rud, but Bihram's spouse is unnamed .

79

In the name of the Great Life!
 When the myrtle <sup>1)</sup>, the myrtle, flourished
 In the gardens of Hibil;
 When the wild marjoram grew in the precincts of the manda <sup>2)</sup>,
 They gave me two twigs of myrtle
 From which they twisted a wreath for the jordan.
 For it is wondrous and fragrant is its perfume!

[Recite this hymn and twist a wreath of myrtle for thy staff, then read the jordan-hymn "Hear me my father, hear me".]

80

In the name of the Great Life!
 Hear me, my Father, hear me! Draw me upward
 (O) Great One, son of the mighty (Life),
 Our Father, son of the Life!
 Šilmai and Nidbai, lords of the jordan, hear me!
 Jordan, and both its banks, hear me!
 Hear me, Hibil-Ziwa, whose strength
 Resteth upon his brethren, the 'uthras!
 Hear me, Yawar-Ziwa, (thou)
 Whose creations rest on (depend upon?) the jordan!
 Hear me, Mana-Rba-Kabira <sup>3)</sup>
 And raise that which ye have planted!
 Hear me, hear me, Habšaba <sup>4)</sup> and Kana-ḡ-Zidqa <sup>5)</sup>, • Hear me, hear me, Abathur-Rama <sup>6)</sup>, whose strength
 Presideth over the Scales!
 Hear me, great Bihram! and raise me up
 Yuzataq-Manda-ḡ-Hiia!
 Hear me, (ye) Seven Mysteries which reside

In the Great Wellspring
 Hear me, (ye) three wellsprings which give out
 Radiance, light and effulgence!
 Hear me (ye) three manas
 Who rest upon the jordan with your treasure!
 Hear me, Anuš-'Uthra <sup>1)</sup>,
 Whose strength dwelleth upon me!

81

In the name of the Great Life!
 Hear me, my Father, hear me!
 And draw me upward, great Son of the mighty (Life);
 Our Father, Son of the Life!
 Šilmai and Nidbai, lords of the jordan, hear me!
 *Jordan and its two banks, hear me!
 Habšaba and Kana-d-Zidqa hear me!
 Hear me, Great Life, from the height,
 Hear me!

82 <sup>2)</sup>

In the name of the Great Life!
 At the Fountain-head came I forth,
 At the Source of springs of life went I hence.
 Three škintas (sanctuaries) did I found
 And set over them guardians as rulers.
 The guardians I appointed to rule over them
 Are sublime, blessed and trusty
 To the uttermost.

[Repeat this hymn when thou art baptising and takest up the mambuha <sup>3)</sup> into the phial from the jordan, and recite the prayer "At the Fountain-head of Water came I forth" and then recite "Blessed art thou, Outer Door".]

83

In the name of the Great Life!
 How lovely are plants which the jordan hath planted

And raised up! Pure fruit have they borne
 And on their heads they set living wreaths.
 Yawar-Ziwa rejoiceth in the good plants
 Which the jordan planted and raised.
 The Plants rejoice and flourish
 In the perfume of Manda-d-Hiia
 Which breatheth <sup>1)</sup> upon them.

Truly did my baptiser baptise me,
 Well did my baptiser baptise me,
 Truly did my baptiser baptise me
 And your baptism shall attain its end.

85

Šilmai hath baptised us with his baptism,
 Nidbai hath signed us with his pure sign,
 The great Anuš-'uthra hath placed living <sup>2)</sup> wreaths on our heads.

The jordan in which we have been immersed
 Shall be our witness that we have turned not away
 From our sign, nor have altered our <sup>3)</sup> pure Word.

87

I rejoice in my priests
 And in Naṣoraeans who hearken to my converse.
 I rejoice in you, my priests,
 For ye have not changed my pure Word.

88

In the name of the great Life!
 May the sublime Light be magnified!
 Rightly do I say to you, my Chosen,

Who went up with me to the jordan,
 Pervert and change me not, alter me not by hand,
 Pervert not nor alienate me,
 Men who have heard the Voice of Life!
 He who heareth the voice of Life
 Will be edified, will be built up,
 Built up and armed. (Such a man's) strength will be doubled.
 Moreover, those who listen to the speech of the Life
 Will be greatly increased,
 Will be enriched and will not lack.
 Into the communion that is great will he be knit,
 He will enter the communion that is great
 So that he will be united (therewith) and will arise
 And will behold the Place of Light.
 And Life is renowned and victorious,,
 And victorious the man who went hence.

89

In the name of the Great Life
 The great Light be magnified!
 To you do I call and (you) do I teach,
 Men who have received the Sign.
 Hearken not to the talk of all peoples and generations;
 Let not their stumblings cause you to stumble,
 Stumble not because of their stumblings!
 Be not interrogated at their tribunals,
 At their tribunals be not interrogated!
 Certainly have ye held to established truth,
 Ye have held to the certainty about which
 I instructed you. I call to my chosen ones so that Ye may not turn your thought away from Me.
 Because any man who is not steadfast (in thought)
 Whose mind is turned against me,
 Whose mind is turned from me,
 Great and not small will be his hurt <sup>1)</sup>.
 If ye have attained my strength <sup>2)</sup>

Bear (arms for) me <sup>1)</sup>! If ye bear (arms for) me firmly
 Stand by me from beginning to end!
 But if ye have not attained my strength (or army <sup>2)</sup>)
 Go from me, and approach not!
 For he that entereth it and beareth (arms) for me,
 His "garment" <sup>3)</sup> will be adjusted to the House of Perfection.
 But he that weareth it <sup>4)</sup> and doth not perfect it
 Will die and his spirit will extinguish.
 He will die and extinct will be his spirit,
 He will become the portion of the world.
 Thou hast conquered, Manda-d-Hiia,
 Good One, who confirmest Thy friends!
 Renowned and victorious is Life
 And victorious the man who went hence.

90

In the Name of the Great Life
 The sublime Light be glorified!
 A disciple <sup>5)</sup> am I, a new one;
 For I went to the jordan-bank
 And took my name on my head
 And in my heart I took a Sign.
 My Sign is not that of Fire,
 Nor is it that wherewith the Anointed One <sup>6)</sup> anointed,
 My Sign is a jordan of living water,
 The strength of which none can attain.
 He chose one out of a thousand
 And from two thousand he chose two,
 Making traders of them

<sup>1)</sup> Lidzbarski translated traget mich (carry me), literal but somewhat unsatisfactory. I suggest that the word here was some form akin to the Syriac ܕܝܝܢܝܢ, hence "Fight for me! If ye fight for me firmly, stand by me from first to last".

Who labour and ply their trade on earth.
 And they trade for fee and pious gift,
 And shine more than sun and moon.
 I came to the congregation of souls,
 For the Life sent me, sent me forth.
 There were some who bought my wares,
 There those who came to their end <sup>1)</sup> and lay down <sup>2)</sup>.
 There were those who bought my wares.
 The eyes (of such a one) were filled with light,
 Filled with light were his eyes
 (On) beholding the Great (One) in the House of Perfection,
 There were those who did not buy my wares.
 They went on, reached their end and lay down.
 They were blind and saw not,
 Their ears were stopped and they heard not
 And their hearts were not awakened
 To behold the Great One in the House of Perfection.
 As They called them and they answered not,
 When they call, who will answer them?
 Because it was given to them but they took not,
 Who will give to them when they ask?
 They hated the Way of Life and its Abode
 But loved the abode of the wicked.
 And lo! in the abode of the wicked
 Will they be held captive.
 They tied up their tribute, their money <sup>3)</sup>
 In a lappet <sup>4)</sup> of their clothes.
 When they wish to lift their heads (hold their heads high)
 They hurl them down <sup>5)</sup> to the Gates of Darkness
 To my Chosen do I call, to my Plants

Who stand <sup>1)</sup> by the jordan. I say to them,
 "My children (who walk), in my road,
 My children (who follow) my road,
 Swerve not from it or its boundary!
 Let him who deviateth from its boundary
 Cling to the boundary-stone.
 He who hath turned aside from both
 Will fall into the uttermost ends of the world".
 Thou hast conquered, Manda-d-Hiia,
 Good One, who confirmeth his friends!
 Thou wilt forgive us who praise our Lord
 Our sins and our trespasses.
 Renowned and victorious is Life
 And victorious the man who hath gone hence.

[Up to here are the hymns and chants of baptism; and from here to below are the hymns and chants of the masiqta.]

91

My vigilance and praisegiving
 Are my ferrymen <sup>2)</sup> across (the waters of death);
 A transformation brought me over,
 A cloud <sup>3)</sup> of light took me over.
 In purity shalt thou rise to the Place of Light.

92

In the name of the Life!
 Go in peace, chosen, pure and guiltless one;
 Thou art without spot.
 Thou hast proven thyself by (thy sojourn on <sup>2)</sup> earth
 And thy destiny leapt upward from its struggles <sup>4)</sup>
 From its struggles thy destiny leapt upward.
 Above all the world thou hast spoken.
 Chosen and pure one (saying),
 "I am a seer, a diviner;
 A seer am I and a diviner!"

The worlds assembled for judgement,
 For judgement the worlds assembled
 And judgement was pronounced on them,
 On them was judgement pronounced,
 On those who did not perform the works
 Of right-dealing Man.
 But thou alone, Chosen and Pure One,
 Fair mana, that art burnished bright,
 Thou goest not to the judgement hall.
 Judgement will not be pronounced over thee,
 Over thee judgement will not be pronounced,
 Because thou didst perform the works
 Of right-dealing mankind.
 This <sup>1)</sup>, that they endure and bear,
 •Thou (O) Chosen One, wilt not find before thee.
 Escape the clutch of the planets
 And the forces of this world!
 Take, put on thy garment of radiance,
 Set on thy living wreath!
 Bow thyself! and worship!
 Prostrate (thyself) and praise the Great Life.
 Praise the Place of Life
 To which thy fathers go.
 Thou (O) Chosen One,
 Wast not from here <sup>2)</sup>;
 From this place thou wast not transplanted <sup>3)</sup>
 Thy planting, thy place was the Place of Life,
 Thy home the Everlasting Abode.
 They have set up for thee a throne of rest
 In which there is no heat or wrath.
 There is kept for thee a girdle
 In which there is no trouble or fault <sup>4)</sup>.
 Good one! Rise to the House of Life!
 And go to the Everlasting Abode <sup>5)</sup>!

They will hang thy lamp amongst lamps of light
 And they will shine in thy time, and at thy moment.
 Arise! Behold the Place of Light!
 Renowned is Life and victorious
 And victorious the man who went thither.

93

The mana rejoiceth in its treasure
 And in the glory of Life
 Which resteth on it.
 I have acknowledged thee
 (O) elect righteous one,
 For thou settest my soul free
 From transitory things.

94

Hail to thee, hail to thee, soul
 That hast departed from the world!
 Thou leavest corruption and the stinking <sup>1)</sup> body
 In which thou hast been: (thou leavest)
 Its abode, the abode of the wicked,
 The place which is all sinning,
 The world of darkness,
 Of hatred, jealousy and dissensions,
 The abode in which the planets go about,
 Bringing pains and blemishes,
 Pains they bring, and blemishes,
 Every day causing them tribulation.
 Rise up, rise up, soul!
 Ascend to thy first homeland.
 Rise, rise to thy first homeland,
 The place from which thou wast transplanted,
 To the place from which thou wast transplanted,
 To thy good dwelling, (the dwelling) of 'uthras,
 Bestir thyself! don thy garment of glory
 And set on thy living wreath. <sup>2)</sup>

Rise! inhabit the škintas
 Amongst the 'uthras, thy brethren.
 As thou hast learnt, praise thy first Home;
 And curse this place, the house of thy fostering;
 For (during) the years that thou didst spend therein
 Every day the Seven were thine enemies,
 The Seven were thine enemies and the Twelve
 Beset thee with persecution.
 Renowned is Life and victorious,
 And victorious the man who hath gone thither.

95

Her Sunday, her kušta and her alms
 Bear witness for the soul.
 •Ye will be her witnesses
 And will pass her through at the toll-house.

96

I am provided and provisioned:
 'Uthras of light equipped me.
 I am provisioned; for Life provided for me.
 And I am equipped by 'uthras of light.
 They provided me with provision of Truth (kušta)
 And armed me with all their wisdom.
 Wherefore did Pthahil come into existence?
 And why did he create the world?
 Wherefore was a plan formed
 Whereby they brought me from my home?
 (Whereby) they sent me to a world of stumblings,
 Filled with knots and seals.
 It is all full of fire
 And sown with thorns and thistles:
 It is full of delusion,
 All full of deception and lie.
 The planets who dwell therein
 Conceive plots against me daily
 Plotting evil, and declare
 "We will divert her thoughts!"
 Of my heart that is full of true-dealing
 They say, "From us shall come that

Which will make it stumble <sup>1)</sup>”.

(Of) my eyes that gaze towards the Light

They say “We will make them blink”.

(Of) my mouth, which blesseth the Life,

They say “it shall speak untruth”;

(Of) my hands, which give alms,

And offer the clasp of good faith <sup>2)</sup>,

They say “they shall commit murder”.

(Of) my knees which bend and worship the Life

They say “they shall bend for the Seven”.

(Of) my feet that tread paths of righteousness

And faith, they say, “they shall go on raids <sup>3)</sup>” (“deeds of violence”).

I lifted mine eyes to heaven

And my soul waited on the House of Life.

And the Life who heard my cry

Sent toward me a Deliverer.

The Deliverer who came to me

Brought me that which was lovely;

He opened out a robe and showed me its radiance

And I cast off the stinking body.

He grasped me with the palm of his right hand

And led me over the waters of death <sup>4)</sup>.

Over the waters of death he brought me

And led me onward; in the likeness of Life he supported me.

Life supported Life, Life found its own.

Its own Self did Life find

And my soul found that for which it had looked.

Renowned is Life and victorious

And victorious the man who went hence.

97

He rose and took me with him

And did not leave me in the perishable dwelling.

 On the day that the soul issueth from below
 The spheres of death, of contention <sup>1)</sup>,
 Strife was thrown into the earth.
 Ruha's slaves sit <sup>2)</sup> bewailing
 And the Seven sit in consternation.
 The robe of the stars is rent
 And dust is cast on Ruha's head.
 The hell-beasts <sup>3)</sup> weep
 And the demons of purgatories are panic-stricken.
 The Being who brought me hither,
 Who brought me that which was beautiful,
 Put on me a robe, clothed me in a robe of radiance,
 In a wrapping <sup>4)</sup> of light he covered me.
 He set on (my head) a wreath of ether
 And (gave me) of that which Life bestoweth on the 'uthras.
 He set me up amongst 'uthras
 And stood me up amidst the perfected (souls).
 A wreath of ether he set on my head,
 And gloriously he brought me forth from the world.
 Life supported Life,
 Life found its own,
 Its own did Life find,
 And my soul found that for which it had looked.
 Renowned is Life and victorious,
 And victorious the man who went thither.

Ye are set up and raised up, my Chosen ones,
 By the Word and Certitude <sup>5)</sup> that came to you

The Word and the Certitude that came to the good,
 The True Word<sup>1)</sup> which came to believers.
 My Chosen, ye sought and ye found,
 Moreover ye shall seek and ye shall find.
 Ye sought and found, my Chosen ones,
 As the first (souls?) sought and found.
 Thou art victorious, Manda-d-Hiia.
 And thou bringest to victory all who love thee.
 And Life is victorious.

[Here recite "Blessed and praised is Life, that souls".]

100

In a building which Life buildeth,
 Good trees flourish.
 Fragrant is the perfume of the trees
 With the perfume of Manda-d-Hiia
 Which pervadeth them.

[Here recite "Blessed and praised be Life" of Shem son of Noah, and "Good is good for the good".]

101

The Life hath founded a dwelling,
 And radiance dawned
 In the sublime Ether!
 I and my brethren, the 'uthras,
 Have set out every good thing<sup>2)</sup>,
 Have set out the allotted portion of the Great (Life):
 We have offered it up in purity to the Place of Light.

102

The building that Life buildeth
 Will never come to nought.

and then say "Darkness is crushed back into the Dark <sup>1)</sup> and Light set up in its place".]

103

Darkness is crushed back into the Dark
 And Light is set up in its place.
 The Life hath accepted your prayer,
 The 'uthras have accepted your praise
 The oblation is assigned to its lord,
 And bounty to him who giveth it.
 This soul of N. and the souls of this masiqta <sup>2)</sup> rest at the great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.
 And Life is victorious.

[Here recite "In great radiance am I immersed" and lift thy hand for the masiqta and pray a prayer for thyself.

And Life is victorious.]

[These hymns and homilies of baptism<sup>3)</sup> and the masiqta I copied for myself so that there may be for me commemoration on earth etc. (Cf. other colophons.)]

104 <sup>3)</sup> (The Rušma)

My Lord be praised!
 May Kušta strengthen you! In the name of the great Life may healing and purity be thine!
 O my Father, their Father, King Piriawis,
 Great Jordan of living water,
 In the name of the Great Life
 We have cleansed our hands in truth (kušta)
 And our lips with faith;
 We have uttered words of radiance.

<sup>1)</sup> 'Uma in M.L. p. 166: 10, also in D.C. 53, D.C. 3 and most copies. 'Uma = "darkness", "gloom", "obscurity" (see ܡܘܥܐ rt.-meaning "to be dark, overclouded, and the Aramaic ܡܘܥܡܐ "to be dark, obscure" and cognates). The formula occurs again in Prayer 391, but, this time, both my mss. have 'ma (mother). The alteration may be deliberate, for in Mandaean mysticism "the Mother" is associated with matter, the gross and the physical.

<sup>3)</sup> This prayer, which is not in M.L., is recited daily by every Mandaean, and by every priest before each stage of a rite and every morning, whilst performing the minor ablutions. The water used must be "living" i.e. running, and each action and the verse accompanying it, is repeated thrice.

My mind is absorbed<sup>1)</sup> in (thoughts of) Light.
 Blessed is Thy name, praised is Thy name
 My Lord, Manda-d-Hiia, and blessed and praised
 Is that great Countenance (Presence) of Glory
 Which emanated from Itself. (Three times.)
 I, N. son of N (or daughter of N.),
 Am signed with the Sign of Life
 And the name of Life and the name of Manda-d-Hiia
 Were pronounced on me.
 (Three times)

My ears have heard the voice of Life.
 (Three times)

My nostrils have breathed the perfume of Life.
 (Three times)

My Sign, that is on me, was not in fire,
 And not in oil, and not that wherewith the Anointed<sup>2)</sup>
 One anointed.

My Sign is in the great jordan of living water
 And the Sign and name of Manda-d-Hiia is mentioned upon me.

Darkness is crushed down, and Light set up
 And the name of Manda-d-Hiia is mentioned upon me.
 (Three times)

My mouth was filled with prayer and praise.
 (Three times)

My knees bless and worship the Great Life.
 (Three times)

My feet tread the ways of Truth (Kuṣṭa) and Faith.
 (Three times)

I, N. son of N., am baptised with the baptism
 Of the great Bihram, son of the Mighty (Life)
 My baptism shall guard me and will succeed.
 And the name of Life and the name of Manda-d-Hiia
 Are mentioned upon me.
 (Three times)

My feet <sup>1)</sup> — and the hands of the Seven and the Twelve
 Shall be powerless to rule me.
 The name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḡ-Hiia
 Are mentioned upon me.

106<sup>1)</sup>

In the Name of the Great Life!
 Up, up! (ye) Elect righteous ones,

107

In the name of the Great Life!

 Which emanated from Itself.

[Pray these two prayers after "Up, up elect righteous" in the early morning devotions, then recite "In their name... in the name of that Primal Being"]

109

In the name of the Great Life!
 I worship Life and I praise my lord
 Manda-ḡ-Hiia and that great Presence of Glory
 Which emanated from Itself.

Then recite "In their name (= In the name of the Life) and "In the name of that (Primal Being) and set on thy crown and recite beside is "Life created (Yawar-Ziwa)", "Let there be light" and "Manda created me" and then recite "Incense that is fragrant", and "Lo for the First Life" for the incense and cast it on the fire. And here recite the Sunday prayer.]

113

In the name of the Great Life, may healing be mine,
 Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, through this Sunday prayer!
 "On the light of Ether do I stand,
 I stand for the Great Light with its purities!
 I am Manda-d-Hiia, emanation (lit. planting) of the Mighty
 First Life.

I cried to the first day of the week, (Habšaba)
 The lauded, the pure guardian of the Light
 Who enlighteneth 'uthras. To him I said
 'Rise up, go, set off, descend to the earthly world,
 To that world which is all birth,
 To be with the Elect Righteous,
 Men formed of flesh and blood.
 Hold them in thy grasp, strengthen them,
 Stand by them, take care of them,
 Give them strength and fortitude
 So that they may stand and worship and praise
 The Mighty Sublime Life!' "
 Then Sunday spoke, saying to Manda-d-Hiia
 "How canst thou send me to this world that is all birth
 To be with elect righteous (men)
 Formed of flesh and blood who do not respect me!
 They treat me with contempt, hold me in no great honour,

And remit not my sin and transgression?"

Then Manda-d-Hiia spoke, saying to Sunday,
 "Up with thee! Go, set off, descend to the earthly world
 To this world that is all birth, to be with
 Elect, righteous men formed of flesh and blood.
 And grasp them in thy grasp, confirm them,
 Stand by them and take care of them!
 Turn back and drive away from them
 The seven planets together with their demons and devils,
 And their amulet-imps and their evil creatures;
 So that they will forgive thee thy sins <sup>1)</sup>
 And thy transgressions; will hold thee in great esteem
 And victory will be ours and will be thine".

Then Manda-d-Hiia spoke and said to the elect righteous,
 "Give heed to Sunday the Enlightener whom
 I have sent to be with you in order to enlighten you,
 To uplift you and make you upright,
 And to bring you prayer and praise.
 Forgive him his sins <sup>2)</sup> and transgressions
 And hold him in great esteem."

Manda-d-Hiia taught and expounded and said,
 "Anyone who doth not forsake his sins and trespasses
 On Sunday, nor holdeth him in high esteem,
 Will have no seat amongst the 'uthras
 Nor will he behold the great Countenance of Glory.
 For Sunday is more precious, greater and more beauteous
 And bright than all the 'uthras!"

Blessed and praised is Manda-d-Hiia and the Confirmer".
 And Life is victorious over all works.

114

In the name of the Great Life!
 Sublime Light be glorified!
 Early I arose from my sleep: I stood,
 Into radiance that was great I looked,
 I gazed into radiance that was great,
 Into the Light which is boundless.

When clothed <sup>1)</sup> in robes of radiance
 And light was thrown on my shoulders <sup>2)</sup>,
 A wreath of ether He set on my head
 And set it on the head of all His race <sup>3)</sup>.
 He hymned, and the 'uthras with Him hymn,
 And the Light-rays <sup>4)</sup> answer His voice.
 And it rouseth sleepers and maketh them rise up
 From their sleep.
 He said to them "Arise, ye sleepers who lie there,
 Rise up, ye stumblers who have stumbled,
 Arise, worship and praise the Great Life
 And praise His Counterpart, that is the image of the Life <sup>5)</sup>,
 Which shineth forth and is expressed
 In sublime light."

And Life be praised!

115 <sup>6)</sup>

In the name of the Great Life!
 We have purified our hands in kušta (truth)
 And our lips in faith
 We have uttered words of radiance
 And were absorbed <sup>7)</sup> in thoughts of light.
 Thou, my lord Manda-d-Hiia, art blessed and praised
 And thy praise is established (on high).
 Great is the strength of Life;
 Abounding the glory of the mighty (Life)!
 Honour resteth upon the 'uthras who sit in glory.
 This is prayer and praise which came to them <sup>8)</sup> from

<sup>7)</sup> D.C. 3 makes 'shṭ abun two words (not 'shīḥibun as in the Oxford Ms.) De Morgan has 'shṭabun as in the Rušma and here. See Lidzbarski's note, M.L. 168 n. 2 on the meaning, which he associates with fire. Jastrow, שחט however, gives good reason for his second meaning "to absorb".

<sup>8)</sup> D.C. 3 and M.L. "came to us"

The great place of Light and the everlasting Abode.

We praise (Him) with it when we have risen from our sleep,
Before any have spoken falsehood.

For any man who prayeth this prayer there will be forgiving of sins and transgressions in the great place of Light and in the everlasting Abode.

And Life is victorious.

116

Blessed be thy name and praised be thy name

My lord, Manda-ḡ-Hiia!

Pure mountains that quake not have blessed thee:

'Ufania <sup>1)</sup> (interpretations?) of truth which are unchangeable
Have blessed thee.

Sons of salvation who sit in thy company

Have blessed thee.

Yawar-Ziwa, the great king of Naṣirutha

Hath blessed thee;

Ayar-Nhura, the pure, the envoy who is all righteousness,

Hath blessed thee

And I <sup>2)</sup> worship and praise that channel of light,

The messenger of all rays-of-light.

Blessed is thy name and praised is thy name,

Being who resteth upon the škintas!

Upon škintas <sup>3)</sup> doth his name rest.

Every day, daily, they gaze on his likeness

And upon the great Countenance of Glory.

And Life be praised!

[Pray these four prayers, "On the Ether-Light do I stand", "Early I rose from my sleep", "We have purified our hands in kušṭa", and "Blessed be thy name and praised be thy name". Recite them for the "Devotions" for daybreak after incense.]

117

I worship, praise and laud

That Šrar, the great occult First Vine

Whose fruits are a thousand thousand,

And a myriad myriad His tendrils;
 Upon Whom I called and He answered me.
 Further, when I call on him, He will answer me;
 For He will come and will heal me,
 Will lift me up, raise me and confirm me <sup>1)</sup>
 Will direct my eyes to the Light,
 And my feet to steadfastness
 My mouth to wisdom and my heart to vigilance.
 Then I worship, praise and laud
 That first great occult škinta
 That is the house of dazzling beings.
 Then I worship, praise and laud
 That occult, first škinta
 Which my Parents <sup>2)</sup> inhabit.
 Then I worship, praise and laud
 Yon Ruaz, the great first secret Vine
 Which loosed its milky juices <sup>3)</sup> into the habitations.
 Then I worship, praise and laud
 That Ruaz, the great first Light
 Who hath sovereignty over all worlds of light.
 Then I worship, praise and laud
 That great, occult, first škinta
 To which the eyes of Nasōraeans,
 Men set apart, and the elect righteous
 Look, that they may rise and behold
 The great place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.
 And Life be praised: Life is victorious.

[Pray this prayer in the Rahmia (Devotions) of the seventh hour, after incense on the fire (and after?) "On the Ether-Light do I stand"]

118

It is time to pray the "Devotions",
 The great moment for humble worship <sup>4)</sup>,
 For offering up propitiatory prayer <sup>5)</sup>

To my lord, Manda-d-Hiia,
 For arousing <sup>1)</sup> the elect righteous.
 The priests say to Manda-d-Hiia
 "We will abjure that which we possess
 Of fee, alms and benefit
 And the (false) deity <sup>2)</sup> of the House <sup>3)</sup>.
 We will come and will be believers."
 Manda-d-hiia saith to them, to the priests,
 "Your Father hath great strength,
 Surpassing all limit, (stronger)
 Than passionate thoughts, vain things
 And the devouring flame.
 The Good One clotheth His children:
 He covereth them and raiseth and showeth them
 That there is great enlargement <sup>4)</sup> of Life
 And your souls shall rejoice
 With clouds (spouses?) of light.
 But other souls will die and become
 As though they had never existed.
 Ye shall receive your vestments: <sup>5)</sup>
 Ye shall receive your wreaths.
 In the presence of the Great (Life?)
 Ye will be great, and will be called
 'Uthras amongst the 'uthras.
 And ye will say "The Living stand
 In the dwelling of the Life".

And Life is victorious over all works.

[Pray this prayer in the evening devotions after incense (and) after "For the Ether-light do I stand".]

119

In the name of the Great Life
 Be the sublime Light glorified!
 On Sunday, the first of days,

Who hath seen that which I have seen?
 Who saw Manda-d-Hiia
 When he went and came to the world?
 He went (thence) and came to the world.
 The Earth lay prostrate and was affrighted.
 He taught, and lovely was his voice!
 And he lifted it up, in his mouth there was eloquence,
 Eloquence he put into his mouth.
 He revolutionized and forsook the world:
 The world he revolutionised and forsook.
 Spirit (ruha) sitteth in lamentation
 In lamentation sitteth Ruha;
 And the Seven sit in consternation;
 They weep and prolong their mourning
 Because their mysteries are disclosed,
 Because disclosed are their mysteries.
 They will be brought to an end
 On the great Last Day.
 Namrus <sup>1)</sup> feared and trembled,
 Her weapon fell from her shoulder,
 From her shoulder fell her weapon
 And her bows <sup>2)</sup> from the palm of her hand,
 Ruha addresseth her sons,
 Her good-for-nothing idle (sons),
 She saith to them, "Sons, when terror overtaketh your mother,
 What will you Seven do?
 When the Strange Being cometh,
 Who will rise to confront him?"
 A consuming ray <sup>3)</sup> of light
 Is in Manda-d-hiia's hand; felling them
 He cometh (to?) the rebels.
 The Son-of-Life raiseth his Voice
 At departure <sup>4)</sup> of the Seven Saying to them "I have brought wares

<sup>4)</sup> paṭur occurs in D.C. 36 and DC. 6 of prayers, that they are the soul's paṭur (paṭurh hinun) i.e. "her discharge", her "permission to leave" seems the likeliest translation.

To my friends.
 I brought truthful words to believers.
 Men who buy my wares,
 Their merits wreath their heads
 Twined are their merits,
 And their horns are exalted
 On <sup>1)</sup> their heads.
 They will arise and will behold
 The Place of Light.
 Renowned is Life and victorious,
 And victorious the man who went hence.

My day — what is it amongst the days?
 A day, My day!
 What amongst the hours is one hour?
 My day, what is it amongst the days?
 The day on which the radiance of Manda-d-Hiia shone forth,
 My day is Sunday, chief of days,
 The day on which the radiance of Manda-d-Hiia dawned:
 On my day the radiance of Sunday dawned
 Upon us and enlightened us beyond measure.

121

Before the Wellsprings were transmuted <sup>2)</sup>
 Before the Awakening <sup>3)</sup> without,
 Before ye were in existence
 I was in the world:
 The Voice of living waters (Water of Life),
 (Waters) which transmute the turbid waters.
 They become clear and shining <sup>4)</sup>
 They gush forth and cast out impurities.

Wherefore should the First (Life) desire sons from the dregs?
 Voices cry aloud proclamations <sup>1)</sup>
 Planning schemes, all of them talk!
 (But) one Voice cometh and teacheth all sayings,
 One Being cometh and teacheth about this and that.
 (As for) us, who have praised our Lord
 Thou wilt forgive us our sins.
 Thou wast victorious, Manda-d-Hiia
 And thou ledest all thy friends to victory.
 And Life is victorious.

122

O Lord of devotions,
 O Lord of Prayers
 And of hymns and good <sup>2)</sup> books,
 O Lord of prayer and praise,
 Hear my voice and condemn me not!

123

Except for six or seven nations,
 Fruit is set up on the Tree;
 On the Tree fruit is set up
 And (other) trees gather together toward it.
 Toward it do the trees assemble,
 And a throne is set up for the Lord <sup>3)</sup> of Radiance
 For the Lord of Radiance a throne is set up
 And the Lord of Radiance sitteth thereon.
 Before him are set up recompenses
 Which he delivereth to the perfect,
 To the perfect doth he deliver them
 And said "To each according to the works of his hands
 It is awarded". And he said <sup>4)</sup> "Every man who toiled <sup>5)</sup>
 And was long-suffering shall come and take with both hands,

<sup>5)</sup> D.C. 53 is defective. For kulhin d hua read as in other mss. kul man d hla u'tangar. The verb is הלא not הלי (in Mandaic there is no distinction between the two hs.). Jastrow gives as the meaning of הלא, הלי "to be faint, to labor" i.e. to toil till fatigued. For 'tangar read 'tnagar (cf. נאג).

But he who did not toil nor endure,
 Standeth empty in the House of Dues.
 He will seek but will not find,
 And ask, but nought will be given him,
 Because he had in his hand and gave not,
 He will search there in his bosom and will find nothing."
 Thou art praised, Manda-d-Hiia
 Who dost not condemn thy friends.

124

I seek a boon from the Life,
 From Thee, mighty Life.
 I seek a boon from the Life —
 That Ye will rightly guide Your praise <sup>1)</sup>
 For me.

[These three antiphonal hymns and three chants are for the first day of the week.]

125

In the name of the Great Life
 At the beginning of the construction <sup>2)</sup>
 I issued from thee, everlasting abode:
 At the beginning of the Building I emanated from the Builder,
 The Great (Life) who built me.
 From the Builder, who is the Great (Life)
 Who constructed me, I came.
 My Transplanter transplanted me.
 I came: my Transplanter transplanted me
 With advice that was counselled by the Great (Life),
 With advice given by the Great (Life)
 They sent me that I might build a building,
 That I might construct a building for the good,
 For true and faithful men,
 I built and constructed it;
 And at the beginning of the building I established,
 I planted living plants therein,
 True and faithful men.

<sup>2)</sup> Lidzbarski took banana to mean "in a cloud". The context, however, and the evidence of other texts proves the word to mean the act of building, construction, a building, and usually the act of creation.

I entreat my Builder (Creator) (saying)
 "Keep Thine eye on my Plants
 Upon my Plants keep Thine eye,
 Lest, perchance, they droop <sup>1)</sup> and lie down
 Forgetting the good things commanded (them),
 Until they sleep (droop) and until they lie down,
 And until they forget Me (and) the good things commanded,
 Until they forget Me!
 (Then) will apostasy enter into them."
 Beware of it, my brethren! Beware of it my friends!
 Beware, my friends of Jesu, the pseudo-Messiah,
 And of those who misconstrue appearances
 And alter the words of My mouth.
 If ye are wary, my brethren, if ye are wary, my friends,
 If ye are wary, my brethren, when ye depart from your bodies
 I will be a Helper to you.
 A Helper and a Support from the Place of Darkness
 To the Place of Light.
 Thou hast conquered, Manda-d-Hiia
 And makest victorious all those who love Thy name.

126

At the beginning of the pure Kimša <sup>2)</sup>
 Accompanied by sublime Rays of Light,
 I gazed and beheld a great (sprouting) <sup>3)</sup> Shoot
 Which was transplanted from within the great Jordan.
 Sublime was his voice his perfume fragrant,
 His appearance shining and splendid!
 And Life is victorious.

127

A Being, chosen, righteous, sprang up
 And shone forth in the world.
 He appeared in the world and shone forth.
 He spoke with the Mighty Life;
 With the mighty Life he spoke,

And revealed mysteries that were veiled,
 Mysteries that were veiled he revealed.
 His glory resteth on his friends,
 On his friends his glory abideth.
 But the whole world <sup>1)</sup> persecuteth him.
 When he saw that the worlds persecute him
 He lifted his eyes to the Place of Light.
 They opened the Gate of Light to him
 And he arose into Life: They (Life) supported him.
 Life supported Life,
 Life found Its own,
 And my soul hath found
 That for which it had waited.
 Thou art victorious, Manda-q-Hiia,
 And thou bringest to victory
 All those who love thee.
     And Life is victorious.

128

O Man, whom acclamation chose out,
 Who wast selected out of the world,
 They will cause thine eyes to shine, good one! <sup>2)</sup>
 For they have clothed thee in a robe
 Which is beautiful.
 Because of thy cry and the sound of thy teaching,
 The Great Life hath accepted thy prayer
 And thy praise.

"Whither goest thou, chosen <sup>3)</sup> righteous One
 Whom all thy friends seek, for Whom all Thy friends

And set it up in the beginning.
 Into the Building I transplanted
 Plants that were living,
 True and faithful men.
 I entreat my Builder,
 The Being who guardeth the Building,
 I entreat my Builder (saying)
 'Direct Thine eyes to my plants,
 Upon my plants keep Thine Eye;
 For perchance they may wilt <sup>1)</sup> and lie down
 And forget the good things They commanded;
 Until they sleep and until they lie down
 And until they forget the good things commanded (them)!'
 The Being cried to the world from one end to the other,
 To the world's end the Being called the world and said,
 "Well is it for one who taketh heed to himself!
 The man who taketh heed to himself
 Hath not his like in the world! Moreover,
 Men who are staunch shall live:
 But those who turn aside shall come to an end.
 Those who turn aside shall die <sup>2)</sup>
 But those who are staunch shall find certainty.
 My brethren, hold firmly to your staves <sup>3)</sup>
 And endure the world's persecution.
 The worlds' persecution endure
 With a true and believing heart.
 Worship Me with uprightness
 And I will act as your Helper,
 A Helper and support from the Place of Darkness
 To the Place of Light.
 And Life is victorious.

On the day on which They opened
 The great gate of the Dwellings <sup>4)</sup>

<sup>2)</sup> So in both D.C. 53 and D.C. 3. The line is missing in M.L.

<sup>3)</sup> The olivewood staff (margna) is part of a priest's insignia, so that priests and not laymen are addressed.

<sup>4)</sup> Hilbunia is a literary word for "houses". Literally hilbuna means "egg", for which the usual word is bit (which also means "house"). In poetry, human beings as well as divine personages live in hilbunia.

The radiance of the King over the holy 'uthras
 Was enhanced.
 To true and faithful men there came
 Prayer and thanksgiving.
 They rejoice and delight therein
 And raise their prayer and praise
 To the Place of Light.

[These three hymns and three chants are for the second day of the week (Monday).]

131

In the name of the Great Life
 Sublime Light be magnified!
 "Thou camest from the House of Life;
 Thou camest - what didst Thou bring us?"
 "I brought you that ye shall not die:
 That your souls shall not be pent back.
 I brought you on the day of death, Life;
 On the day of affliction, Joy. <sup>1)</sup>
 I brought you a serenity
 That existeth not in the unrest of nations".
 "This, this hast Thou brought, Good One!
 To the true man what hast Thou brought?"
 "I have made him My treasurer,
 Made him ruler over all that I have.
 I have given him precepts of right-dealing
 By which he entereth and departeth <sup>2)</sup>
 As a man who hath realised his desire.
 Chosen ones! ye have asked and have found;
 Furthermore, my chosen, ye shall seek and find
 Just as the first (believers?) sought".
 And Life is victorious.

132

Come, come, King of 'uthras,
 Lofty Messenger, who came from His Father's House.
 Come! receive my prayer and my praise
 And lift it up in peace to the Place of Light!

133

Thou camest from the House of Good Beings.
(O would <sup>1)</sup> that Thou hadst not come into corruption
Into the evil and falsity of this world!
Would that Thou hadst not come into corruption
And hadst not been seen by my eyes!"
"If verily I came, if verily I appeared,
Thine eyes are eyes of falsehood
Whilst my eyes are eyes of truth.
Lying eyes are darkened utterly.
Eyes of falsity behold not the Truth!
If thou wishest to see, Ruha, <sup>2)</sup>
Go to the house of him who knoweth Me,
Those who know me, for I dwell amongst them
In the hearts of my friends
And the thoughts of my disciples".
And Life is victorious.

134

Come, come, King of 'Uthras,
Lofty Messenger for whom my eyes look!
Hearken, hear my cry
And lift up my prayers and my praise
To the Place of Light.

135

Fragrance came from its place,
Truth came from its Home,
Fragrance came from its place,
It came and settled in the House
It crieth and maketh the dead live,
It arouseth those who who are dying
And lying prone.
It awaketh souls who are fit for <sup>3)</sup> and worthy
Of the Place of Light.
This, this is what the Good One did,

<sup>1)</sup> 'dilma indicates a doubtful or sarcastic statement. or a negative form of stating a condition. Ruha is the speaker.

And set up that which liveth, His Sign.
 The planets assembled, they went.
 They confronted him that ruled them,
 Saying to him, "Hast thou not seen, Alaha-Alihun <sup>1)</sup>,
 That a Fragrance hath come from its place,
 A fragrance from its place hath come?
 The (And that) Mana hath moved from its place?
 It calleth and maketh the dead live,
 And rouseth the dead <sup>2)</sup> and the sleeping;
 It awaketh souls who are fit for and worthy
 Of the Place of Light.
 This, this hath the Good One done,
 And hath set up that which liveth, His Sign".

Alaha-Alihun opened his mouth,
 Saying to his sons, his first-born,
 "Come, come, my children,
 My first-born and my offspring!
 Listen to the thing which I say unto you!
 If ye find a righteous man,
 Bow yourselves low before him,
 One bow for himself, and the second
 For the Fragrance of Life which resteth upon him".
 Behold, Life is victorious!
 Life triumpheth over this world.

136

Come, come, Manda-d-Hiia!
 The Mount of Darkness becometh light,
 It groweth light, the mount of Darkness,
 And the turbid waters become fresh <sup>3)</sup>.

[These three hymns and three chants are for the third day of the week (Tuesday).]

137

In the name of the Great Life
 Sublime Light be magnified!

<sup>2)</sup> D.C. 53 and D.C. 3 both have mitia: The Oxford ms. maitia "dying", which Lidzbarski has translated "bringt her".

There was a Cry in the firmament
 And thunder sounded in the House of Stars.
 Ruha and the planets sit in lamentation,
 They sit in lamentation over a man
 Who sprang up from the Earth,
 About a man who sprang up from the Earth
 And rent a fissure in the House,
 A fissure he rent in the House
 And into it he cast dispute.
 A dispute he cast into it,
 Not to be resolved for an age of ages;
 (Not) until Manda-d-Hiia cometh
 Bringing with him three chosen ones,
 Bringing three chosen ones with him
 And lifting them up to the everlasting Abode,
 To the place which is light-giving and effulgent.
 Summoned and invited (thither) are your souls,
 And the souls of our good brothers
 And those of our sisters who are believing.
 Thou art victorious, Manda-d-Hiia.,
 Good One, who establisheth his friends!
 And Life is victorious.

138

The voice of a hidden Sprout <sup>1)</sup>
 It spoke and discoursed from the Earth,
 From the Earth it spoke and discoursed.
 The Great Life, from the Occult, answered it,
 From the Occult the Great Life gave it reply.
 And It transferred thither and sent a Messenger.
 The Messenger (whom) It transferred and sent Subdueth the might of rebels.

139

I ascended the mountain Carmel <sup>2)</sup>,
 Thee I ascended, Mountain, Mount Carmel!
 The mountain of Carmel I ascended.

Twelve vines <sup>1)</sup> awaited me.
 The vines saw me, the Vines beheld me.
 When they saw me, the vines waxed great,
 They spread out their foliage.
 They increased, spread out their foliage,
 Increased their fruit and their blossom.
 (Yet) they knew me not, did not discern me,
 Nor did they take heed of me.
 They knew me not, did not discern who I was,
 Nor whose son I was <sup>2)</sup>,
 The man who saw me and discerned me,
 His course is set for the Place of Life!
 Thou art victorious, Manda-d-Hiia
 And ledest all thy friends to victory.

140

Between mountains twain,
 And between three škintas,
 Between mountains twain
 Yawar, the Chosen One, founded a škinta <sup>3)</sup>
 A škinta did Yawar found,
 And chosen righteous were established therein,
 Therein were the chosen righteous established <sup>4)</sup>.
 And they arise and behold the Place of Light.

141

Who will come, who will tell me,
 Who will inform me, who will teach me,
 Who will come and who will tell me
 What 'uthras are like, what 'uthras resemble,
 And what do rays-of-light resemble?
 'Uthras resemble Radiance,
 "Rays" resemble Light.
 'Uthras pledge their word <sup>5)</sup>
 And do not lie.
 The planets lie: they

Come to an end on the Great Last Day.
 Life is extolled, and victorious
 And victorious is the man
 Who went hence.

142

The advent of Hibil-'Uthra —
 Like Šitil, he goeth to the house of his friends,
 Priests who hearkened to the voice of Anuš the great
 'uthra;
 They worship and praise the Great Life
 From the beginning unto the end.

[These three hymns and three chants are for the fourth day of the week (Wednesday)].

143

In the name of the Great Life
 Sublime Light be glorified.
 In the glory of my Father I stand,
 And with praise of the Being who is my Creator:
 In the glory of my Father I stand
 And am upright in the House of Perfection.
 At my voice the earth trembled;
 At my radiance the heavens were shaken,
 The seas dry up,
 Flowing streams fall into barren wastes.
 Destroyed, rent asunder are fortresses
 And earthly men of might are quelled.
 Mountains, however lofty,
 Like bridges are laid flat.
 As for the wicked, who rise up against me,
 There is a Being who will hew them down,
 Not with my strength but in the strength of the mighty Life.
 And Life is victorious and victorious the man
 Who went hence.

144

By my pure radiance am I protected;
 And the 'uthras, my brothers, are covered with light.
 Through the vigilance and praisegiving of the 'uthras,
 My brothers, the glory of Life cometh and resteth upon me.

145

When the Mighty <sup>1)</sup> (Life) speaketh
 In the Great Place, the House of Perfection
 The Great and Mighty One transporteth (or createth)
 Šilmai and Nidbai: It transported Šilmai and Nidbai
 And gave them to Nṣab-Ziwa as his helpers.
 When Nṣab-Ziwa had reliance on the 'uthras,
 The perfect beings whom They had sent down,
 He spoke with his calm voice
And the chosen go out towards him <sup>2)</sup>
Towards him go out the chosen.
 And he giveth them some of his glory
 Some of his glory he bestoweth on them,
 And the chosen on earth are confirmed
 The elect righteous are confirmed;
 They rise up and behold the Place of Light.
 Extolled is Life victorious,
 And victorious is the man who went hence.

146

I am preserved by my pure radiance
 Like the Mighty One <sup>3)</sup> in His Glory.
 My raiment shone forth in the House
 And my prayer and praise rise upward to His Place <sup>4)</sup>.

147

Miserable <sup>5)</sup> am I!
 When shall I go (hence?)
 (When will) my aching heart find relief?
 My heart that aches (when will it) find relief?
 And my soul, that they made an alien,
 Find its vent?
 In the place where they are much questioned
 The glory of Life will rest on me.
 And it will rest upon my priests and (those)

Whom the Seven persecute in this world.
 (Yea) the Seven persecute sorely!
 The worlds which persecute and wrong,
 The Seven, they and their king,
 Are bound for conflagrations of fire.
 (But) the good, the elect, the just
 And the perfect rise
 And behold the Place of Light.
 Life is extolled, victorious,
 And victorious is the man who went hence.

148

“I am poor <sup>1)</sup> and submissive,
 An elect righteous one <sup>2)</sup>.
 Listen, hearken to my cry!”
 “Thou, poor one, with thy children,
 Thine offspring and thy priest,
 Shalt rise and thou wilt behold
 The Place of Light”.

[These three prayers and three hymns are for the fifth day of the week (Thursday).]

149 <sup>3)</sup>

In the name of the Great Life
 Sublime Light be magnified!
 At the door of the synagogue
 Her mother meeteth Miriai,
 Miriai her mother meeteth,
 And she questioneth her straitly,
 “Whence comest thou, My daughter Miriai?
 That thy face plucketh (colour from) the rose.
 Thy face plucketh (colour from) the rose
 And thine eyes are full of sleep,
 Full of sleep are thine eyes
 And thy brow beareth marks of vigil!” <sup>4)</sup>

<sup>3)</sup> The conversion and baptism of Miriai are described in G.R., see Lidzbarski's translation, p. 341; and in J.B. II p. 123. See also 162, p. 140.

<sup>4)</sup> שְׁהָרָה “to be awake: šaharta = “a vigil”, “a watch”? Doubtful: the word could also mean “sleep”!

And she (Miriai) answered her,
 "Yea, these two or three days
 My brothers stayed in my Father's house;
 In my Father's house my brothers stayed
 Chanting wondrous chants.
 At their voice, at the sound of the discourse
 Of the 'uthras, my brothers,
 No sleep cometh to mine eyes,
 To mine eyes no sleep cometh
 And my brow (keepeth) vigil". <sup>1)</sup>
 Hast thou not heard, daughter Miriai,
 What the Jews say about thee?
 The Jews say 'Thy daughter is in love with a man,

On the day that the great gate of the Dwellings<sup>1)</sup> opened,
 The radiance of the King upon the holy 'uthras was increased.
 The 'uthras bowed in adoration
 And the Great Life accepted their prayer and their praise
 From beginning to end.

When will my Lord come from thee
 Victorious heaven?
 He will lift my head from my knees
 And dry my eyes from my tears.
 My lap that is full of ignominies

 I lay low<sup>4)</sup> and I arose.
 I will tell him everything: of how
 All the worlds have harried me,
 Many were the persons<sup>5)</sup> who harried me.
 (But) my brethren, sons of Kušta,
 Do not fail me.
 The worlds stoned me with stones
 (But) my brothers were moved in words to anger thereat<sup>6)</sup>.
 (O) that my Lord would come from thee
 Victorious heaven! for He will lift my head
 From my knees and dry my eyes from my tears.
 My lap, which was full of ignominies,
 He hath emptied out before Him, I lay low
 And I arose<sup>7)</sup>. And I will recount to Him everything,
 How all the worlds persecuted me;
 Many were the persons who harried me,

A cleft was cloven in the earth:
 Thunder sounded in great Sion,
 The being who breached the breach

In the name of the Great Life,
Sublime Light be magnified!
Stand by Me, be steadfast,
(Ye who) know Me;
Stand by Me, be staunch,
My friends.
Stand by Me staunchly
(Ye who) know Me,
Like a stone column in storm-winds!
Tempest may go, tempest may come;
(But), My friends, change not
(The words of?) My mouth.
For men who stand firm will live,
(Whilst) those who turn away will meet their end,
Those who turn away will die
Those who remain staunch will find
Sure truth. My brothers,
Speak truthfully, not with lying lips
Prevaricate. Be not like a pomegranate
Which on its outer face is sound,
Outwardly sound is its surface,
But inside it is full of dry husks.
Be like a wine-jar full of Azmiuz wine;
Its outside is clay and pitch
But inside it is Azmiuz wine.
The Voice of Life calleth
And the ears of the chosen hearken.
Extolled is Life and victorious
And victorious the man that goeth hence.

To the mountains I say
 How fragrant are your odours,
 How delightful your perfume!
 Within you <sup>1)</sup> all is full of brightness!"
 They reply, "The Being who passed through our midst
 Hath no tangibility or substance,
 No substance or tangibility hath He,
 Nor is there any kind of need in Him.
 The Being who passed amongst us,
 Released some of his vivifying power <sup>2)</sup> amongst us."
 The wicked hold their power of reproduction
 (To consist of) questions <sup>3)</sup> (?) and words.
 But not in questions(?) and words can the vivifying power <sup>4)</sup>
 Of Life be comprehended,
 But in truth and belief
 Which the Elect hold as their vital principle.
 Every man who holdeth to his vital principle
 And is steadfast therein, raiseth up life,
 To support it (life).
 (But on) one who did not grasp his vital principle
 And did not stand firmly upon it,
 From yonder they loose strife,
 They loose strife from yonder
 And he will become the portion of the world.
 And Life is victorious.

<sup>2)</sup> Niṣubta is a word of very complex meaning. It is primarily the urge to propagate, reproduce, the élan vital, the vivifying principle, procreation, planting, implanting. At the beginning of the hymn the poet, admiring the sweet herb-scented mountains, is told by them that it is the divine vivifying power of Life which has produced their perfume and beauty. The working of the vital urge in man is then described as a yearning for true life, the life of the soul. In later Mandaean literature niṣubta is an expression for a wife or bride, nṣab niṣubta = "he took a woman to wife".

<sup>4)</sup> The varying value of niṣubta makes translation difficult, and the whole poem is obscure.

In the name of the Great Life
 Sublime Light be magnified!
 The departure of the sabbath
 With its evening <sup>2)</sup> (marketh),
 The entry of Sunday for good.
 At the departure of the sabbath
 With its night,
 The Good One set forth and came into being
 And he took his lofty throne
 And placed in it that which he brought <sup>3)</sup>.
 And he took his shepherd's-pipe of Truth
 That is filled with prayers <sup>4)</sup> and praise.
 Once on a time, Good One,
 I played <sup>5)</sup> thereon.
 The door of the heavens opened!
 A second time, Good One,
 Did I hymn therewith,
 And all the wicked became good!
 And a third time, Good One,
 I hymned therewith.
 All were stirred to consciousness
 And they arose.
 It said to them, "Rise up, come <sup>6)</sup>,

<sup>1)</sup> Tanna, see p. 9, n. 1. A modern Mandaean legend was related to me which may be founded on this prayer. It was that a green shoot sprouted in Noah's wife's oven as a portent that the flood was imminent. See MMII pp. 259-260.

<sup>2)</sup> Read brmaš. (Bar maš and brmaš, "son of groping", "son of searching", may be deliberate play on words.) I translate "with its evening", not in the Christian sense of an "eve", because with Mandaeans a day begins at dawn, not at sunset of the previous day. ܘܡܪܝܢ = "evening", "night".

<sup>6)</sup> Not in M.L., but in both D.C. 53 and D.C. 3.

Ye sleepers who lie sleeping!
 Arise, ye erring ones who have stumbled!
 Is not my rule hard upon you?
 And doth not my high lash fall heavy upon you?"
 They say to him, "By thy life,
 Our father <sup>1)</sup>, Son of the Life,
 Because of the radiance and light
 Thou hast brought with thee
 Thy rule is not hard on us
 Nor does thy high lash strike hardly upon us!
 But as for the wicked,
 The son of the wicked,
 It entered his body
 And felled him (to the ground)".
 Once I cried to the evil one
 "Keep aloof from my gnostic!" <sup>2)</sup> (or "Avoid my hand!")
 I repeated, saying to him,
 "Keep aloof from my friends!"
 And a third time I spoke to him
 To the wicked one, and I will not let him go free,
 I will slay him utterly, the evil one,
 And will cast him into world's end
 Into world's end will I cast him
 For I cried to him <sup>3)</sup> in his ear and he heard not,
 In his ear I cried and he heard not.
 I showed him, before his eyes, but he looked not.
 I showed him, but he saw not with his eyes.
 He will meet his end on the great Last Day.
 As for us, who praise our Lord,
 Thou wilt forgive us our sins and trespasses.
 Life is renowned and victorious,
 And victorious the man who went hence.

In the name of the Great Life
 Sublime Light be magnified.
 The outgoing of the sabbath with its night <sup>3)</sup>
 Is the entry of Sunday for good.
 (At) the outgoing of the sabbath with its night
 The Life summoned me, from amongst Them,
 And some of His serenity He imparted to my mind.
 He issued a command, and they clothed me with radiance,
 Brought me light that was powerful
 And covered me (therewith).
 They armed me with their armour
 And gave command; to the earth they sent me
 To voice the Call of the Life,
 To found a society in the House,
 To found abodes and to build in them sanctuaries <sup>4)</sup>,
 To ordain priests <sup>5)</sup> who are fit for
 And worthy of the Place of Light,
 To smoothen a road for the good,
 To prepare a path for the believing,
 To make plain and lift up
 Probity <sup>6)</sup> to its place;

<sup>6)</sup> Tuqna. Or "steady light", or "honesty" or "orderliness," "orthodoxy".

And to leave dross behind <sup>1)</sup> at its proper place,
 To deliver the whole congregation of souls,
 (The souls) of Naṣoraeans and Madaeans,
 So that the sinner may have no power over them.
 I set forth: with my radiance that is great
 I came to this world,
 I called with the voice of Life,
 And I caused a society to dwell in the House <sup>2)</sup>.
 I founded škintas, I built in them sanctuaries,
 And I instructed priests (or disciples)
 Who were fit for and worthy of
 The Place of Light.
 I levelled a road for the good
 And prepared a path for the believing,
 I made plain and set up probity
 In its place
 And left the dross behind at its place.
 I delivered the whole congregation of souls,
 (Those) of Naṣoraeans and Madaeans,
 So that the sinner should have no power over them.
 Who told the sons of the Evil One
 That they should go forth towards me?
 They say, "Man, give us some of thy radiance
 Which is great, and some
 Of thy light which is boundless!"
 I answer them, "Efface yourselves,
 Be banished from before me
 (Ye) dead ones, evil ones
 Who have not beheld Life!"
 Who giveth the portion of light
 To Darkness, or truth to the wicked?
 The truth which was mine I have given
 To Naṣoraeans, righteous and believing men.
 Behold, they dedicated themselves to goodness,
 They will rise and will behold
 The Place of Light.
 Life is extolled and victorious
 And victorious the man who went hence.

 All full of evil, full of consuming fire.
 I willed it not, nor do I desire
 To dwell in the futile dwelling,

<sup>2)</sup> This makes no sense. I suggest that originally piria was Piriawis, and that it was mn Piriawis atit (I came from P.)

<sup>3)</sup> A play on words; 'mun also means "answered me": מנ means (a) to answer (b) to afflict, oppress.

With my strength and with my vigilance (Perforce and with vigilance?)

Have I dwelt in the futile abode,
By my vigilance and my praise
Have I kept myself alien from it,
From the world.

I have stood amongst them like a fatherless child,
Like a fatherless child, or like
A fruit tree with none to tend it <sup>1)</sup>.

I hear the voice of the Seven,
Who murmur and confer together:
They say, "Whence is this being? (this) stranger,
Whose whose speech is not like our speech?"

I did not listen to their talk
And they were filled with evil rage against me.
The Life, who heard my cry, sent towards me a saviour.
He sent me a gentle 'uthra,

A being equipped and equipping.
He discoursed with me in his pure voice,
Just as 'uthras discourse in the House of Perfection
And he said, "Fear not, poor thing; and do not tremble,
Say not 'I am alone!'

Because of thee, poor one the firmament
Was thus outspanned, the heavens were outspanned thus;
And stars were created therein.

For thy sake, poor one,
This dry land came into being,
The dry land came to pass and became solid
And fell into the water.

On thine account, poor one,
The sun came; for thee was the moon revealed.
On thine account, poor one, did the seven <sup>2)</sup> come.
And those twelve <sup>3)</sup> went hither.

At thy right hand, thou poor one, abideth radiance

Stand firm! Rise in thy brightness <sup>1)</sup> (?)
 Until thy measure (of years) is complete.
 When thy measure is complete,
 I myself will come to thee, I will bring thee
 Robes of splendour
 Which the world, covetous <sup>2)</sup>, will entreat;
 I will bring to thee wrappings <sup>3)</sup>,
 Good and pure, of the Light
 Which is great and boundless.
 I will deliver thee from the wicked
 And save thee from sinners.
 I will set thee in thy škinta
 In the Pure Place. I will rescue thee!"
 I hear the voice of the Seven
 As they mutter and whisper and say
 "Blessed is it that the poor one
 Hath a father, and the fruit-tree one who tendeth it.
 For us there is no father: our fruit-tree hath none to tend it!"
 Well is it for him whom the Great Life knoweth
 But woe to him whom the Great Life knoweth not!
 Well is it for him whom the Great Life knoweth,
 Who keepeth himself alien from the world,
 From the world of imperfection
 In which the planets sit.
 On thrones of rebellion do they sit
 And perform their deeds with a scourge.
 They stir up trouble about gold and silver,
 They cast into it (the world) strife,
 They stir up trouble cast strife into it.
 And they will go into the fire: will seethe,
 They will go into fire and will seethe,
 The wicked will seethe and their pomp
 Will perish and be brought to a stop.
 (But) I, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš,
 And my offspring and my kinsfolk

I will arise, I will behold the Place of Light
 The place whose sun goeth not down,
 Nor do its lamps of light grow dim.
 To it, to that place, (to that) bourne
 Your souls are bidden and invited,
 And the souls of our good brothers
 And those (of) our sisters who are believing.
 Life is extolled and victorious
 And victorious is the man who went hence.

In the name of the Life!
 The 'uthras rejoice in His <sup>1)</sup> treasure,
 And 'uthras increase in glory
 Through the Treasure.
 The 'uthras rejoice and shine
 In the vigilance and praise
 Which your Father, the Mighty Life,
 Inspired in you. <sup>2)</sup>

167

In the Name of the Great Life!
 Thee, my Lord, do I worship
 And Thee, my Lord, do I praise.
 Light-in-Truth do we call Thee.
 Look on us, Lord, and condemn us not!

Upon the Beginning of the great Ether of Life
 And upon the great Source of Healings
 Do I, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, take stand.
 I have made prayer and submission to
 That great <sup>3)</sup> Primal Mana and the Treasure of Treasures,
 And to Bihrun, Kanfiel, Nšab and Anan-Nšab,
 To Sar and Sarwan, Tar and Tarwan, 'Urfiel and Marfiel

And to Arsapan <sup>1)</sup>, the Youth of tender years,
 And to Yawar-Tatgmur and to Haš-u-Praš
 The 'uthra who is Nšab and Anan-Nšab,
 Bihram and the great Ram — Life is His name —
 Who receiveth prayer and praise
 And uplifteth it (them) to the Great Place of Light
 And to the Everlasting Abode.
 He will accept my prayer and praise, mine,
 Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš,
 And lift it up to the Great Place of Light
 And to the Everlasting Abode
 Into His own škin̄ta; will uplift it and will not let Distortion or fault appear therein.
 And Life be praised!

169

To thy name, Land (world) of Light
 And to the great Door of the House of Life
 Have I addressed my prayer and made submission,
 And to that great First Mana
 And that great first Source of glory who is Haš-u-Praš (He pondered and declared) and Prišaia-rba-qadmaia (Noble, great, First) is His name <sup>2)</sup>;
 Our propitiation <sup>3)</sup> and our Awe.
 Wondrous is His voice,
 And His converse other-worldly.
 (He it is) who accepteth prayer and praise
 And taketh it up to the great place of Light
 And to the everlasting abode.
 He accepteth my prayer and my praise,
 Mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš,
 Who have prayed this prayer and (these) Devotions.
 And he lifteth it up to the great place of Light
 And to the everlasting abode
 And delivereth it to the great Yawar.
 This is prayer and praise which came to us

Which is all birth.

For every man who prayeth this prayer

There will be forgiving of sins.

To every Naṣōraean man who prayeth this prayer

And standeth at his devotions,

And mentioneth these names sincerely,

A guardian-spirit of light will come

And will abide in his house,

(And will abide in my house)

Mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš.

And I, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš,

By means of this prayer will seek and find

And speak and be heard,

I will seek justice and win (my case);

I shall be without sin or trespass

In the Great Place of Light

And the Everlasting Abode.

Life be praised! and Life is victorious.

(These are five (?)<sup>1</sup>) prayers which are fruits of ether (?). The first is the confirmation<sup>2</sup>) of your "Devotions". Pray them after the hymns and psalms for the day before the major "Blessed and praised be Life".)

And Ramuia son of 'Qaimat was its compiler, and Ramuia copied from Šganda and Šganda copied from Zazai-ǧ-Gawazta son of Hawa: the name of his father was Națar. And Zazai copied from the Scroll of the First Life.

And Life, rejoice for ever! Life is victorious over all works, and victorious is Manda-d-Hiia and his helpers.

(Translator's note). — At this point prayerbooks used by priests vary in order, and D.C. 3 and D.C. 53 no longer run parallel. Into

D.C. 53 I have inserted the longer form of Commemoration used at every masiqta. It is called the Abahatan Qadmaia. In the list of commemorations, family names, the names of local priests, friends or relatives are inserted according to the occasion, place, or priests, but the beginning is always the same, and in the Abahatan Qadmaia the names of heavenly beings, patriarchs, ethnarchs and liturgists are permanently embedded.

This prayer, the major Ṭab ṭaba ḥṭabia, is not in its full form. in M.L.

I have included here also the six prayers which follow the Abahatan Qadmaia in D.C. 3.

Be there forgiveness of sins for me, and for my father and mother, and for my teacher <sup>11)</sup>, for my wife and children, for my priests and for all souls who stood for the Name of Life and were firm in the sign of Manda-ḡ-Hiia with a sincere and believing heart.

Yea, Life, verily Life <sup>12)</sup> Life will be with the victorious.

<sup>12)</sup> D.C. 53 (see Prayer 258) makes this a separate prayer. Both in this and in D.C. 24 'in hiia u'rin hiia. (Hiia is both "living" and "life").

They (Life) will not condemn those who love Their name: they will be joined in holy union. Life for those who know, Life for those who believe, Life for beings who instruct us<sup>1)</sup>. Life is established in its dwellings: Life is victorious over all works.

172 <sup>2)</sup>

Now (we beseech Thee), Life, (bestow) Thy pity, Thy clemency, Thine attention, Thy compassion, Thine, Great First Life! Show pity, be clement, be attentive to and show compassion on this, my soul, mine, Adam-Zihrun son of Mahnuš who have prayed this prayer and (these) devotions. May there be forgiveness of sins for me. (Three times) <sup>3)</sup>. For me and for my father and my mother, for my teacher and for my wife and my offspring, and for my priest and for whomsoever hath offered this bread and ritual foods. And for you, my fathers, my teachers, and my instructors and those who taught me the faith when ye supported me from the Left to the Right, may there be forgiving of sins for you. And ye shall say "Life is established in its dwellings".

And Life is victorious over all works.

They shall depart (rise) to the mountains and heights from thy body, spirit and soul, thy trunk and thy stature and (from) thine entire frame, thine, Adam-Zihrun son of Mahnuš, through the strength of my Father, their Father, Manda-ḡ-Hiia, through the strength of the treasure of the First Life and through the strength of Yawar-Ziwa and Simat-Hiia. And the name of Life and the name of Manda-ḡ-Hiia be pronounced upon thee.

174

I beseech the Life and my Lord Manda-ḡ-Hiia and the 'uthras and kings of the worlds of the light for a sponsor for this high mystery (ginza) so that no lacking or deficiency may appear therein. Should there be anything missing or deficient, do thou, O Hibil-Ziwa, (thou) great Fulfiller, supplement it from thy treasure which is not deficient and from thy plenty which lacketh in nothing. Rid it and loose it from its sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes, (and) mine, Adam-Zihrun son of Mahnuš who have prayed this prayer and (these) devotions. May there be forgiving of sins for me.

O Sunday, receive it, save it, establish it and raise it up to perfection!

In the name of the Great Life.

Then, when she reacheth the Seven Mysteries, servitors of the Seven go forth towards her. They come and surround her and question her and say to her, "O soul, whence comest thou and whither goest thou?"

I say to them, "I come from the Body<sup>2)</sup>, the name of which is the Earth and I am going towards the Good Consummation <sup>3)</sup>".

They say to me, "Whose servant art thou and whose envoy art thou called?"

I say to them, "I am the servitor of the Beloved Consummation, and the envoy of the vast Ether".

Then they bless her (me) <sup>1)</sup> and praise her and guard her and say to her, "Everyone who knoweth this saying will rise towards the Good Goal <sup>2)</sup>" because they seek to grasp the mysteries of the Body. And they question her and then she riseth towards the Good Goal.

176

O King of all kings, O Father of all 'uthras; O Adatan and Yadatan; O Šilmay and Nedvay, ye guardian 'uthras of the jordan; O Hibil-Ziwa, great Fulfiller who deliverest us from evil plots and deliverest us from all that is evil and ugly, O high King of Light, thou wilt give me comeliness of body, compassion of heart, fullness of hand and integrity of eye. O Life, and my Lord Manda-d-Hiia Thou deliverest me savest me and guardest me. O high King of Light!

In the Name of the Great Life.

Vines shone in the water
 And in the jordan mighty they grew.
 Ye are flourishing offshoots.
 Messengers hither I bring you,
 I give you great 'uthras.

I have twined for you and bring you
 Garlands of myrtle and marjoram
 For (lit. "in") the doors of the houses.

<sup>3)</sup> This prayer exists in several versions and appears to be very corrupt. Its use may elucidate the original meaning. It is recited when, at the Little New Year's Feast, priests hang wreaths of myrtle and willow on the door of every house. I venture on a reconstruction of the hymn as follows: —

(From the fourth line)

[Messengers (not a messenger) I bring you.]
 Šgandia lhaka aitolkun yakhbinalkun l'utria sagia
 Gadlilkun umatnalkun bbabia d-hilbunia
 Klilia d-asa umarwa (see note on this line)
 Yanqia gadlalkun umatnalkun
 Alma lkimšat alma brikinun
 Yavdna sagia brikinhun masbuta d-labaṭla
 Mn nš briš. (cont. next page).

I will rear up for you babes
 And bring (them) to you.
 We bless you unto world's end :
 The full river (yardna)<sup>1)</sup> hath blessed you
 And the baptism which is unfailing
 From beginning to end.

178

Kušta strengthen thee <sup>2)</sup>, my crown,
 Kušta strengthen thee, my teacher,
 Kušta strengthen thee, my turban,
 Kušta strengthen thee, guardian of my turban,
 Kušta strengthen thee, Great First Radiance,
 Kušta strengthen thee, Great First Light,
 Kušta strengthen you, my brother-priests,
 Kušta strengthen You, Life, my Parents <sup>3)</sup>,
 Kušta strengthen thee, my treasure,
 Kušta strengthen thee, Guardian of my treasure!
 We kiss thee with a pure mouth. (Sixty-one times)
 In an inner vessel they concealed thee <sup>4)</sup>.
 The Wellspring of living waters hath blessed thee,
 And the Naširutha which emanated therefrom
 Will be thine assuagement, it will be thy portion.
 And treasure will arise to its owner.
 And Thou, Life, wilt be victorious for ever and ever!
 And Life is victorious <sup>5)</sup>.

(Note.)— The section which follows in D.C. 53 p. 200 begins in D.C. 3 p. 357 after the Blessed Oblation Prayers. It is the section which deals with marriage and with the newly-crowned priest. I translated

(cont.) I suggest that the proximity of marua to yanqia led scribes to confuse marba q-mvabia yanqia, D.A., p. 11, with the present line, especially as marba is pronounced marua. However, the verse is said at the New Year, when priests visit houses and distribute wreaths which are hung on doors of houses. My translation is free, based on this supposition.

the marriage hymns in Biblica et Orientalia no. 12, Pontificio Istituto Biblico, Rome 1950, but am glad to alter certain prayers, for second thoughts have improved the earlier translation. The first prayer, No. 179, is found in a slightly different version in the G. R. (See G. R. Lidzbarski's trs. pp. 271-2).]

My Lord be praised!
 Kušṭa strengthen thee!
 In the name of the Great Life
 Sublime Light be glorified!

- A. Come, Kušṭa, in kindness,
 Light which goeth to the house of its friends.
- B. Chosen art thou, pure one,
 For thou establishest thy people in innocency.
- G. Thou art a perfected selected gem<sup>1)</sup>
 Without flaw.
- D. Thou art the Road of the perfect,
 The path which leadeth up to the Place of Light.
- H. Life art Thou, from eternity,
 Who didst go and didst dwell in my true heart.
- U. Woe to him who neither obeyeth nor listeneth to Thee, my Lord!
 Whose path<sup>2)</sup> lieth in courts of gross revelry.
- Z. Thou art the armour of the perfect,
 Truth without deviation.
- Ḥ. Thou art wise and well-pleasing, my Lord,
 For Thou teachest wisdom and faith<sup>3)</sup> to all who love Thy name.
- Ṭ. Well is it for him who heedeth and heareth Thee<sup>4)</sup>, my Lord,
 And walketh his road following Thee.
- Y. Thou art a day of gladness
 In which there is no mourning or lamentation.
- K. Thou art a Wreath of Purities (or "victories")
 That is set on the heads of the enlightened.
- L. Thou art a Tongue of Praise,

<sup>2)</sup> D.C. 3 and D.C. 38 (p. 9, l. 5) both have šabilḥ. D.C. 53 like G.R. has šbila "path".

<sup>4)</sup> Masculine in D.C. 53 and D.C. 38; feminine in G.R.

- For every day thou praisest the Life.
- M. Thou art the First Mana (Primal Mind),
Which Life constructed and built up.
- N. Thou art the Light of Powerful (Life)
For thou didst go, and didst come to the world.
- S. Thou art the Medicine that cureth pains,
The Healer who cureth all who love His name,
' Thou art the Eye of the chosen righteous,
Which looketh daily toward the Life.
- P. Thou art a Fruit of pleasant taste,
Which hath no blemish in it.
- Ş. Thou art the First Consort <sup>1)</sup>
An Espousal <sup>2)</sup> that none preceded
- Q. Thou art the First Cry:
The Life evoked Thee from its Nature.
- R. Thou art the Teacher of head-priests,
And Thy glory resteth upon them.
- S. The dead heard Thee and lived,
The sick heard Thee and were healed.
- T. Thou turnest (to Truth) the elect righteous,
Men who have laid hold of and believed in Wisdom,
Good men, proven and perfect;
Truth dwelt in their hearts.
Life is renowned, (and) victorious.
And victorious the man who goeth hence.

 Thou hast watered it with a great watering (?) <sup>4)</sup>

<sup>3)</sup> Saka is translated Bereiche by Lidzbarski, p. 242, l. 10 of the translation. Rbih (quite plainly in the mss.) refers to the teacher. The word probably means that the novice is still under the tutelage of the priest who has initiated him. In Š.ḡ-Q. I translated "booth", but saka is philologically unlikely to be the sukkah.

And thou hast illumined and ordered

<sup>3)</sup> The exact meaning of this phrase is doubtful. The prayer is also intended for the bridegroom, hence the translation I gave in Š. ǫ-Q "Because thou comest hither for the chief function of life-union", is too free a rendering.

199

May pure guardians guard thee,

 And mayst thou rise up and behold the great Place
 The House of Perfection.
 And Life is victorious.

[These (antiphonal) hymns are to be recited over a priest who celebrates (for the first time) a masiqta, and over bridal pairs(?) These are prayers for the vestments and clothing (investiture) which I have copied who am poor, lowly and striving, small amongst my brother-ganzivri and priests, kissing the shoes on the feet of Naṣoraeans. I endure the world's persecution with a faithful and believing heart. I copied for myself so that there might be a commemoration for me on earth, and yonder in the mighty and lofty worlds of light. A slave, am I, who is all sin. I am Rabbi Adam-Yuhana son of Sam son of Bihram son of Sa'dan son of Msa'ad known as Kamisia, Riš-Draz by name. I copied for myself so that I might work and succeed, I copied from the qulasta of the skilled craftsman Baktiar grandson of the skilled craftsman 'Aziz son of Kiria son of 'Aziz son of Faruk of the sons of the Dihdaria, Sabur by name. It had been copied by the great, lofty and honourable R. Ram-Yuhana son of R. Yahia-Zihrun son of R. Zihrun son of R. Adam known as Manduia, (family) name 'Kuma. He had copied it from a qulasta which R. Ram-Yuhana had also copied for himself — the son of R. Yahia-Zihrun son of R. Zihrun son of R. Adam, name 'Kuma. He had copied it for a "perfect"<sup>1)</sup> craftsman Hadaiat son of craftsman Qasim son of Hadat son of Bihram son of Zakria of the children of the Dihdaria, Sabur by name. In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be glorified!

(Lo) the Voice of Life from the fruits
And the voice of radiant-light from afar;
The voice of 'uthras from the Land of Light
Who speak in their sublime voices and say,
"Whence came we into being? By whom was implanted
Our power of reproduction? <sup>2)</sup> Why was it implanted,
Our reproductive power? Our form, what doth it resemble?
Whence springeth our strength, that lofty strength
To which all the worlds cannot attain?
Whence came our voice, a pure voice
That is other(-worldly <sup>3)</sup>, clear <sup>4)</sup> and dignified <sup>5)</sup> ?

Our praise is praise of the Great (Life),
 And our form is in the likeness of the Place of Light.
 Whence cometh our strength, lofty strength
 To which all the worlds cannot attain?
 Our voice is the pure Voice by which the bridegroom is summoned
 Into the škinta <sup>1)</sup> in which 'uthras <sup>2)</sup> are sitting,
 And he is instructed.
 The king of 'uthras <sup>3)</sup> came,
 He set off and came, the king of 'uthras
 To the škinta in which the 'uthras sit.
 He said to them "About what have ye been instructed,
 (O) 'uthras?"
 "About the Mana that is within the Occult,
 About the Mana that came into being in the Hidden,
 And about the Radiance that gloweth
 In a hidden place".

O hang up <sup>3)</sup> light, let lamps of glory be hung up therein!
 "Whose is this brightness? From whom cometh this light?
 From whom doth this effulgence
 That is vast and boundless emanate?"
 "This is the radiance of Hibil,
 This is the light of Šitil,
 This is the effulgence of the great 'uthra Anuš,
 Which is great and boundless."

202

The radiance of Hibil is beauteous,
 The light of Šitil is bright.
 And this is the effulgence of the great 'uthra Anuš
 That is great and boundless".
 O hang up light!
 Let lamps of glory be hung therein!
 O hang up light,
 Let lanterns of light be hung therein!

<sup>1)</sup> The reference is to the heavenly cult-hut (or wedding-booth in which the priests and bridegroom sit for the ceremony).

203

"This building <sup>1)</sup>, whose is it?
 Whose is it, this building?
 This building, whose is it,
 That hath so sweet a fragrance,
 Whose fragrance is so sweet
 And in which fair trees are set?"
 "This is Yawar's building,
 This is the building of Yawar,
 This is Yawar's building,
 This, whose fragrance is sweet,
 This, so sweet of odour.
 And wherein fair trees are set".
 Enjoy the perfume of the trees,
 For the fragrance of Yawar hath rested upon them.
 Enjoy the fragrance of the trees,
 For the fragrance of Manda-d-Hiia hath rested on them."
 O hang up light.
 Let lamps of brightness be hung therein
 O hang up light,
 Let lanterns of light be hung therein.

204

They sent Hibil-Ziwa to make report <sup>2)</sup>
 Unto the 'uthras who sit there.
 And he said unto them,
 "From the Radiance proceeded Light,
 And from Light proceeded Ether:
 Ether proceeded from Light,
 And glory <sup>3)</sup> is manifest to the 'uthras
 Who are sitting here".
 "Sweet is thy voice, youth Hibil,
 When thou speakest in the garden of Adam

<sup>1)</sup> The 'ndruna or škinta in which the priests who perform a marriage sit is a light booth built of reeds and intertwined with myrtle and roses, so that it has a pleasant perfume.

<sup>2)</sup> This is a reference to the marriage ceremony. Here Hibil-Ziwa is the prototype of the priest sent to report that the bride is properly attired etc. to report that the bride is properly attired etc. (See Š. d-Q.)

And chantest sublime hymns.
Sweet is thy voice! and its sound went thither".
And Life is victorious.

When the Proven One, the Pure One, went
To the Place where perfected (beings) <sup>2)</sup> dwell
— Great is he, the Good (Spirit)! —
Towards his Father <sup>3)</sup> was his course set,
His course was set towards his Father,
To say to Him that which was sublime and ineffable
In the Occult Place.
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
A Home of splendour <sup>4)</sup> (and) glory <sup>5)</sup>
Shall be founded therein,
Glory will be enshrined therein,
And 'uthras will seek one another in prayer,
'Uthras will pray to one another,
Each one will glorify his his brother,
His brother each one will glorify,
By counsel which goeth thither from thee".
"Thou art empowered, great Spirit!
Go, shed glory there,
Go, shed glory there: let them be glorified
With the glory that is Ours and thine.
They shall be glorified with that glory,
And receive the blessing that we have sent them.
The blessing we have sent them they shall receive,
They will grasp Thy benefaction,
It shall be so that 'uthras may know
That thou art the greatest of all the 'uthras;

<sup>2)</sup> So literally. In Š. d.-Q. 4. : 4. I took tušlimia, a plural, to be an epithet for the Great Life (also a plural). Several passages in this group of prayers confirm my original idea, that the Great Life is meant.

For thou hast opened up and shown to them
 And bestowed on them radiance and praise".
 "I went thither, thither went I,
 And shed upon them a blessing.
 The blessing that I shed upon them
 They receive, and in their blessing
 We bless Thee <sup>1)</sup>: We bless Thee with
 A benediction, with theirs,
 They will glorify Thy praise,
 (And) will be glorified by Thy praise.
 By Thy Word they will be raised up,
 They will be raised up by Thy Word,
 And from (that which is) Thine
 They will not depart".
 Priests bless the great (spirit) in secret
 And bless the great (spirit) who honoured them
 And honour dwelt upon them.
     And Life is victorious <sup>2)</sup>.
 May there come One from Thy radiance before me
 And One from Thy light behind me!

In the name of the Great Life
 Sublime Light be magnified!
 A Vehicle <sup>3)</sup> am I, a small one,
 Light rested on my thought.
 I travel on, I go on,
 I and the life's traveller whom they bound to me.
 I spoke to her, to life's travelling-companion
 Whom they joined to me, saying,

"I travel<sup>1)</sup> by my own strength;
 (But) thou, in whose strength dost thou journey on?"
 She spoke, the life-traveller that is they joined to me
 Saying to me, "Just as thou travellest onward
 By thine own strength, I (travel) by faith.
 Kušta (ruleth) my heart <sup>2)</sup>, my eyes are
 The eyes of Radiance.
 And my heart hath been tested by chosen ones".
 We entered into garments and covered ourselves
 And the act of reproduction was brought into being.
 The act of reproduction came into existence
 And elect ones began and will be established.
 Life is renowned (and) victorious
 And victorious the man who went thence.

 The bridegroom's tunic is of foaming waters,
 The bridegroom's wreath is of a pure kind of vine,
 The bridegroom's staff is of camel-thorn tree <sup>5)</sup>

<sup>3)</sup> I must stress that my translation of these curious and obscure poems is tentative. When translating D.C. 38 (Š.đ-Q.) p. 53) I took the "fellow traveller" to be the dmuta, the prototype, or spiritual counterpart. It seems to me now that the reference is to the bride.

<sup>4)</sup> In Š.đ-Q. (p. 15, l. 10) I assumed that D.C. 3's ruhzan was correct, and therefore suggested that the word was ruhšan from RHŞ "to wash, perform lustration". D.C. 53, however, like D.C. 38, has quhzan. Arabic قَهز qahz or qihz = "a cloth of wool and silk". The context suggests a rough cloth of some kind. It is possible, however, that my first conjecture, based on D.C. 3, was correct.

 And we will say unto the bridegroom, hymning him,

 Thine appearance shall be bright
 And thou shalt be confirmed in the happiness (lit. "glory")
 Which the Great Life hath sent thee".

Sun in his majesty bowed down before the bridegroom
And shed some of the rays of light which clothed him
And clad the bridegroom therein and said to him,
“I and my warriors and doughty men,
Will stand and take care of thee
From beginning to end”.

Moon, lord of crown and wreath,
Placed his crown and wreath on the bridegroom,
And said to him “Our father, thy wreath is the wreath of ‘uthras,
And thine ardour <sup>1)</sup> proceedeth from the strength of Radiance.
The king of ‘uthras that beheld thee
Removed his robes of radiance;
He clad thee therein and said to thee,
‘How lovely are thy robes!
Thine appearance is bright, and shall be confirmed”.

Mars, lord of arms and war, put on his armour
And war-harness and standeth before the bridegroom’s bridal-canopy.

And slayeth devils and demons,
Putting an end to and slaughtering his foes,
And he said to him “I, with my warriors and mighty men,
Will stand here and will guard thee from beginning to end.’
Mercury, learned and wise, instilled some of his wisdom
Into the heart of the bridegroom,

<sup>1)</sup> D.C. 3 has šugandak, D.C. 38, like 53 šgandak. The word is an obvious substitution of a familiar word for one unfamiliar, probably a word derived from the root ŠNG which appears only in Šingilan ‘utra, the name of a spirit. In Syriac  = to be in love and  (variously vocalised) = love, desire, passion.

And hymned the bridegroom and said to him,
 "Who sent thee, new-made king?
 These doings all take place on thine account.
 Thou hast brightened the Ether-world
 And hast made the whole world better
 From one end to another".
 Jupiter, Son of the water, bringeth his vesture to the bridegroom
 And hymned him and said to him,
 "Thy vesture, our father, is the vesture of 'uthras,
 And the light thrown upon (thy) shoulders
 Will make thee (weigh) light <sup>1)</sup> our father, in the Scales.
 And sealethe thee with the Pure Sign".
 Saturn, in his beauty and his ruddiness,
 Bringeth his smock to the bridegroom.
 And he hymned the bridegroom and said to him,
 "O 'uthra in whose resplendence Naṣoraeans exult,
 Vaunting themselves in the Word,
 The world of light vaunts itself about thee,
 (And) about the king Šihlun-Ziwa(?) who hath transplanted thee."
 Venus, Lady of Beauty and Desire,
 Brought her wreath and girdle-string to the bride,
 Which they placed on the head of the bride;
 And they hymned the bride and said to her,
 "O crowned bride, who sittest upon columns of water <sup>2)</sup>,
 Rejoice, and rejoice in the spouse who hath taken thee to wife,
 And rejoice in thy living wreath.
 Inasmuch as thy wreath is living (refulgent)
 So shall thine appearance shine,
 And thou shalt be preserved until world's end."
 And Life is victorious, and victorious the man
 Who goeth hence.

I and the bridegroom's groomsman
 Are the straps of his sandals
 And the poles of the bridal canopy.

I and the bridegroom's groomsman
 Washed in the waters of the sea: in the waters of the sea we washed

We revealed not our secret to the sea,
 To the sea we revealed not our secret.
 Nor did we broadcast our wisdom to the wilderness !

O crowned bride, who was it,
 Fruit that is crowned for bridal <sup>1)</sup>, who Revealed our secret
 And broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness?
 Perchance Sun revealed our secret
 And broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness?
 (Nay!) Sun revealed not our secret
 Nor bruited our wisdom in the wilderness.
 Sun, of whom ye spake,
 Rose at dawn and set at dusk,
 Sun revealed not our secret
 Nor broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness!

(Refrain "I and the bridegroom's groomsman" etc.)

O crowned bride, who was it?
 Fruit that is crowned for bridal, who
 Revealed our secret and broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness
 Perchance Moon revealed our secret
 And broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness?
 (Nay!) Moon revealed not our secret
 Nor broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness.
 Moon, of whom ye spake,
 Rose at dusk and set at dawn.
 Moon revealed not our secret
 Nor broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness.

(Refrain repeated)

O crowned bride, who was it?
 Fruit crowned for bridal, who Revealed our secret and broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness?
 Three 'uthras <sup>2)</sup> not of this world revealed it.

They are like one another in stature and dimension,
 They are clothed in one (and the same) radiance
 And one light is spread over them all.
 When they speak, the speech of these good beings is one,
 Like the speech of Mighty Beings
 In the Great Place, the House of Perfection.
 Betwixt them there is no hatred,
 Quarrelling or division.
 Life is renowned (and) victorious
 And victorious is the man who goeth hence.

 There is a Vine for Šitil and a Tree for Anuš<sup>1)</sup>
 Šitil hath a Vine yonder
 In thee, Land of the Leal,
 Laden with reward, laden with oblation and laden
 With Naširutha. The tendrils that are at the leaf-ends
 Bore prayers, hymns and sublime recitations.
 When I rose in my place
 I made a request that was great;
 I asked that a tall ladder be given me
 That I might place it against the Vine for ascent,
 Against the Vine for ascent I might place it,
 And might mount into my Vine,
 Might wax great and grasp its foliage,
 Might eat, be refreshed by its shade
 And enjoy its leafiness,
 Might twine me a wreath of its tendrils
 And place it on my head.
 When I rose in my place, they granted the request I made.
 They gave me a tall ladder that I could set against the Vine for ascent.
 Against the Vine for ascent I placed it.
 I rose into my Vine, I waxed great, I grasped its foliage,
 I ate, was refreshed by its shade and enjoyed its leafiness;
 From the tendrils of my Vine I twined a wreath

And set it upon my head.
 The worlds gathered together, the generations assembled,
 Twiners twined (wreaths) in imitation of my wreath,
 They twined that which had no resemblance (to it).
 They went, they put vines (vine-leaves?) on themselves
 And they say, "Man, whence is thy wreath,
 And whence (came) the being who twined it?"
 To them I reply, "Vanish, begone from my presence,
 (Ye) dead, wicked ones who beheld not the Life!
 As for me, my wreath is not from here;
 The being who twined it is not of this world.
 My wreath is of the Vine Ruaz
 And the Being who twined it <sup>1)</sup> is from the Place of Light.
 The Being who brought it and set it on my head
 Is from the Eternal Home <sup>2)</sup>".

In the name of the Great Life
 Sublime Light be magnified.

- A. Thou art come, Pure Pearl, who hast illumined dark hearts!
 B. Radiance sought to be<sup>4)</sup>, and Light to awaken.
 G. I laughed at the planets, at what they plotted and did.
 D. I sojourned amongst them, but they, the Seven,
 Knew not about me.
 H. There shall be benefaction for the Elect who loved the Life.
 U,W. Woe to the planets that scheme evil against my Chosen ones.
 Z. He is the Great Radiance,
 The Light which hath no limit.
 H. He is the first Life
 Before Whom none existed.
 T. Well is it for him who obeyeth
 And hearkeneth to Thee, my Lord!
 And walketh his road behind Thee.
 Y. He is the great Yura<sup>5)</sup>
 Like a soul when she cometh from the great House of Life.
 K. He is the pure Wreath which they set
 Upon Hibil in his škinta.
 L. My heart beseecheth the Life
 That He, the Life, will seek me in His škintas<sup>6)</sup>.

<sup>4)</sup> D.C. 3 and D.C. 53 have Bi Imihuia, although the two words have been run together.

<sup>6)</sup> In G.R. bškinatun. D.C. 53, D.C. 3 and D.C. 38 lškinatun. Possibly should be read "will build me into his škintas", a metaphor found elsewhere.

- M. From the day that Hibil transplanted me
My soul hath acknowledged the Place of Light.
- N. Thou art the first (Source of) Rest,
Because of Thee, 'uthras <sup>1)</sup> find repose.
- S. The Twelve Gates stray from the right path <sup>2)</sup>,
And do not ascend by roads (that lead) to Light.
The profundity of Naširutha is vast and boundless.
- P. He is a sweet Fruit,
Pleasing of taste and without blemish.
- Š. I hearkened to the call of Life
In the Great Place, the House of Perfection.
- Q. It is the Voice of Pure Radiance
Who speaketh and discourseth in his škinta.
- R. It is the Pure Sign by which The living <sup>3)</sup> are signed in their škintas.
- S. I hear the converse of living (souls)
Who have been established in the Dwelling of Life.
- T. He is the lovely Door, the Light which is Boundless.
Renowned is Life victorious
And victorious the man who went hence.

Here D. C. 3 has a rubric: —

[When thou hast recited this hymn "Thou art come, Pearl" and ended it, then recite the wedding songs (hadiata, hidiata) "Behold, the wicked degrade" etc. but thou shalt not recite the wedding songs for a widow. Instead, they shall recite "Pure guardians shall guard you" only, without the wedding songs. (These) thou shalt not recite for a widow.]

The wedding songs are purely lay in character and I do not propose to include them amongst the liturgical prayers and hymns. They are essentially folk-songs and have a popular flavour. For my attempt to translate them, see Š. d-Q. They are: —

215. 'hai qašaflia "Lo the wicked degrade my people" Š.d-Q.
18 : 3

216. 'hai ya daragai "Behold, my portal" Š d-Q. 18 : 8

217. 'hai ya rabutia <sup>1)</sup> "Lo, my little mistress" Š. d-Q. 18 : 13 <sup>2)</sup>
 218. 'hai ya rabutia "Lo, my little mistress" Š. d-Q. 18 : 17
 219. 'hai ya rabutia "Lo, my little mistress" Š. d-Q. 18 : 20

[This is the conclusion of the wedding songs (hadaiata).]

In the name of the Great First Strange Life from worlds of light, the Ineffable that is above all works, be there for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš healing, victory <sup>3)</sup>, strength, soundness, speech and a hearing, joy of heart and forgiveness of sins, (also) for my father Sam son of Anhar, my mother Mahnuš daughter of Hawa-Simat, my wife Hawa-Simat daughter of Maliha, my offspring Adam Yuhana and Šarat-Mumania the children of Hawa-Simat.

And may our thought, mind and intelligence enlighten us, (enlighten me) and my offspring, for the treasure of the First Life in these hymns and psalms of "When the Proven One, the Pure one went".

<sup>3)</sup> Or, of course, "purity".

In the name of the Great Life!
 When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where the perfected <sup>1)</sup> dwell
 To the Place which is all Radiance
 And light and glory abound (there),
 The Proven Pure One speaketh to the Perfect One <sup>1)</sup> Hidden and guarded within Its veilings <sup>2)</sup>,
 Set apart by Its glory
 And giving out light in all Its wisdom.
 The Proven One, the Pure One speaketh
 Saying to the Great (Life),
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 The Ether hath all been made, <sup>3)</sup>
 Created <sup>3)</sup> is the Ether, all of it.
 And in it, great Radiance will form itself
 And sublime Light be set up therein.
 In it there will be 'uthras
 And Rays-of-Light will be established therein,
 Appearances that shine with lovely radiance.
 Enlightenment <sup>4)</sup> will be raised up
 And will watch over all the 'uthras
 'Uthras will shine in the enlightenment
 Which went thither from Thyself.
 The Great Predestinate speaketh <sup>5)</sup>
 To the Proven One, the Pure One,
 Saying to him "These be (welcome) words
 That thou hast spoken to us.
 Go thou, and become guardian to them,
 And all will shine through thy strength

<sup>4)</sup> Or "vigilance". It is personified. As the next phrase refers to guarding, "vigilance" may be more suitable.

And will praise thy Garment
 And will honour thine appearance".
 The Chosen One gave praise with a pure mouth
 Because of that which the Great (Life) said to him.
 And Life is victorious.

234

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where perfected (beings) dwell,
 To the Place which giveth out light,
 And its praise is unsullied <sup>1)</sup>,
 Unsullied is its praise;
 Foreordained and blessed is its benediction:
 Foreordained is the blessed benediction
 Which holy manas pronounced,
 Which was pronounced by holy manas
 Predestinate, calm and perfected.
 The Proven, Pure One speaketh,
 Saying to the Great Life,
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 A world of light hath been made,
 Created <sup>2)</sup> is a world of light
 And a company hath been established therein,
 Dwellings <sup>3)</sup> have been set up therein.
 It will be bright in Thy praise
 In Thy praise it will shine,
 And will be blessed with Thy blessing.
 Mystic Sprouts (offspring) will come into being
 And at Thy Word they will flourish,
 They will flourish at Thy Word
 And Sprouts that are worthy will be raised up".
 The Great Life speaketh with Its pure mouth <sup>4)</sup>
 Unto the Proven One, the Pure One.

It saith to him, "Thou art Our Thought,
 "Our Knowing and Our Understanding,
 Our Heart that is limitless, Our First Voice,
 Our Pure Garment and Our well-equipped
 First Discerner; for Our sake
 Thou wast transplanted.
 Go! Perform thy work, and thy pure offspring
 Shall attain perfection,
 They shall attain the highest, thy pure offspring,
 And be joined in union inseparable.
 Make a World of Light,
 And they will shine therein, yea, it shall be
 All radiance and light
 And will attain perfection".
 And the Great Life be praised.

235

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where the perfected dwell,
 To the Tana <sup>1)</sup> of glory
 Whose blessing hath blessed <sup>2)</sup> the Place
 In which the Secret One sitteth <sup>3)</sup>
 And uttereth in Its Awakening <sup>4)</sup> Giveth utterance there in its Arousing <sup>4)</sup>
 And giveth out light by Its own thought;
 The Proven Pure One speaketh
 To Predestinate Perfection,
 Saying to Him, to the Pure Vein
 And Tongue that is limitless,
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life)
 May it be that we transport jordans,
 Permit that we transport jordans

<sup>1)</sup> In Š. d-Q. I translated this "glowing heart", a very free translation. See p. 190, n. 1. and p. 9, n. 1.

<sup>4)</sup> Here 'ruta (See P.S. Thes. ) should be thus translated. The idea appears to be that the Great Life has its periods of quiescence, ceasing to be, and that 'ruta is its awaking, its renewed activity, 'ruta also has a "light" meaning—"light which awakens", "enlightenment".

And a Pure Sign shall be established therein,
 A Pure Sign we will establish therein
 And there will be increase for all 'uthras,
 And 'uthras will be baptised
 As ye were baptised, they will confirm themselves
 By themselves, <sup>1)</sup> (as) ye were confirmed
 Completely. They will shine, will enlighten one another
 And instruct one another about Thee, and Thy pure Vesture
 Which is sublime, and brighter than any (other) appearance;
 And about that which was transplanted from its place <sup>2)</sup>,
 And about that which is destined to exist,
 And about that which was created in a hidden covering".
 The Great Predestinate spoke <sup>3)</sup>,
 Saying to the Proven Pure One,
 To His pure Garment <sup>4)</sup> (?)
 There is nought without limit! <sup>5)</sup>
 All that thou hast done shall be established.
 All thy vines will be illustrious,
 And in all thine actions there will be nought
 Lacking or amiss. In none will there be blemish
 And they will not go foolishly astray".

And Life is victorious!

236

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where perfected beings dwell,
 To the Place where His appearance is lustrous,
 His countenance shineth and His Counterpart
 Is supported each and every time
 That they seek and find and discourse of their Creator.
 The Proven Pure One speaketh,
 Saying to the Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life)
 If it please Thee, Great (Life)
 Great (spirits) sit in glory,

<sup>5)</sup> Lidzbarski p. 253, I. 6, ul'tia d saka ltlh, which he translates "zu dem Wesen, das endlos ist", probably a better version.

In glory they sit, the great (spirits),
 And converse in their speech that is not mortal <sup>1)</sup>,
 They talk in their gentle voices,
 And Thou sheddest upon them some of that which is Thine.
 And they sit in fellowship with Thee
 And employ themselves with Thy praise;
 And in Thy place, in prayer to Thee, do they converse.
 We will confirm their works,
 Their works we will confirm:
 We will raise up the horn on their heads
 And will establish their Root.
 And we will increase their victories: we will increase
 Their victories derived from Thy strength,
 Transmitted from Thy strength,
 (That) went forth, came and dwelt with Thine own".
 The Great Predestinate spoke to him <sup>2)</sup>,
 Saying to the Proven, Pure One,
 "Go! invest <sup>3)</sup> the great (spirits) with radiance;
 Settle them in a place which is unsullied <sup>4)</sup>, Reveal <sup>5)</sup> and give them pihta <sup>6)</sup>
 And in praise thy (spirits) will shine!
 Act (thus) and support the Mana.
 Life will show Itself grateful to thee.
 Life be praised: Life is victorious.

237

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the place where the Perfect One dwelleth,
 To the place where His converse is calm
 And His appearance wondrous,
 To the place where all are kings
 And where lust and misdoing exist not,
 To the place which is full of goodness

<sup>6)</sup> The sacramental bread, lit. "the opened" ("broken into pieces"? or "revealed"?). See M.L. p. xxiii l. 1 ff.

(And) where Their raiment is prepared
 For the pure arriving (spirit) <sup>1)</sup>
 And for him whose form giveth light,
 The Proven Pure One speaketh
 And saith to the Great (Life)
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, mighty (Life)
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 There shall be built a wondrous building,
 A wondrous building shall be built.
 Thy right hand shall erect it,
 Thy right hand will set it up
 And Thou wilt not cut it off from Thee.
 Thy first plan <sup>2)</sup>, it will rise towards Thee,
 It will be set up, it will rise Thee-wards,
 And thou wilt not cut off from Thyself
 The First-born that Thou hast created.
 He shall be set up as Thy counterpart.
 He is a fair portal, he will rise Thee-wards,
 He will be established, will mount,
 Will direct himself Thee-wards;
 And will converse in Thy speech that is eternal.
 He will not sever from Thee nor from Thy society.
 Condemn him not!"
 All that the Proven Pure One had said <sup>3)</sup>
 Everything the Proven Pure One said
 Pleas'd the Great (Life),
 And Sublime-Light riseth:
 He said to him "Thou art possessor of will,
 And lord of all victories.
 Thou hast conquered and hast prevailed over thy brethren
 And thy Father, (Whom) in secret thou blessest.
 Go, show light (ziwa) to Yušamin and reassure his heart!
 Say to him he shall not fear and reveal to him
 That which is established here.
 Explain it to him so that his heart may lighten
 And confirm it that his mind may be enlightened.

Be gracious and kindly to him and bless him
 And show him the light of thy countenance,
 The light of thy countenance show to him,
 And say to him that he shall not be cast down,
 (But) be meek and humble, and he will illumine
 The 'uthras".

The Proven One did that which was commanded him,
 And the Mana thereupon supported the Proven One
 So that he performed that which was commanded him.

And he went to the House-of-Life,
 He went, he said to Them, "Thus have I done,
 It hath been set in order. Should it not be so,
 Set Ye in order".

The Great (Life) blesseth the Proven One
 With His pure mouth for having made his report.
 And Life is victorious.

238

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where Perfection dwelleth,
 To the Mighty-in-Glory, to the Well-Ordered and Well-
 Ordering,

(Who) speaketh in His calm voice
 And ordereth His ordinances;
 Uttering in His calm voice
 His trustworthy teaching, His mystic <sup>1)</sup> prayers,
 And His wise discourses <sup>2)</sup> which are not vain,
 The Proven One, the Pure One speaketh
 And saith to the Great (Life),
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 We will twine circlets <sup>3)</sup> of radiance,
 Circlets of radiance will we twine,
 And will set them on the heads of the 'uthras,
 We will bring them from the Great Light.

We will watch over them.
 If Ye do not thus,
 In what can the 'uthras prosper?
 In what can the 'uthras delight?
 How can there be certainty for Rays-of-Light?
 From what will they derive fame and honour?
 And how can we preserve them,
 And with what will they seek and find,
 Speak with Thee and be heard?"
 The Great Predestinate speaketh; <sup>1)</sup>
 He saith to the Proven One, the Pure One,
 "Go, join with (unite with?) <sup>2)</sup> Radiance Take heed that they . . . . . <sup>2)</sup> raiment.
 Give them of my Wreath of Ether <sup>3)</sup>
 And all the 'uthras will rejoice.
 And from Us and from thee
 They will acquire renown and honour,
 Renown and honour they will have,
 And in strengthening honour they will be preserved.
 Our name and thy name shall be upon them
 And they will give praise in the Secret Place".
 And Life is victorious.

239

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the place where the perfected dwell,
 To the place of pure wrappings,
 Vestments which radiance illumineth,
 To the place of Living Flame
 Where all are full of goodness,
 All open their eyes in radiance,
 In the radiance they open their eyes,
 And they shine in that Light;
 The Proven, the Pure One speaketh
 And saith to the Great (Life),
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),

<sup>2)</sup> An obscure line. "Change raiment" is unlikely, but I can make nothing else of it. M.L. has "und bewahre die wundersamen Gewände."

If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 I would say one word to Thee,
 One word to Thee I would say,
 That is sublime and illuminating
 And not (to be?) cut short!
 How superexcellent is Thy Likeness
 And how greatly hast Thou increased
 And established Thy sublime company!
 In the Ether (World) there is no water!
 As there is no water in the Ether,
 By what can the 'uthras be invigorated? <sup>1)</sup>
 How can the 'uthras thrive? <sup>1)</sup>
 And (how can) priestly knowledge be installed into their hearts?"

The Great Predestinate speaketh <sup>2)</sup>
 Saying to the Proven One the Pure One,
 "How zealous thou art, Yawar!
 And how dutiful and faithful
 Are the words which thou hast spoken!"
 They created stocks <sup>3)</sup> of living water;
 They let it flow down to the ether,
 They sent it down, caused it to flow down,
 To the ether, to the dwelling of the 'uthras,
 All of them savoured it and it was fragrant!
 'Uthras savoured it and it was fragrant!
 All 'uthras will savour it and it will please.
 The 'uthras all drank and throve,
 They drank and rejoiced thereat.
 And into their hearts Naṣirutha
 Was poured. Life is renowned and victorious
 And victorious is Manda-ḡ-Hiia
 And those who love his name.

240

When the Proven One, the Pure One went

<sup>3)</sup> So D.C. 53. Both D.C. 3 and D.C. 38 have the singular. The passage was not properly understood in Š.ḡ-Q.

To the Place where Perfection dwelleth,
 To the Place where dwelleth the pure perfected Being <sup>1)</sup>
 Which proceedeth <sup>1)</sup> from Itself, and Its speech (Word),
 Which proceedeth from Itself —
 And its speech and words are from It
 And from Its Counterpart <sup>2)</sup>.
 The Proven One, the Pure One speaketh
 To the Great (Life), saying to Him,
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 We will summon Zihrun-Raza,
 Zihrun-Raza we will summon — him and his seven
 Mystic brethren who are with him.
 One is called "Radiance", another is called "Light".
 We will plant (them?) and they will shine forth
 And will be made manifest.
 And we will transfer for them jordans (flowing streams)
 That are transcendent, transcendent jordans
 We will transmit for them.
 They will govern a Kimša <sup>3)</sup> (treasure?) of living flame
 And the Root which the Son of Hidden Mysteries led forth.
 They will be baptised and established
 And we will establish the Kimša <sup>3)</sup>.
 In their vestments we will establish their strength.
 There it shall come to pass, and at Thy name
 The elect thus far <sup>4)</sup> will be established.
 If Thou dost not act thus,
 Transitory matters may cause the Kimša to stumble away
from Thee,
 Things which lead to destruction may cause it
 To fall away from Thee, and all sacramental rites <sup>5)</sup>
 Will become marred.

When the Proven Pure One said this <sup>1)</sup>,
 A Voice went down into all the worlds
 From the Secret Radiance.
 It spoke, it called Zihrun-the-Mystery;
 It spoke, it called on Zihrun-Raza,
 On him and on his seven mystic brethren
 Who are with him. It summoned them
 And it transported for them jordans.
 And it set them in rule over the jordans;
 Over the jordans it made them rulers
 And (over) never-ceasing well-springs.
 Renowned is Life victorious
 And victorious the man who went hence.

241

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where perfected beings dwell,
 To the Place which was self-created
 And a Presence (Parsufa) set up therein,
 A Voice issued from the Presence
 Announcing to the Chief of Rays of-Light,
 And causing the Great(est) Ray-of-Light to hearken:
 Teaching him about every matter,
 About every principal (important) subject,
 So that it was explained: — thus it is.
 The Proven One, the Pure One speaketh,
 Saying to the Great (Life)
 “If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 I will tell Thee all that I have seen.
 I have seen — and I desire to call forth <sup>2)</sup> ’uthras
 — If it please Thee!
 I will call forth three ’uthras,
 And I will instal them in my abode (škintai).
 One shall be my companion,
 Another shall be, as it were, my counterpart,
 Another shall be young, and be

Satisfactory to my mind.
 They shall chant sublime hymns
 And read in secret books
 And recite therefrom,
 In all their wisdom performing rites that are seemly.
 Walking with me in the boundary of the Self (?)
 Walking according to my commands
 And not departing from (my word)
 From (my word) they shall not depart,
 Nor alter my pure Word,
 Nor change my rites which they perform
 And were ordained (to carry out).
 I have created them according to my design,
 And have set the Sign of Life upon their minds,
 Have marked them with the mark of the Great Life
 And placed my own name upon them.”
 And Life is victorious.

242

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where the Perfected dwell,
 To the Place which is all radiance,
 And nought is as sublime or of like purity!
 (The Place) which is full of serene (beings)
 Honouring Thee with their praises <sup>1)</sup>;
 The Proven, Pure One speaketh
 And saith to the Great (Life)
 “If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 I will call forth from my 'uthras, one,
 One from (amongst?) my 'uthras I will summon.
 And I will clothe him in my radiance
 With my radiance will I clothe him,
 And with my light I will cover him.
 I will cover him with my light
 And he will be protected by my name.
 He will have that which was apportioned him;

He will arise with his great (spirits) and <sup>1)</sup> his host
 And will take to himself Knowledge of Life (Manda-d-Hiia)
 Who went thither.
 He will go to the world of Abathur,
 From whom imperfection originated,
 From him imperfection came into being
 And he sowed bad seed <sup>2)</sup>.
 Bad seed did he sow and created creations
 Not worthy of him <sup>3)</sup>, who asked no advice,
 Received no baptism, nor did they (he?)
 Grasp the right hand of his (their) father,
 But did that which was not commanded
 And performed that which was useless.
 One of my 'uthras shall go and shall confound
 All (those) creations, he will confound
 All the creations which he created,
 (Creatures) that have neither hand nor foot.
 He will straighten a road in the world,
 Whereby chosen ones will mount hitherwards.
 At his call <sup>4)</sup> they will come
 And will set up my boundary-stone
 And testify to the one, great, pure Name.
 The horn on their heads will be exalted."
 Renowned is Life and victorious,
 And victorious the man who went hence.

243

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where perfected (beings) dwell:
 Pure is the place, there is no grief in it,
 No infirmity existeth therein, nor is disquiet admitted there,
 Friction is not accepted therein,
 Wrath and violence have no place therein,
 Therein are no wrath and violence

<sup>1)</sup> In D.C. 53 plainly sagiih. D.C. 38 and D.C. 3 both have niqum bsigia "will arise to go".

<sup>3)</sup> Or, which were not accomplished successfully for him.

<sup>4)</sup> So in D.C. 53. D.C. 3 and D.C. 38 have "my call".

But all is calm, all is kindness,
 Because they within it are in harmony <sup>1)</sup>.
 The Proven One, Pure One speaketh
 And saith to the Great (Life)
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 Thy will shall be (wrought) on the 'uthras,
 Upon the 'uthras Thy will shall be (done);
 All that Thou hast willed Thou doest!
 I have seen, I have spoken,
 And him whom I mention in Thy presence,
 I will reveal to him — this Abathur-Rama —
 Why he is fallen from his throne,
 Why from his throne he is fallen
 And went and became Him-of-the-Scales <sup>2)</sup>,
 When I call in Thy name a second time,
 Lay Thou Thy right hand upon him!
 The Great Predestinate speaketh <sup>3)</sup>
 Saying to the Proven One, the Pure One,
 "Thou knowest all hearts and discernest all thoughts,
 Thine eyes are well-open
 And thou distinguishest all those who know thee <sup>4)</sup>.
 For thy fame's sake and for Our name's sake,
 When he is sinning, who will (can) permit it?
 Who will let him be when he offendeth?
 And casteth Our root into polluted waters?
 (One) who accepteth favour from Us and then goeth
 And casteth it nito the abode of the dark (powers)!"
 When the Proven, Pure One heard this,

<sup>2)</sup> Abathur-Rama is the higher counterpart of Abathur-Muzama (Abathur of the Scales). The latter is in charge of the balances in which souls are weighed, with the soul of Šitil, the purest of all human being) in the opposing scale. See p. 105, n. 4.

<sup>3)</sup> M.L. (p. 258) here has twelve lines (only) of this poem. Owing to ignorance of the context, Lidzbarski has misunderstood it. Yawar is pleading for Abathur but the Great Life explains that he cannot allow Abathur's conduct to pass.

He prostrated himself before Him and worshipped:
 He bowed himself and prostrated himself before Him
 And uttered much praise and said,
 "How sublime <sup>1)</sup> is this that I have heard from Thee!
 I have accepted and am corrected by Thee!"
 And Life is victorious.

244

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the place where the Perfected (One) dwelleth,
 (He said) "I will speak to Thee, Mystic Perfection,
 Who art hidden and guarded by Thy Veilings:
 I would tell Thee, Mystic Perfection,
 Secrets told by the 'uthras.
 One whom, according to Thy plan, I created,
 I sent to that world.
 How hideous and without beauty
 Was everything that he saw in that world!
 A world of sons of perfection
 From whom there was imperfection.
 He who went from here a noble <sup>2)</sup>
Yonder they made him a slave,
A slave they made him yonder.
From the seven planets he suffered,
He suffered from the seven planets
And was tormented in the world.
He who went from hence rich <sup>3)</sup> (or "having plenty")
Was in need in the world.
 Yonder they made him their fellow,
 Yonder their associate they made him.
 From the seven planets he suffered,
 He suffered from the seven planets
 Was reduced to misery in the world".

The Great (Life) with pure mouth (speaketh)<sup>1</sup>),
 Saying to the Proven, Pure One,
 "This that one of thine 'uthras hath told thee,
 If virtuous is he about whom one spoke,
 He about whom one of thine 'uthras spake,
 One of thine 'uthras shall bring thee information,
 We are creating (?)<sup>2</sup> an earth of fire,
 And the planets who enslaved him
 Will go to fiery chains.
 Pthahil, who made the earth shall be baptised
 Here in the white Jordan.
 The thousand thousand vestments<sup>3</sup>
 That will go out towards him
 And presences without end
 Will have compassion<sup>4</sup>) and will together Stretch forth (their hands) in pact and peace<sup>5</sup>)."
 "How sublime is that which Thou sayest to me!
 Thou hast reassured my heart!
 Thou dost indeed support and lift up,
 Equippest with arms and givest enlightenment!"
 And Life is victorious.

245

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where the Perfected (Being) dwelleth,
 To the Place where the Almighty
 Empowereth Itself and its Presence (Paršufa),
 And steadfast and shining is its Countenance,
 Showing forth Its Likeness in the Secret Place;
 The Place where Their Voice is lovely
 And the sound of Their speech is sweet;
 And sublime is the Place where the Great (Life) abideth!
 Praise of Them is unbounded<sup>6</sup>)

And mighty (beings) shine in their hierarchies
 And perform all that They (He) desire (desireth);
 The Proven Pure One speaketh
 And saith to the Great (Life)
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 Reveal to me the mysteries of blessing (prayer)
 And about the armour <sup>1)</sup> of their souls,
 And about the radiance transmitted to Thyself".
 The Great (Life) with His pure mouth (speaketh) <sup>2)</sup>
 And saith to the Proven One, the Pure One,
 "Thou art blessed from the Place (in which) we are blessed <sup>3)</sup>
 And from the Place in which We came into being Thou camest into being.
 And from the Place in which We were (self-) planted
 Firm and implanted was thy native strength? <sup>4)</sup>.
 Our radiance and thy radiance are victorious,
 Victorious is Naṣirutha <sup>5)</sup> that is of Us
 And victorious is he whom I summon into it.
 And (those whose) eyes open in radiance and light".
 And Life be praised!

246

When the Proven One, the Pure One goeth
 To the Place where Perfection dwelleth:
 When, filled with innocency
 And bright in all his goodness,
 When beautified by his great radiance
 And by his pure being <sup>6)</sup>
 They(?) travel to that Place,
 The Proven, Pure One spoke,
 Saying to the Great (Life),
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),

<sup>4)</sup> As indicated on pp. 135 and 171 the meaning of the verb NṢB and the word nṣubta is wide and vague. Hence the couplet is paraphrased with misgiving.

<sup>6)</sup> The verse is obscure. My former translation is impossible. Should it be "with a pure being"? 'na is always abstract!

If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 Support my words! Let there be thrones
 And we will set them up in the worlds of light.
 So that 'uthras shall sit (thereon)
 And recite thereon.
 So that their ranks <sup>1)</sup> will shine thereon.
 By their words they will edify them,
 So that their ordered array may beseem their splendour.
 And the revered ones, when sitting on their thrones,
 Sitting on their thrones,
 Will shine with a steady light.
 He spoke with His pure voice,
 The Great (Life) who dwelleth in that Place <sup>2)</sup>
 Spoke with His pure mouth
 And said to the Pure One,
 "Thou art a pure Helper! (Go),
 Do all that thou desirest (to do)".
 "According to Thy will and mine
 I have constructed thrones,
 Thrones I have provided
 And have instructed the 'uthras who sit on them.
 The 'uthras who sit on them I have instructed,
 And they praise the Great (Life) Who counselled me.
 They praise me, for I prepared for each one
 His throne. The 'uthras stood and praised
 That which I had sought and found
 Through the goodness of the Life.
 For them had I sought and found
 Through the goodness of the Life
 Who supported them."
 Renowned is Life and victorious
 And victorious the man who went hence.

247

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where perfected beings dwell,
 The Chosen One, whose vesture becometh him

And maketh his personality <sup>1)</sup> greater
 Than all the 'uthras,
 His personality maketh him greater than all the 'uthras
 Greater than all 'uthras doth his personality make him,
 Because he beheld the Form of the Great (Life),
 Because he hath seen the Likeness of the Great (Life)
 Their radiance controlled his thought
 And Their thought: it was reciprocally outpoured.
 And They pray a prayer for the 'uthras.
 All 'uthras trust one another,
 Love one another in sincerity.
 There is no division amongst them
 Such as the Second <sup>2)</sup> brought about,
 So 'uthras are undivided from one another,
 All are armed with one armour,
 They are equipped with one armour
 And their speech is one in sincerity,
 In sincerity their speech is one.
 And they dwell in lovely radiance,
 In lovely radiance do they dwell
 The Being whose love filled them,
 And whose tranquillity and love rested upon them.
 Life be praised and Life is victorious.

248

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the place when perfected (beings) dwell,
 —Great is he, the good (spirit)! —
 He set his course towards his Father,
 Toward his Father was his course set,
 To say to Him that which was sublime and precious
 In the secret place.
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 May it please Thee, Great (Life),

---

(That) a home of splendour<sup>1</sup>), honour within it,
 Be established, dignity resident therein,
 And 'uthras will seek one another,
 'Uthras will seek one another (in prayer).
 Each will reverence his brother,
 Everyone will reverence his brother
 According to the counsel which went thither
 From Thee".
 "Thou art empowered, Great (Spirit)!
 Go, let Honour abide in that place.
 Let Dignity rest on that place.
 And in Our glory and thine they will become glorious,
 They will become glorious with that glory
 And will accept the blessing that We sent them:
 The blessing We sent them they will accept
 And be grateful to thee.
 It will take place so that 'uthras may know
 That thou art the greatest of all 'uthras;
 For thou hast revealed and shown them light
 And dost give them the praise".
 "I went, I went yonder,
 Yonder I went;
 I caused blessing to rest upon them.
 The blessing I shed upon them
 They (thankfully) receive.
 And we will bless them with a benediction<sup>2</sup>),
 Benediction we will pronounce upon them
 And in Thy praise they will (themselves) gain honour.
 They will gain honour in praise of Thee,
 They will establish Thy word.
 Thy word they will establish
 And will not depart from Thee."
 Priests in secret bless the great (spirit)
 Who honoured them and caused honour to rest upon them.

249

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where perfected beings dwell,
 To the Place where dwelleth the Perfected <sup>1)</sup>,
 Hidden within its Self and aloof,
 He goeth towards Him, speaking to Him,
 (Uttering) a sublime saying.
 "If it please Thee, great (Life),
 If it please Thee mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, great (Life),
 I will speak: accept Thou mine (utterance).
 There shall be pure signings;
 And there shall be perpetual watchfulness.
 It will be Thine armament;
 With it 'uthras will equip themselves.
 Thou equippest them with Good-Faith (kušta)
 And Good-Heed <sup>2)</sup>.
 Nor will they rest idle when Thou hast armed them
 With Good-Faith and Good-Heed.
 They will keep silence and observe obedience.
 Thinking like Thee and acting like Thee,
 Thinking and acting like Thee.
 And their deeds will be honest,
 Reliable will be their rites <sup>3)</sup>.
 And zealous counsel will issue from them.
 Kings, they will counsel one another
 And unite, great and small, in communion."
 And Life is victorious.

250

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where the Perfected One abideth,
 To the Place where the sound of His voice <sup>4)</sup> is mild,

<sup>4)</sup> Again here the reversion to the singular points to tušlimia as an epithet for the Great Life. The narrative returns to the plural after "luminous and lovely".

His appearance fair; and luminous and lovely
 Are Those <sup>1)</sup> who dwell there
 And to Themselves absolutely true;
 Truth and armed-readiness are at Their head;
 In Their place They discern, know and distinguish
 And in their inmost <sup>2)</sup> Self They are watchful.
 The Proven, Pure One speaketh,
 Saying to the Great(Life)
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 Speak <sup>3)</sup>, open (reveal) Thy treasury, Speak <sup>3)</sup>, reveal Thy treasury
 And take therefrom a boon,
 A boon take out of it
 And grant to me a servant.
 A servant give to me in whom
 There is no lacking or fault.
 With him bring my brethren, with him bring
 All my sons, bring my sons;
 So that in him and in Thee they may be raised up,
 Be raised up in Thy resurrection
 And be blessed with a benediction
 That is from Thee."
 The scheme which the great (spirit) planned <sup>4)</sup>,
 He planned it for good. (At) the place
 That the great (spirit) thought out
 The 'uthras bow down and give praise,
 The 'uthras worship and praise
 The Being who opened His treasury,
 The Being who sent them a benefit.
 The 'uthras bowed in adoration
 And were grateful for all His favours.

<sup>3)</sup> Mahl Or, (Biblical Hebrew, demon. of מול 'to present, show') "Reveal" ?
 (See J. under מלל III).

251

When the Chosen One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where the Perfected (Being) dwelleth,
 To the Place where deeply revered
 Is His steadfast Form, he (the Chosen One)
 Spoke, saying to the Great (Life) Whose Form is constant,
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 (Let us) open a Light-Euphrates,
 A Light-Euphrates we will open up
 And set therein a sturdy root
 So that from the root there will be pure Vines
 Who will offer up praise to Thee;
 So that from the Vines which appear
 Sprouts may grow out, healthy offshoots;
 So that from the offshoots that show forth
 We may institute, reward and oblation <sup>1)</sup>.
 We will institute reward and oblation,
 We will lead in a congregation of souls <sup>2)</sup>,
 In a congregation of souls we will take the lead.
 From it (the Euphrates) water will gush out,
 There will be assurance for all Rays-of-Light,
 They will be full of faith and put their trust in Thee".
 "Thou hast spoken and thou hast established,
 Do thou confirm it and bring it to a successful conclusion".
 "I came, and I opened up a Light-Euphrates
 And established therein a baptism that is efficacious <sup>3)</sup>,
 I set up thereby a sturdy Root
 That giveth forth light and is bright
 And will not be cut down".

And Life is victorious.

252

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the place where the Perfected (Being) dwelleth,

<sup>1)</sup> Or "fee and oblation", i.e. the offerings of the faithful in money or kind which constitutes the stipend of every priest.

To the Place where His speech is pleasant
 And His converse sublime and foreign (to the earthly world),
 To the place where personality and manhood exist not;
 [He spoke to the Great (Life) saying:]
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 We will set up a pure Crystal,
 A pure Crystal will we set up
 And arcana that are within it
 Shall be established. The 'uthra Hibil
 Shall come, shall dwell on the Euphrates
 And will guard it. At his right hand
 Two beings will come. We will establish and found <sup>1)</sup>
 Three škintas. On them Thou wilt cause blessing to rest:
 Blessing Thou wilt bestow on them.
 The arcana concealed therein, one by one
 Will come into being <sup>2)</sup>. There will be
 A Pearl that will enlighten darkened hearts.
 All will be filled with faith,
 It will arouse the fallen (who have stumbled).
 He who is aroused by it will get up,
 (But) he who causeth stumbling
 Will perish on the spot.
 He who is worthy, deserving and perfect
 Will not be cut off from his place.
 He will be completely confident,
 (For) the Life will be his support,
 His support will be the Life
 And he will be protected in his own place."
 And Life be praised!

253

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the place where the perfected dwell,
 To the place of Safe-keeping
 That is set apart for the company <sup>3)</sup> of the Great (Life).

<sup>3)</sup> I.e. companion spirits.

The Proven, Pure One speaketh
 And saith to the Great (Life)
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 I will speak a word <sup>1)</sup>: uphold it!
 I word I would speak, uphold it!
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 This shall be done <sup>2)</sup>; a secret watcher
 (Be appointed?) set over Man,
 His guardian. I will remain a long time,
 — And I will guard him! —
 To cheer <sup>3)</sup> him and to raise him up toward Thee;
 To cheer him and to raise him up
 Towards Thyself, so that he may come
 And behold Thy countenance, may come
 And grasp Thy right hand in fealty <sup>4)</sup>,
 May rise up and listen to Thy converse
 Which is not of this world <sup>5)</sup>".

"Thou hast said it! Go, seek him out
 And bring him here: seek him out <sup>6)</sup>
 And bring him hither
 And the Life will be mindful of thy goodness".
 Bringing abundant radiance and boundless light.
 Bringing radiance in abundance I went;
 To the secret watcher I came. "Rise up",

<sup>3)</sup> I have been in doubt about this word. In D.C. 53 it is spelt biuḥ and in Š.d.-Q. p. 27: i buiua. The verb BAA (Arm. בעי "to seek" is the first and easier solution, but the unusual first 'i' in biuḥ makes this unlikely. It may come from a verb equivalent to the Aramaic בוע "to rejoice" בעי and this is confirmed by the Syriac Pa. ܕܒܥܝܐ "to console" (i.e. "gladden") (ܕܒܥܝܐ consolation). According to the poem, there is no need for the speaker to seek the watcher, since, apparently he is already with the watcher (a priest, or priesthood, personified?).

<sup>5)</sup> Mnakvia lit. "estranged" foreign, removed i.e. "not of the mortal world". "transcendent", "ineffable" convey the meaning.

(I said to him) "Rise up! Watchers <sup>1)</sup> are many.
 Thou hast kept thy watch; arise, put on
 (The robe) which the Great (Life) hath sent thee
 And go towards Him. Come! He hath required thee with Him
 And I have sought thee, so come to us
 And hearken to His converse which is ineffable <sup>2)</sup>.
 The Great (Life) hath stretched forth His right hand to thee <sup>3)</sup>
 Put away passion from thy thought.
 Thy thought shall be filled with Ours
 And thy garment and Our garment will be one".

Life be praised and Life is victorious.

[These two "responses and two hymns are to be recited for the owner of a crown <sup>4)</sup> when thou celebratest his wedding. Recite them after the chant "To the place where speech is pleasant". And recite them for the novice in the škinta: (but) do not recite them for a layman's wedding. Beware! for they are recited for the owner of a crown <sup>4)</sup>. And then recite the hymn "To go and to perform his works" unto its conclusion <sup>5)</sup>.]

254

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the place where the Perfected dwelleth,
 To go and to perform his works
 And to be manifest therein
 And to institute a guardian <sup>6)</sup>
 .....
 I, whom the Great (Life) had commanded
 To relieve <sup>7)</sup> all the škintas,
 I, the First (Life?) enlightened Him.
 "Because of me, the 'uthras were set at rest,
 Because of me, the 'uthras were satisfied
 And the Rays-of-Light ranged in their degree;
 All of them shone in one another's radiance

<sup>7)</sup> Or "to serve", "to gratify".

And light was established in all minds.
 Over all the works that I had made
 I set up the Great (Life).
 And I became a guardian in them
 I was a guardian within them
 And I upheld <sup>1)</sup> all the worlds of light
 In their places.”
 And Life is victorious over all works
 And victorious the man who went hence.

255

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the place where the Perfected One dwelleth,
 To the place of veiled radiance
 (Where) His Likeness is beauteous;
 The Proven Pure One speaketh
 And saith to the Great (Life),
 “Thy disciple am I, for I have grasped
 And understood some of Thy wisdom
 I stood before Thee like a son
 Who standeth before his father.
 Thou spakest to me and I hearkened,
 And that which Thou didst command I did.
 The glory which Thou didst bestow on me
 I transmitted to all the worlds of light.
 With that which Thou didst vouchsafe to me
 I benefitted all the Rays-of-Light.
 From Thee I have not departed
 And the speech of others existed not for me”.
 The Great (Life) praiseth the Proven One, the Pure One,
 With His pure mouth, (saying to him)
 Who had made his report,
 “How submissive and humble thou art, Yawar!
 What an alleviator <sup>2)</sup> and peacemaker thou art!
 Thou makest 'uthras agree and pacifiest them
 And givest stability to the Rays-of-Light!”
 And Life is victorious.

<sup>2)</sup> Lit. “smoother”, “straightener” (of rough places).

256

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
 To the Place where the Perfected One dwelleth,
 To the place in which the Transcendent <sup>1)</sup> abideth,
 Dwelling therein in a set limit
 Within an appointed limit abiding therein,
 Resting within it, in the Holy <sup>2)</sup> Place,
 The Proven, Pure One speaketh
 Saying to Them, the Great (Life),
 "If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
 If it please Thee, Great (Life),
 The works which I have performed are set in order,
 They are set in order, the works I have performed.
 And all that I did in Thy presence
 Will be established, and these words
 Which I spoke before Thee (also).
 And (as for) me, they will realise my vision.
 I have acted as thou didst desire".
 When the Proven Pure One had spoken thus,
 The Great (Life) rejoiced thereat, embraced him
 And kissed him with His pure mouth.
 And he veiled him with esoteric veils <sup>3)</sup>
 With esoteric veils did He cover him.
 And a cloud which emanated from Himself
 He spread over him: it hid the great (spirit)
 Which He had concealed therein.
 And they called him "All- 'uthras-confirm him"
 And "One who arrangeth-ordinances-and-sublimates-
 All-minds" is he called <sup>4)</sup> (?)
 And Life be praised.

Translator's note. — The preceding hymn-cycle, known as the Kt azil bhira dakia must be a selection from a volume of gnostic poems with this title. Three other poems from this lost composition are included in the G. R. (right side). The first two of these were translated

<sup>3)</sup> Mania gawana "inner vessels", "inner garments", "inner vehicles"? — in any case, something which conceals, or covers up.

by Professor Mark Lidzbarski in his Ginza, der Schatz oder das grosse Buch der Mandäer, (in these pages referred to as G.R.) pp. 355-370. They were also translated into Latin and transliterated into Syriac by M. Norberg in his Codex Nasaraeus (3 vols. 1815-1816) pp. 3-23. (Lidzbarski belittled Norberg's work in a somewhat unfair fashion.) The third poem, included in some codices of the Ginza Rba, as in my own copy, D.C.22 (dated 1274 A.H.), but missing in copies seen by Lidzbarski and Norberg and also in Petermann's facsimile (1867), is undoubtedly from the same lost book.

To take the first two of these, both deal with 'uthras who have in some manner bungled their parts in the cosmic plan; namely, Yušamin, Abathur and Pthahil. The first two become reconciled to the Great Life. Yušamin's re-instatement after intercession by the "Pure, Chosen One" is the theme of the latter half of hymn 237 in the present collection, and hymn 243 is an attempted intercession for Abathur. Pthahil, however, persists in rebellion and turns to the planets and demons for support. The Great Life intervenes in Yušamin's plan to punish Pthahil, and, softened, the latter at last makes his submission.

In the second Ginza poem the 'uthras urge Manda-ḡ-Hiia to reprove Yušamin for mistreating the "pure pearl" (the soul) and Manda-ḡ-Hiia tells Hibil-Ziwa to remove the "pearl" from material creation. Light, loveliness and perfume thereupon depart from the earth. Yušamin and Pthahil protest, Pthahil from the chains into which he was cast for his rebellion.

The story is a complicated one, but all ends satisfactorily with the restoration of the soul to earth and the triumphant supremacy of light and order.

The third poem, that which is missing in G. R., is in the style of all the poems of the collection, including the formula "If it please thee, Great (Life)". It describes the resentment of Pthahil who is still in bonds. He complains and threatens 'u haizin akšalta makšitlīa hašta mšawīna lpisusta ḡ-lahuat (If thou hast made me fall thus, then now I will make such a breaking-up as has never been") and he summons the planets one by one and arms them.

Just in time, a message reaches him from the Great Life, and meditation and repentance change his attitude to one of humility. He is immediately surrounded by hosts of 'uthras and re-instated in favour, whereupon he calls the planets to order.

Translator's note. — Following the Kt azil bhira dakia in D.C. 3. D.C. 53 and D.C. 38 there is an astrological section bound into the prayerbook for the convenience of priests performing marriages, for they are always consulted by bridegrooms as to the propitious day and hour for the consummation of the union. It would endanger the happiness of the pair if the act took place under unfavourable astrological conditions. The section, known as the Šabania Šaiia was translated by me in the Šarḥ d-Trāša d-Qabin d-Šišlam Rba (Š. d-Q.) so that I propose to omit it here together with the long colophon which follows it. A third part therefore begins on page 257 of D.C. 53. It contains prayers which have occurred earlier in the manuscript, for the same prayers serve on a variety of occasions: those for marriage are used at the consecration of a priest, and so on. When duplication occurs, I shall refer back to the prayer by number and page of both translation and text, but will not re-translate.

(These are hymns of "When the Chosen One, the Pure One went" I copied for myself so that there should be commemoration (of my name) on earth and yonder in the mighty and celestial worlds of light, and for love of holy truth and (with) reliance on the high King of Light, His name be praised in the great place of light! I am poor, lowly and infantile, a slave that is all sin and as dust beneath the feet of Naṣoraeans, one who kisseth the shoes on the feet of the pious, the least of my brother-ganzivri. I am Rabbi Adam-Yuhana son of Sam son of Bihram son of Adam-Yuhana son of Msa'ad known as Kamisia, family name Riš-Draz. I copied for myself from the qulasta (collection) of the great, lofty and revered R. Ram-Yuhana son of R. Yahia-Zihrun son of R. Zihrun son of R. Adam son of R. Yahia-Adam son of R. Šitil son of R. Ram son of R. Zakia son of R. Yahia son of R. Zakia son of a father of ganzivri, R. Mhatam son of R. Sam, known as Manduia family name 'Kuma. He copied it for Statad (? 'stad? craftsman?) Baktiar son of Mhatam-Zihrun son of Bihram son of Adam-Yuhana son of Yahia son of Zihrun son of Yahia-Anuš son of the great, lofty and revered R. Mhatam son of Yahia-Baian son of Yuhana-Šadan son of Zakria, from (one of) the Beni-Dihdaria Sabur by name; who copied from a collection that R. name 'Kuma, who copied it for a šalmana (a "perfect one"<sup>1</sup>) Hada-iat son of Qasim son of Hadat son of Bihram son of Zakria of the Beni-Dihdaria, family name Sabur. He copied it from the collection of the great, lofty and revered one, a reliable and chosen ganzibra, a copyist<sup>2</sup>) of his library and a lofty paragon in priestcraft (Naširuta), (namely) R. Sam-Yuhana son of R. Yahia-Adam son of Bihram-Zihrun son of Adam-Yuhana son of Zid, son of Sam, son of Bihram son of R. Adam son of R. Mhatam son of R. Prayers 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, and 292 are identical with prayers 180-187, pp. 162-166 of the translation, and pp. 202-207 and 330-335 of the Mandaic text, D.C. 53.

Following, prayers 293 to 304 inclusive are identical with prayers 188-199: trs. pp. 166-169 and pp. 335-338 Mandaic text, D.C. 53. The colophon which follows differs from other colophons in the book, and I omit it. The series of hymns which occupies the next section are for the ordination of priests, known as their "coronation". All the features of coronation are present, the immersion, oath, unction, and investiture with royal insignia. The "crown", however, is a tubular silken fillet. Šišlam-Rba is the prototype of priest and bridegroom.

 And blessing it and honouring it
 In the highest degree.

[These seven prayers of Šišlam-Rba shall be recited by the ganzi-bra when placing the crown on a postulant and the priests shall recite these seven other hymns and make the antiphonal response.]

312

In the name of the Great Life!
 Blessed is this pure voice and blessed your planting!
 Blessed is this new crown and blessed this hymning!
 And blessed is this sanctuary (škinta) in which kings are sitting!
 For ever and aye.

313

In the name of the Great Life!
 O king, thou art a mirror! (Yea)
 Radiance art thou, of genuine form;
 Oh thou art a lofty force!
 For all strength<sup>4)</sup> is derived from thee!
 Blessed is this new crown
 And blessed its treasure which thou hast shared with them
 For ever and aye.

<sup>2)</sup> Here rdibun, but in the same prayer later (No. 393) grabun. B.M. Or 6592 : 391 rdabun. D.C. 3 p. 337 : 6 has rdubun. The reflection of a cloud in water is a symbol of marriage. Cf. Prayer No. 188.

<sup>3)</sup> Probably "for him".

314

In the name of the Great Life!
 How wondrous is the strength of the Great (Life) <sup>1)</sup>,
 And how great is the glory which thou sheddest on us!
 Thou hast illumined us with thy great radiance
 And we praise thee and the crown of Šišlam-Rba.
 We magnify it and honour it
 And bring it our homage
 For ever and aye!

315

In the name of the Great Life!
 Our father, thou art a king, a son of kings,
 For thou putttest on the crown for kings,
 The crown thou putttest on is for kings <sup>2)</sup>
 And thou bestowest victory on palm-trees <sup>3)</sup>.
 Šišlam blesseth his crown
 And 'uthras and sanctuaries (škinata) establish it.
 Cause some of thy glory, which is great,
 To rest upon us, and give us . . . . <sup>4)</sup>
 So that our minds may rejoice in it
 For ever and aye.

316

In the name of the Great Life!
 Hail to him! Again, hail to the king of kings,
 Šišlam-Rba! Hail to him on whom the hand of a king
 Hath set his crown<sup>5)</sup>; whose kingdom abideth and passeth not away.
 It passeth not away, the kingdom of a king
 As long as air and water flow -
 For ever and aye.

317

In the name of the Great Life!

<sup>3)</sup> The palmtree is the symbol of "the Father", (see p. 14, n. 6.) also of priesthood.

<sup>4)</sup> "Give us thereof?" No. 397 has uahbilan d'ušran hadibh; D.C. 3 p. 339 : 1. uahbalan etc. ("Give us that in which our minds delight").

Thou art the Teacher <sup>1)</sup> of ganzibria <sup>2)</sup>,
 Thou art the King of all 'uthras!
 Good is it for him who beholdeth Thee with his eyes,
 Good is it for him who discerneth Thee in his thought! <sup>3)</sup>
 He shall rise with Thee to the Place of Light.

318

In the name of the Great Life!
 My day, what is it amongst days? A day.
 My day, what is it amongst hours? A single hour.
 What is my day amongst the days?
 The day on which a kingdom was accepted.
 My day, what is it amongst days?
 The day on which treasure was divided.
 The King divided His treasure
 And gave his kingdom to Šišlam-Rba.
 Šišlam-Rba shone in his crown
 And we praise and magnify Thee
 Because Thou art called the Teacher of 'uthras
 For ever and aye.

[These are seven antiphonal hymns. The response <sup>4)</sup> to these hymns of "Šišlam-Rba" shall be recited by the priests. Should the ganzibra recite those hymns, the ganzibra shall recite one and the priests one.]

319

In the name of the Great Life!
 Thy strength shall increase, our father,
 And grow mighty by means of this secret mystery, Zihrun,
 By which all 'uthras are fortified.
 Be strengthened and increased in might and power
 By this seal-ring <sup>5)</sup> which is bestowed upon thee,
 And thou hast authority over it.

<sup>3)</sup> The words b'ušriḥ, "in his thought", omitted in No. 317, are in No. 398 (which includes both Nos. 316 and 317), and also in D.C. 3, p. 339 : 12. The line is repeated in No. 398.

Thou hast been given authority over a treasure <sup>1)</sup>
 Of living flame, and over a Root
 Which is the product of gardens <sup>2)</sup>.
 Go, become great and glorious! <sup>3)</sup>
 Guard thyself, be confirmed (in office)
 By this seal-ring which is set upon thee
 So that thy strength may increase Yonder,
 And the Elect righteous may be uplifted by thy fame!
 And Life is victorious!

[This hymn for the seal-ring shall be recited by the ganzibra and priests over the seal-ring for the novice-priest when he assumeth thereby his kingship.]

320

In the name of the Great Life!
 On the day that they set the crown on the king
 And the king accepted his kingship,
 His radiance was seen in the light of the banners <sup>4)</sup>,
 And the water-springs that were in the jordan
 Waltzed <sup>5)</sup> with one another!
 The king took his crown
 And was resplendent in its sublime radiance.
 And he distributed crowns to the kings,
 To the kings he distributed crowns <sup>6)</sup>.
 And his brilliance, his light and his great glory
 Rested upon them
 For ever and aye.

[The ganzibra chants this hymn to them (whilst) distributing crowns amongst the 'uthras<sup>7)</sup> and kings, and the 'uthras and kings give him myrtle; they give him myrtle.] <sup>8)</sup>

<sup>2)</sup> A play on words br guima, lit. a son of mysteries (things hidden) is also "a son of gardens".

<sup>4)</sup> The word drabša comes from the P. درفش = a bright or glittering object "anything glittering or flashing".

<sup>8)</sup> The rubric in D.C. 3 differs: it directs the ganzibra to distribute myrtle with the crowns.

321

In the name of the Great Life!
 On the day that the kings assembled (to be)
 In company with the king, the son of kings,
And he distributed crowns and treasures to the kings<sup>1)</sup>,
 The kings extended their right hands,
Their right hands the kings held out,
 And they received crowns from the king,
Crowns they received from the king.
 And they bless him with a great benediction
 And honour him who gave them crowns and treasures
 For ever and aye.

[The priests shall repeat this hymn, taking the crowns from the ganzibra who set the crown on the postulant.]

322

In the name of the Great Life!
 On the day that a vision was verified by eyes <sup>2)</sup> (?)
 And the newly-inaugurated <sup>3)</sup> banner was purified (?) <sup>4)</sup> thereby
 Its inauguration (consecration) <sup>3)</sup> was shared amongst the banners
 And the banners shone in its radiance,
 They shone with great radiance and praised the king's crown.
 They praised the king's crown <sup>5)</sup> and said to it
 "Thy counterpart <sup>6)</sup> shineth in the ether,
 In the ether thy counterpart shineth
 And the ether delighteth in thee!
 'Uthras, kings and jordans praise thy counterpart
 For ever and aye.

[The ganzibra shall recite this prayer for the sewing of the postulant's crown. When praying the devotions before the secret prayer is said,

<sup>1)</sup> Lines in italics are missing in No. 321, but are given in No. 402 (p. 477 in the text), also in D.C. 3 p. 341, and B.M. Or. 6592 : 423.

<sup>4)</sup> Both D.C. 53 and D.C. 3 have here 'štalalbḥ () = "prepared" ("purified") B.M. Or. 6592 : 4 has 'šalalbḥ. D.C. 53 No. 403, however has 'thalalbḥ = "is perfected thereby".

<sup>5)</sup> No. 404 has "praised the great crown".

he shall sew the postulant's crown and shall recite this prayer over the crown.]<sup>1)</sup>

323

In the name of the Great Life!
 Shine forth, give out light, pure Mirror!
 For in all worlds thou wilt be called "Illuminator".
 Rise to thy feet, great 'uthra!
 Let all thy treasure awake <sup>2)</sup> for us
 That we may shine and rejoice thereat:
 'Uthras and kings who sit in this sanctuary
 Will beam and rejoice thereat!
 From beginning to end.

[The priests and ganzivri who are sitting in the sanctuary shall recite this hymn when the postulant comes and sits upon a chair. Then he shall rise to his feet and recite the appointed prayers (mandiz) as far as the prayer "Darkness is crushed down"; with witnesses, one on his right and the other on his left.]

324

In the name of the Great Life!
 Thou enlightenest them by thy word(s)
 Sublime <sup>3)</sup> and pure,
 And glorifiest the worlds by thy glory.
 Our father, thou enlightenest them
 By thy pure eloquence
 And thy root shall be exalted
 And attain the summit.

[The priests and ganzivri shall recite this hymn when the postulant is ending his set pieces, and the witnesses shall sit and recite this hymn, as below.]

<sup>1)</sup> The crown is tubular. At the consecration of a priest long tubes of woven silk and cotton are cut by the ganzibra into short lengths: two of silk for himself and the postulant, 24 of cotton for other priests (if the postulant is the ganzibra's first pupil). Women present sew the ends together so as to form "crowns", but it appears from the above insertion that the ganzibra himself completes the silken crown of the new priest.

<sup>2)</sup> The "treasure" which the new priest is to "awake" or "illumine" (the word means both), is his accurate recitation of the Book of Souls before the assembly of examining priests.

<sup>3)</sup> Only D.C. 3, p. 342 has šania. B.M. Or. 6592 : 126 also omits.

325 <sup>1)</sup>

In the name of the Great Life!
 The Great (Life) rejoiced, It was glad
 That Yawar hath looked <sup>2)</sup> for a banner of radiance.
 And the Rays of Light rejoiced because
 We have crushed down darkness
 And brought to nought the rebellious Voice.
 If thus we have acted, and thus it was ordained,
 Then it is You, the Well-Ordered,
 (Who hath) ordained it.

[The witnesses recite this hymn whilst sitting on chairs, and shall recite all the hymns (given) below.]

326

In the name of the Great Life!
 Our father, thou art a pure mirror!
 In all worlds thou hast become an Illuminator.
 Rejoice, our father! and take joy
 In all thy kingliness!
 Thou, our father, art he in whom we shine and glory,
 And (in whom) the 'uthras and kings
 In this sanctuary shine and glory
 For evermore.

[All shall recite this hymn; then the postulant (when) he has risen <sup>3)</sup>, shall kiss them on their heads, give them myrtle to smell at, and shall kiss the ganzibra and take the book <sup>4)</sup> from him.]

327

In the name of the Great Life!
 On the day that Myrtle emerged from the Wellspring <sup>5)</sup>
 And her waters, it grew upward <sup>6)</sup> in its glory.
 The waters rushed forth and were divided
 And ether emanated from light.

<sup>2)</sup> I suspect strongly that the original had sakahlh = "planted", ("stuck in") the banner. The pointed end of the pole is driven into the earth.

The king took the first myrtle <sup>1)</sup>
 From the hand of the new king
 Who by him had been instructed in the sublime mystery.
 He twined him <sup>2)</sup> a (myrtle-) wreath;
 On the jordan he bestowed its purity.
 The king was ratified (?) <sup>3)</sup> by the myrtle
 And the jordan crowned <sup>4)</sup> by the king,
 They are reciprocally crowned <sup>5)</sup>, mutually aggrandised
 And rise and behold the Place of Light.

[The ganzibra recites this hymn, takes the myrtle from him, smells at it, twists a wreath for himself, twists a wreath for the postulant and gives it to the postulant who takes the wreath and staff. Then he gives the order that they should honour (their crowns).]

328

In the name of the Great Life!
 Blessed be this škinta of the Mighty (Life)
 In which crowns have been formed
 Crowns have been formed in it
 And a crown for a king, son of kings, was set on,
 A crown was set on a king, son of kings.
 All the kings pay homage to thee <sup>6)</sup>
 And kings, 'uthras, Tannas and Drops
 All bow down and reverence thee
 In whom crowns (or "his crown") and mysteries
 Have been confirmed
 And škintas; an indwelling of the Mighty (Life)
 Hath proceeded from thee (?) <sup>7)</sup>.

<sup>1)</sup> One would expect "from his first-born", but the bukra refers to the first myrtle that the new king twines as a king into a wreath.

<sup>3)</sup> D.C. 3 has trš for tqun. Cf. the barsom as confirmation of Persian kingship.

<sup>5)</sup> D.C. 3 has the correct mitkarkin: D.C. 53, No. 408 p. 480 l. 1. has mit-gadlin

<sup>6)</sup> In the other mss lālak. The cult-hut, scene of the coronation, is addressed <sup>7)</sup> škinat kabiria minak praš. The meaning appears to be that the Great Life is incarnate in the priest's office. Škinat here might be rendered as "shcinah", "indwelling"?

And in thee the elect righteous will be uplifted;
 They will worship and give praise
 For thou wilt be called
 "A škinta which nourisheth sucklings"
 For ever and aye.

[This is the prayer for the consecration of the cult-hut (škinta) when thou intendest to take thither the first postulant on the Sunday. The priests recite this hymn before entering the cult-hut; (they recite it) and then they enter the cult-hut.]

329 <sup>1)</sup>

In the name of the Great Life!

Oh a burnished treasure art thou!
 Oh a glittering thing <sup>2)</sup> art thou!
 (Thou) mirror <sup>3)</sup> of kings!
 In its glory kings shine; they shine in its glory.
 They prepare crowns with his; <sup>4)</sup>
 Crowns they fashion with his.
 Watersprings are crowned (?) by his (crown) <sup>5)</sup>
 And watersprings, radiancies <sup>6)</sup> and mirrors
 Worship the great Crown: they praise it, guard it
 And say to it "Blessed is this (thine) appearance
 Which we praise; and by it, in thy škinta
 We shall be guided aright, we shall be rightly guided <sup>7)</sup>
 In thy škinta, and with thee we shall be united
 For ever and ever.

[This is the hymn for the releasing <sup>8)</sup> of crowns on the Sunday

<sup>1)</sup> This prayer is the last in Lidzbarski's collection, but his version differs from those in my collection, cf. the two texts. He takes it as an address to the banner (which it is not, even in the Oxford version, see l. 2 of the prayer) for it is addressed to the crown and its wearer.

<sup>4)</sup> The reference, as the insertion which follows it shows, is to the preparation and presentation of crowns to all the priests present at the ceremony.

<sup>5)</sup> Lidzbarski (and the Oxford ms.) bziwḥ mitkarkan. Bziwḥ is missing in D.C. 53, and I translate mitkarkan in the same sense as "And the jordan crowned by the king". see p. 230, n. 4' when the ganzibra wishes to consecrate <sup>1)</sup> the cotton crowns for the priests <sup>2)</sup>. Wearing all his vestments <sup>3)</sup> and all his clothes <sup>4)</sup>, the crown in his right hand and the staff in his left, he goes to the bank of the Piriawis, the jordan, and takes also in his right hand with his own crown the cotton crowns which he wisheth to consecrate. Then he performs the ritual ablution in the jordan and comes towards the kinta <sup>5)</sup> and the banner. And he examines all the clothes and recites the Asuta <sup>6)</sup> to the Gate of Mercies <sup>7)</sup> and the kings as much as he is able. And after that he entones this prayer over each crown, once over every one. And Life is victorious.]

These are the antiphonal hymns of Šišlam-Rba and their refrain, the hymn of the ring, and all the hymns for postulants (ordination hymns). I copied this collection from beginning to end for myself, so that I might act and be successful in the world and that there may be one to mention my name on earth and yonder in the mighty and lofty worlds of light. For I have copied with a sincere and believing heart: my heart hath testified to the Life and to my lord Manda-ḡ-Hiia, so that they would be my support and my saviour. I am poor and lowly... (etc.)

(The colophon resembles other colophons in the book) . . . .

This miscellany of the Coronation was set in order and brought to successful conclusion from beginning to end in the name of the Life and as a token of Knowledge-of-Life and trust in the high King of Light, and in the names of Hibil, Šitil and Anuš — praised be their names in the great Place, the House of Perfection! It was completed on Friday (yuma ḡ-rahāṭia) which is 'rufta (Friday), the fourth of the month Akir-Paiiz (Last-of-Autumn) which is Ṭabit, Capricornus, in the year of Wednesday (i. e. which began on a Wednesday) in the year 1217 by Arab computation — may the world founder upon them and Manda-ḡ-Hiia bring to nought their rage against the congregation of souls!

It was copied in Huwaiza, by the waters of Karka... (etc.)

[The end of the autobiographical part of the colophon of D.C. 53 is missing.]

THE BANNER HYMNS <sup>1)</sup>

In the name of the Great Life! may there be health, victory and forgiveness of sins for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš because of these antiphonal hymns for the banner.

33<sup>0</sup>

In the name of the Great Life!

When radiance came forth the white land, Paris <sup>2)</sup>,
 A young lad, Arsapan, son of radiant-beings,
 Unfurled a banner <sup>3)</sup>. He unfurled a great radiance
 So that 'uthras and škintas shone in the banner's brilliance,
 They shone in the brilliance of his banner
 (That was) like the radiance in the House of the Mighty (Life)

33<sup>1</sup>

In the name of the Great Life!

On the day that Šišlam-Rba <sup>4)</sup> unfurled his banner
 Over corporate beings <sup>5)</sup>,
 Three hundred and sixty wellsprings
 Of radiance, light and glory were formed by him.
 The glory of Šišlam-Rba's banner
 Shone forth over three <sup>6)</sup> Wellsprings of Radiance
 And the three wellsprings of Radiance
 Who beheld the brightness of Šišlam-Rba's banner
 Prostrated themselves before its glory:
 They prostrated themselves,
 The three wellsprings of radiance,
 Praising the banner
 To all eternity.

<sup>5)</sup> 'Ušṭunia = lit. "bodies" (headless). 'Ušṭuna is the word used in priestly commentaries to connote the physical; the trunk (column) of Adams "Body", i.e. the universe conceived as a human shape.

<sup>6)</sup> "Wellsprings" are, I imagine, a poetical name given to the three celebrants necessary for a masiḡta: other ceremonies require seven celebrants. See l. 5 of the next hymn.

332

In the Name of the Great Life!

On the day that Šišlam-Rba unfurled his banner
 Its glory shone out over three hundred and sixty thousand jordans,

The glory of the banner of Šišlam-Rba
 Shone out over seven wellsprings,
 And the wellspring Šihmai <sup>1)</sup> spurted upward
 Before the radiance of Šišlam-Rba's banner.
 The perfume in the banner was delightful
 And (as) it appeared over the škinata (sanctuaries).
 How it becometh Šišlam-Rba when he is illumined
 By the wondrous banner Zihrun!
 How beauteous it maketh Šišlam-Rba
 When he is proclaimed King of all beams of light!

333

In the Name of the Great Life!

On the day that Šišlam-Rba shook out the banner Pirun
 And unfurled it at the head of the škinta,
 Its glory shone out over Wellspring and Palmtree <sup>2)</sup>.
 (When) the Wellspring and Palmtree beheld <sup>3)</sup>
 The glory of Šišlam-Rba's banner,
 A gush of radiance inundated Šišlam-Rba's banner
 And made his banner, Pirun, bright
 Beyond measure.

334

In the Name of the Great Life!

On the day that the banner Šišlamiel was unfurled,
 Its radiance beamed forth over three hundred and sixty
 Worlds of Light.
 Over three hundred and sixty worlds of light
 Its radiance beamed forth.
 And the three hundred and sixty worlds of light

<sup>2)</sup> See p. 14, notes 5 and 6.

Which beheld the brightness of the banner Šišlamiel
 All flocked towards it,
 Towards it they all gathered
 And uttered a benediction on the banner of the Great Bihram <sup>1)</sup>,
 Saying to it, "Thy radiance, (O) banner Manhariel,
 Hath dawned and thine appearance shone out,
 And thy jordan hath strength and flow <sup>2)</sup>
 From end to end.

335

In the Name of the Great Life!

On the day that Bihram the Great unfurled the banner Šišlamiel,
 Its radiance shone out over the waters,
 Over the waters its radiance dawned,
 Its radiance dawned over the waters
 From the waters its radiance flooded upward
 Its radiance surged up from the waters
 And shone out over the worlds.
 Worlds and kings who beheld the radiance of
 The banner Šišlamiel, all gather towards it,
 All gather towards it and utter blessing
 Upon the banner of Šišlam-Rba and say to it
 "Blessed be thou, Šišlamiel-Banner,
 And blessed be the man that hath unfurled thee.
 Great glory hath he given thee
 And great is the crown <sup>3)</sup> he set on thee!
 He hath given thee myrtle which strengtheneth 'uthras:
 Jordans exult <sup>4)</sup> in thy radiance
 And 'uthras delight in thy fragrance Exceedingly".

336

In the name of the Great Life!

On the day that Šišlam-Rba unfurled his banner

<sup>4)</sup> D.C. 3 has šahfia "flow out", D.C. 53 (like M.L.) šahbia (ŠHB to exult in, vaunt, joy in etc.).

The radiance of Bihram-Rba's banner
 Shone forth like the great mirror
 That resteth in the Jordan.
 Its radiance appeared and his škinta
 Shone, and his people <sup>1)</sup> were confirmed in victory.
 And Life is victorious.

[Recite these seven hymns for the banner when unfurling it <sup>2)</sup>.]

337 <sup>3)</sup>

In the name of the Great Life
 It hath risen, it hath shone forth
 Thy radiance, king of 'uthras!
 It came; upon the 'uthras and škintas it shone.
 The 'uthras and the škintas who beheld thy glory
 All bless thee with a blessing,
 A blessing they pronounce upon thee
 And the 'uthras honour thee
 Because thou camest into existence
 Through the hand of a king.
 The king blessed thee with a great blessing
 And gave it (thee?) to me, Hibil-Ziwa.
 To me, Hibil-Ziwa he gave it
 To give light to worlds, to kings
 And to jordans and škintas
 All of them, fully.

338

Hibil blessed thee with a great blessing
 And gave thee to the Occult Adam <sup>4)</sup>,
 Adam blessed thee with a great blessing
 And gave thee to the Chosen Elect.
 He gave thee to the Chosen Elect
 To enlighten and stabilise their counterparts <sup>5)</sup>
 Fully.

<sup>5)</sup> The dmuta is the over-soul, the counterpart of the earthly being in the ideal world of Mšumia Kušṭa. It often acts as conscience or guardian angel, according to commentaries,

339

The Chosen Righteous rose to their feet
 And grasped thee with their right hands.
 They went to the jordan of living water
 And set thee up, so that thy radiancy
 Might be shed on the jordan.
 The water and thy brightness become blended together;
 Thy brightness and the water are combined
 Enhancing (the brilliance of) Šilmai and Nidbai.
 And these, the elect who go to the jordan,
 Are illumined by thy radiance.
 Do thou guard them and establish them
 And make their baptism successful!
 Life is victorious.

[Chant these hymns before thou conveyest the banner to the jordan.]

340

In the name of the Great Life!
 Who took up the banner Zihrun
 In which the worlds and generations glory
 And went to the bank of the jordan Piriawis?
 The jordan Piriawis on beholding the brilliancy
 Of the banner Zihrun, leapt towards its radiance:
 The waters and jordan and springs which dwell
 In the jordan (Piriawis) leap towards the radiance
 Of the banner Zihrun and exult exceedingly.

341

In the name of the Great Life!
 Yawar took up the banner Šišlamiel
 In which the worlds and generations exult,
 And went to the bank of the jordan Piriawis.
 The jordan Piriawis when it beheld the banner Zihrun
 Rejoiced with a great joy, exceedingly.

[Chant these hymns and take the banner to the jordan and plant it on the bank of the jordan. Then recite "Shine forth, shine forth, brightness of Yawar".]

342

In the name of the Great Life!
 Shine forth, let Yawar's radiance shine forth
 Over the jordan. The brightness of the banner
 Hath shone forth over the living waters! It shone forth:
 The waters dance towards its radiance
 And the radiance towards the waters. Waters and radiance
 Are intermingled <sup>1)</sup>, are interlaced, and its brightness
 Inspiritheth the 'uthras in their škintas
 Immeasurably.

(Recite these hymns when thou graspest the banner on the jordan-bank. Then recite "As the head of three škintas".)

343

In the name of the Life,
 As head of the three škinata <sup>2)</sup> —
 Who was set up as their head (Chief)?
 Whom did they set up as their chief?
 Who unfurled the banner at the jordan,
 Who at the jordan unfurled the banner?
 And who took the staff into the jordan?
 As the head of the three škinata
 Who placed the great crown on their heads <sup>3)</sup>?
 On their heads and banners Yukašar placed the great crown;
 He unfurled the banner at the jordan,
 Yukašar unfurled at the jordan the banner
 And Yusmir took the staff into the jordan.
 And Life is victorious.

[Recite these hymns whilst grasping the banner on the jordan bank <sup>4)</sup>, then perform thy baptism <sup>5)</sup>.]

344

In the name of the Great Life!

<sup>2)</sup> Three cult-huts? Or are, as I think may be the case, three concelebrants meant?

<sup>3)</sup> D.C. 53, p. 363 and D.C. 3, p. 235 have brišaiin udrabšaiin. Lidzbarski, using De Morgan's transcription, (D.M. p. 175) has brišaiian. "on our heads" and omits mention of the banners.

<sup>4)</sup> The banner is grasped first below the peak and then, standing, above the peak.

The Great (Life) rejoiced; It rejoiced when Yawar looked <sup>1)</sup>
 Towards the banners of radiance and beams of light.
 It rejoiced that we have trodden down darkness
 And have brought to nought the rebellious Voice.
 If we have done thus and it was brought about,
 Nevertheless it is You, the (well-)ordered,
 Who have ordained it!

345

In the name of the Great Life!
 On the day that 'uthras put into order
 A jordan of living water
 And a baptism was performed therein,
 They took the banner Bihram
 And brought it into the škinta of Šišlam-Rba.
 And at the door of his House of Radiance
 They unfurled it so that 'uthras and škintas
 Might shine in its brightness and rejoice
 Exceedingly.

[Recite these two hymns after thou hast performed the baptism, and take the banner into the cult-hut.]

346

In the name of the Great Life!
 On the day that great Bihram furled his banner
 Three hundred and sixty guardians presided thereat <sup>2)</sup>.
 They concealed it in its strong-box <sup>3)</sup>
 And set the seals of the mighty (Life) upon it.
 The mighty (Life) blesseth with His pure mouth
 The Being who had settled here, and saith to him
 "Lend with increase some of thy radiance,
 And illumine the whole world with thy light!"
 Our father enlighteneth with his wondrous voice;

<sup>3)</sup> Lidzbarski (M.L. 273 : 9) transliterates כסאפטיא and translates "Ketten von Edelsteinen". D.M. however (178: penult.) like D.C. 53 (364 : 11) and D.C. 3 (236 : 21) has bšaftia hilih. Safta (the more usual form of the word) in Arabic and Persian = "chest for valuables", "wallet", "purse" "casket" etc. and occurs several times in Mandaean texts in this sense. (e.g. bšaftia q-zahba, D.C. 36 II no. 189). The banner is, in fact, kept in a box.

And he said, "Any man who is pious and believing,
 Who went not early in the morning to the jordan
 Nor is signed with the sign of the jordan. . . . . 1))
 Utterly.

[Recite this hymn and fold up the banner on the great day of Daima 2), by itself. And, any day on which thou baptisest, fold the banner 3) and cover it up with this hymn.]

347

In the name of the Great Life!
 On the day that the radiance of the banner Šašlamiel 4)
 Was hidden in its casket of radiance,
 All the 'uthras rose from their seats.
 And pronouncing a sublime blessing upon Zihrun-Šašlamiel 5)
 The banner, they took it from its pedestal 6) of radiance
 To inner houses 7) so that it was hidden.
 They cover it, bless it, guard it and say to it,
 "As surely as thy radiance waiteth safe in its casket,
 Will thy form be kept safe. All worlds which behold thee
 Will bless and praise thee for ever and aye".

[Recite this prayer and furl the banner when thou hast finished all thy rites. Recite it by itself alone and fold it before they cover (put away) the banner of the day, whilst thy crown is on thy head, except at the festival of Daima. (On that day?) read both hymns. Then roll up the banner and hide it in its chest (or "casket"). And Life is victorious! 8)]

348 [THE BLESSED OBLATION PRAYERS]

In the name of the Great Life!
 On the day that Ayar (Ether, Air) emerged from the Wellspring
 The waters flowed hither, hither flowed the waters
 And radiance in the jordan. (The use of)

1) A line must be missing, condemning such a man, for the daily ablution and signing at the jordan is a religious duty. The version given is on all copies I saw, including D.M. p. 178.

2) The feast of Daima, a baptism-feast, occurs ninety days after Panja (Parwanaia), the five intercalary days.

3) The banner is about three meters long and an ell wide.

4) Var. Šišlam'il.

5) Not Zihrun and Šašlamiel as written (v. D.M. op. cit. pl. 178 : 10).

6) Its base, its column, i.e. the banner-pole.

7) Lit. "to inner eggs".

8) Here Lidzbarski's collection has No. 329 (given in this book on p. 231).

Myrtle was appointed. <sup>1)</sup> they twine its sprigs
 And its destination <sup>2)</sup> is the sacred table <sup>3)</sup>.
 We ašgandīa (acolytes) have become acolytes <sup>4)</sup>
 And were admitted into the radiance of the mighty (Life);
 By the radiance of the mighty (Life) we are sheltered.
 And the Wreath is set up, into circlets it was twined,
 It was plaited with myrtle leaves.
 Trees bore their fruit (lit. "burden")
 Naširutha was manifest in the full jordan
 And they were refreshed in the full jordan,
 Before you, 'uthras, my brothers,
 Fully.

The šganda reciteth this hymn for the Blessed Oblation when the myrtle and phial are in his hand. Then the ganzibra taketh the myrtle and phial of wine <sup>5)</sup> from the acolyte and reciteth "Come, come, lofty acolyte, from the House of my Father".]

349

In the name of the Great Life!
 Come, come, lofty messenger <sup>6)</sup>,
 Come, come from the House of my Father!
 Come and irradiate us with the radiance of Life,
 With the radiance of Life irradiate us!
 And refresh us with some of the good things <sup>7)</sup> Provided there <sup>8)</sup>. For thou <sup>9)</sup> art called Sustainer <sup>10)</sup> of 'uthras for ever and aye.

<sup>3)</sup> The patura, corresponds to the sacramental table or altar. It may be a clay table, or a mat, or a purified washed surface. The sacred meal is arranged on it, see p. 61, n. 5.

<sup>4)</sup> Ašganda, šganda, see p. 5, n. 4. Usually a young man or boy who must be of priestly birth. He is consecrated for his office every time he officiates.

<sup>8)</sup> A better version of this prayer occurs in D.C. 42 ls. 617 ff. uṭaibinan mn ṭabuta ḡ-šra (var. 'švia) 'lḥ aminṭul ḡ-mṭaibana ḡ-'uthria 'tiqrit. The same version occurs in D.C. 50. The form is Afel. Cf. Hif. טָרַי (J., 2) "to provide a living for".

<sup>9)</sup> 'tiqria in both D.C. 3 and D.C. 53. I prefer 'tiqrit, see n. 8.

<sup>10)</sup> Mṭaibana = one who refreshes or provides with food and drink, "sustainer", "food-giver" etc.

[The ganzibra shall recite this hymn and take the phial of wine and the myrtle from the acolyte]

350

In the name of the Great Life!
 On the day that a root of fresh myrtle
 Was set up before the king,
 The king stretched forth his right hand for it
 And gave it to the 'uthras and acolytes
 And said to them "Take from me this fresh myrtle
 And bless the škinata <sup>1)</sup> with a blessing,
 A blessing pronounce on the škinata
 And illumine and restore the 'uthras and škinata
 Situate at thy right and at thy left
 For ever and aye. <sup>2)</sup>

[The ganzibra shall recite this hymn and distribute myrtle to the 'uthras <sup>3)</sup> and priests. Then they shall recite the "sealing" prayers, <sup>4)</sup> to the end of that which blesseth (bless) the Blessed Oblation, and he shall seal (conclude) it.]

In the name of the Great First Strange Life from worlds of light, the Ineffable who is above all works, may there be health, purity, and forgiving of sins for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš . . . . . (etc., the usual insertions with family names occurs in all mss.)

And we shall be blessed by means of these prayers and benedictions of the pihtania <sup>5)</sup> of the Blessed Oblation, and our thought, mind and understanding shall be enlightened by the might of Yawar-Ziwa and Simat-Hiia.

351

In the name of the Great Life!
 This is the Blessed Oblation!
 Kušṭa regaleth his friends,

<sup>4)</sup> Haṭamata = confirmatory or concluding prayers.

<sup>5)</sup> Pihta (= "opened"). Bread broken ritually and distributed and eaten sacramentally is so called. Cf. the Aramaic "piece", "bread (Targ. O. Gen. xviii 1.; Targ. Y. ib. xl., 16); etc. See p. 37, n. 3. pihtania appears to be the plural form, "pieces of bread").

Kušta his friends regaleth,
 He hath prepared and blessed it with his blessing.
 I testify to Yawar-Ziwa
 Of whose bounty we have partaken(?) <sup>1)</sup>

In the name of the Great Life!
 I am the white Pih̄ta <sup>2)</sup>
 From Life's treasure-house was I transplanted;
 I was transplanted from the treasure-house of the Great Life,
 With <sup>3)</sup> the jordan they sent me to earth,
 With the jordan to earth they sent me
 To spread truth in the world,
 In the world to spread truth,
 To enlighten darkened hearts,
 My treasure, which I instilled into it <sup>4)</sup>.
 I illumined and transformed it completely
 Completely did I illumine and transform it.
 I brought and <sup>5)</sup> set down in it a good <sup>6)</sup> (gift)

 Beware that ye eat not falsely!
 Look to it lest ye partake of it hypocritically!"
 For the wicked and liars who eat it with falsehood

<sup>2)</sup> Wheat for the pihta is the best and whitest. Ground by the priest, it is mixed with water from river or jordan (salt being first added). Formed into discs, the dough is baked over the ritual brazier just before use. The pihta consumed during the masiqta by the priest as proxy for the deceased is made otherwise. <sup>7)</sup> Lit. "sighing" "lamentation".

Will be bound and lie in darkness,
 They will be bound and lie in darkness,
 Darkness degraded <sup>1)</sup> and lay heavy upon them.
 The eyes of the wicked look on darkness
 And their feet find nothing stable.
 (But) the good, who eat it with sincerity
 Arise and behold the Place of Light.
 Their eyes behold the light
 And their feet find firmness.
 And Life is triumphant.
 I testify to Yawar-Ziwa
 Of whose bounty we have partaken <sup>2)</sup>.

353

In the name of the Great Life!
 The white Pihta am I!
 The creature of light, I came into existence.
Pihta am I, the white,
 For Yawar was my Transplanter <sup>3)</sup>
 My Creator was Yawar, from his treasury he brought me.

 Zarziel-Nhura-Rba took and gave me to Hibil-Ziwa.
 Hibil-Ziwa took and brought me into the earthly world;
 He took me, brought me down; set me down in the earthly world.
 As food for Adam and all his sons.
 Whilst the first generation existed
 They ate me in good faith,

 No trickery did they perform with me,
 They performed me with no crooked dealing,
 They did not omit or subtract from me,
 From me they neither omitted nor subtracted
 And the creatures of the Seven had no power over me.
 When a third generation arose,
 Adonai <sup>1)</sup> built a House,
 A house did Adonai build,
 And the Seven obtained a hold <sup>2)</sup> in it,
 Then it was dispersed amongst the three hundred

 And then I was taken from their midst
 And they cast me amongst the three hundred
 And sixty-two nations.
 Then they ate me with falsehood,
 With falsehood did they eat me,
 Wrongly did they use me,
 They used me falsely
 And did with me that which was deficient and lacking,
 That which was deficient and lacking they did with me
 And creatures of the Seven gained dominion over me.
 Then strength was taken from me,
 And radiance, order, taste and glory.
 And they made me the fodder of beasts.
 Souls departed from bodies without their measure.
 Naṣoraeans who eat me falsely
 Will be burnt upon coals of fire.

 Then their father Pthahil arose and gave them commission
 And said to them "Go, create the thing that ye have wished

<sup>5)</sup> Lit. "the fallen that fell", i.e. any fragments or crumbs.

<sup>6)</sup> "Jordan" is not necessarily consecrated running water.

From the Place which is life-giving it came;
 It was transplanted from amongst Worthy treasurers. My Elect!
 Hearken and hear, and take care of my benefaction
 Which came from the House of the Great Life!
 And Life be praised!
 I testify to Yawar-Ziwa
 Who quickeneth us <sup>1)</sup> with his bounty.

The white Pihta am I
 Which the Life summoned and sent
 In His benevolence.
 In the strength of Hibil-Ziwa
 He sent me to this world;
 Made me chief of His Kimša (hidden treasure? <sup>2)</sup>)
 And called me Uplifter of prayers.
 I came, and became an offering set apart
 For the world, and source of strength for the priests. <sup>3)</sup>
 I held a portion of Life,
 And called with the voice of a son of the Mighty (Life);
 I set apart Sunday and the morn of the day
 Whose name is revered.
 And I dwelt therein to reveal its glory.
 I revealed (it) to the priests
 And dwelt in their hearts.
 Goodness I give to them: enlightenment in plenty
 So that they be not lacking or faulty.
 They shall offer up prayer and praise
 And put them up in a sublime voice.
 They will shine in the Treasure of Life
 And the Word that came from the House of the Great Life.
 They shall be established in sanctuaries:
 They will rise up, they will behold the Place of Light.
 And Life is victorious.

<sup>3)</sup> A free translation.

I testify to Yawar <sup>1)</sup>
 Who refresheth us with his bounty.

356

In the name of the Great Life!
 The voice of Manda-d-Hiia
 Calling to the chosen righteous,
 To the chosen righteous it calleth
 Warning them about my Oblation.
 It uttered to them a first warning,
 Admonishing them about my Oblation.
 He said to them: "Behold my oblation,
 Behold my oblation, behold my oblation
 That was transplanted from the House of the Great Life;
 My oblation translated from the House of the Great Life!
 Partake thereof in sincerity, silence and purity".
 With a second warning he admonisheth them about my oblation
 He said to them "Behold my oblation,
 Behold my oblation, behold my oblation
 Transplanted from the House of the Great Life!
 Partake thereof with prayer and praise".
 With a third warning he admonisheth them about my oblation.
 He said to them "Behold my oblation,
 Behold my oblation, behold my oblation
 Transplanted from the House of the Great Life,
 My oblation transferred from the House of the Great Life.
 With hymns and recitations partake thereof.
 Behold my oblation, behold my oblation, behold my oblation!
 Eaters of <sup>2)</sup> my oblation are like šibia <sup>3)</sup>
 Like šibia are those who eat my oblation,
 Like a lion lying <sup>4)</sup> halfwy on the road.

<sup>2)</sup> D.C. 53, p. 378 ult. has aklh man; D.C. 3 p. 249: 13 f. aklh mn. The latter appears the more likely version.

<sup>3)</sup> Šibia. My attempted translation in Z.D.M.G. p. 141:12 (op. cit.) is unconvincing. The whole passage is obscure. The mention just below of the lion lying in the road suggests that šibia was in the original šidra (hunted, ambushed), but such a simile appears out of place. Šibia are evidently people who misuse the zidqa in some way.

<sup>4)</sup> See n. 3. Rmia (past part. RMA = "cast", "placed", "laid down" or "lying". In Z.D.M.G. I took it as a miscopying of ramia.

My zidqa (charity) <sup>1)</sup> is like a mountain,
 A mountain over which no highway hath been levelled.
 My charity is like a sea,
 A sea over which there is no way of crossing. <sup>2)</sup>
 He who eateth my oblation but surrendereth nothing <sup>3)</sup>
 Is cut off and will fall into the great Sea of Suf; <sup>4)</sup>
 He that hath but giveth nought,
 His eyes will not behold the Light.
 This is a Blessed Oblation!
 Kušta regaleth his friends,
 Kušta his friends regaleth!
 He prepared and gave it his blessing.
 I testify to Yawar-Ziwa <sup>5)</sup>
 Who refresheth us with his bounty.

357 <sup>6)</sup>

Behold my oblation, behold my oblation, behold my oblation!
 Who ate it?
 The Jews, an evil nation, accursed and blasphemous ate it.
 The Kiwanaiia <sup>7)</sup> ate it, who cut it (?) in flames of fire.
 The demented Yazuqaeans ate it, who reverence fire
 Crazy creature who reverence fire
 Serving a thing that is powerless.
 Idumaeans ate it, who destroyed their virility,
 Cast away, destroyed is their manhood,
 And they set up Death <sup>8)</sup>, worshipping him.
 Zandiqs (Manichaeans?), who rest on supports of falsehood,
 ate it,
 On pillars of falsehood do they rest
 And cut off their seed from the world.
 Arabs ate it, evil liars, a wicked race
 Who drink blood. Naṣoraean ate it,

<sup>3)</sup> Or "Is not made perfect therein". Again obscure. My translation is influenced by what follows.

<sup>8)</sup> Or "a corpse" (ܐܬܝܢܐ).

A people, a stock, a family group <sup>1</sup>).
 The faithful of heart ate it,
 Righteous and believing people ate it,
 Those baptised in water ate it who at their baptism
 Arise and behold the Place of Light.
 And Life be praised! Life is victorious!
 I testify to Yawar-Ziwa who quickeneth us with his bounty.

In the name of the Great Life be there healing and victory and forgiving of sins for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!

 When He opened the Garment of Life
 And the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared,
 (When) Radiance appeared in its Place,

 Light to Yawar was given,
 And he, Yawar, told it <sup>4</sup>) to all the 'uthras.
 The 'uthras who listened to the enlightenment (teaching)
 Of Yawar, rejoiced and gloried therein to the uttermost.
 Without measure they rejoiced and gloried therein
 And were stablished thereby completely
 He said to them "Rejoice and be edified, (ye) 'uthras

 you

<sup>2</sup>) The series which follows is devoted to praise of Yawar. The name is derived from YWR or 'WR, and illustrates the use of a regular but rare form of Peal active participle of roots ending in 'r', usually connoting an active agent, e.g. dakar (a mentioner), pašar (a loosener, exorcist) našar (watchman, guardian). See N. p. 230. Hence Yawar means one who blinds or dazzles with light.

From the Mighty (Life)!" And they say to him,
 "Blessed art thou, our great <sup>1)</sup> First Enlightenment
 Brought hither for our sakes, by virtue of which We (too) give light. And we praise the Great (Life)
 Who gave thee". And Life be praised!
 I testify to Yawar, who quickeneth us
 With his bounty!

359

When He opened His Garment
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When Radiance appeared, to whom was construction <sup>2)</sup> entrusted?
 To whom was (the work of) construction given?
 And who was named as head of reproductive power <sup>3)</sup>
 Who was named as head of reproductive power?
 And who became chief of mighty ones?
 When the Life opened Its Garment,
 And the Radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared;
 When Radiance was manifested at its place,
 Production was entrusted to Yawar,
 To Yawar was (the work of) construction given.
 He, Yawar, was named head of reproduction <sup>3)</sup>,
 He was created chief of mighty ones.
 He implanted the reproductive power
 In his brethren, and set them up
 And instructed them in their places,
 He established them and instructed them
 And showed them archetypes
 So that all should not pass away.
 For the radiance of Yawar <sup>4)</sup> is not cut off
 From above them in the Secret Place.
 The Life accepteth <sup>5)</sup> the dues and oblations
 Of Yawar who quickeneth us with his bounty.
 And Life is victorious.

360

When He opened His Garment
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When Radiance formed itself,
 On whom did the Great (Life) bestow a good <sup>1)</sup> gift
 On whom did the Great (Life) bestow bounty?
 And whom did They endow <sup>2)</sup> with blessing?
 When Life opened His Garment,
 And the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared,
 (When) Radiance manifested in its place,
 The Great (Life) bestowed bounty on Yawar,
 Yawar took the good gift
 And therewith refresheth (both) great and small.
 He refreshed Yušamin and refreshed the 'uthras his sons,
 And the 'uthras, sons of Yušamin.
 Rejoice in the benefaction <sup>3)</sup>
 In the benefaction they rejoice
 Wherewith Yawar had refreshed them completely.
 Of his benefits they partook <sup>3)</sup>, all of them,
 For the radiance of Yawar is not cut off
 From above them in the Occult Place.
 And the Great (Life) accepted the fee and oblation
 Of Yawar. They partook of his bounty fully.
 And Life is victorious.

361

When He opened His Garment
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When Radiance appeared,
 Upon whom was Understanding <sup>4)</sup> bestowed?
 To whom was Perception given,

To whom did They give explanations?
 To whom did They explain about all the distinctions <sup>1)</sup>,
 And whom did They proclaim as the Voice of Life
 That is not interrupted?
 When Life opened His Garment,
 And the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared,
 Radiance appeared in its Place,
 Understanding was given to Yawar,
 Perception was bestowed on Yawar,
 And he, Yawar, hearkened and received understanding of Life.
 He was instructed by by Their Word,
 And he hearkened to Their pure Voice.
 And he came and summoned all the 'uthras.
 They came, and heard that which the Life had said to him.
 Heed that which the Great (Life) taught!
 Heed that which the Great (Life) explained!
 And following it, be ye all united!
 Hear its praise from me. Rise to the Place of Light!
 And Life is victorious.

362

When He opened His Garment
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When Radiance appeared,
 (As) envoy, whom did They send? <sup>2)</sup>
 Whom did they send as Life's messenger?
 Whom did They set in command over them all? <sup>3)</sup>
 Whom did They put in command over them all?
 With Their warning whom did They warn?
 When Life opened His Garment,
 And the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared,
 When Radiance appeared in its place,
 Yawar They sent (as) Envoy
 As Envoy They sent Yawar.
 They sent not all (any of) the 'uthras

<sup>1)</sup> D.C. 3 has lkul afrišta: "about every explanation" (or "distinction"), D.C. 53 lkul afrišta, as translated.

<sup>2)</sup> The construction is curious but, the context makes it evident that Yawar was the Envoy and not the being to whom an Envoy was sent.

<sup>3)</sup> For kulhun D.C. 3, 255 : 8 and kulhin D.C. 53, 385 : 3 read lkulhun as in the next line.

They did not send all 'uthras;
 Nor did they teach all worlds (persons),
 All worlds they did not teach
 That they will rise, that they will see Us
 That they will rise, and will see Us
 And be established in praise of the Mighty.
 They say to him <sup>1)</sup>, "Blessed and lauded be the Great Life
 Who raised thee up that we might praise the Life
 And thyself who art sent to us as Life's Envoy".
 And Life is victorious!

363

When He opened His Garment
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When Radiance appeared,
 To whom was prayer and praise given?
 Prayer and praise, to whom were they given?
 And for whom was glory (ziwa) reserved and appointed?
 The Great (Life) invested Yawar:
 He (They) called him and gave him command, saying to him,
 "Go, go, Yawar and make thine appearance
 To the Elect Righteous yonder.
 Come! rejoice in Us, and gladden the 'uthras with thee.
 'Uthras shall be joyful: 'uthras shall rejoice
 And 'uthras shall know who is more revered
 Than any other <sup>2)</sup>.
 And Life is victorious.

364

When He opened His Garment,
 And when Radiance was formed <sup>3)</sup>
 When Radiance made its appearance.
 To whom was mystic converse <sup>4)</sup> given?
 On whom was mystic converse bestowed?
 And into whose heart was it poured?
 Into the heart of whom was it poured,

<sup>4)</sup> D.C. 3, 256 : 14 has šuta kasīata "talk (of) secret things", but below like D.C. 53, šuta kasīta.

Awaking all its perfections?
 When the Life opened His Garment
 And the Radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared in its Place,
 Mystic converse was given to Yawar.
 Yawar was on guard <sup>1)</sup> and was watchful!
 And came and kept watch over all the 'uthras!
 And Life is victorious.

365

When He opened His Garment
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When Radiance appeared,
 Who was the architect of the ether-world?
 In the ether-world who was the architect? <sup>2)</sup>
 Who built a building therein,
 In it who built a building?
 Who designed it <sup>3)</sup>, set it in order, <sup>4)</sup>
 And upheld it so that it shineth
 From end to end?
 It was to Yawar that They gave charge of it,
 Because of his radiance They set him in charge,
 And he whose glory is sublime sheddeth light upon it;
 In his building he standeth <sup>5)</sup>.
 It is not vain, or void, not hath it come to naught
 Because he consulted the Life,
 Because he was advised by the Life about it.
 Life designed and founded the building
 And Life is victorious.

366

When He opened His Garment
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When Radiance appeared,
 Radiance (Ziwa) appeared with Yawar.

<sup>1)</sup> These two lines might also be an address to Yawar (naṭar is an alternative form of nṭur).

<sup>5)</sup> Or "confirmeth his building".

They (the Great Life) created Light within the Garment.
 When Light approached <sup>1)</sup> Radiance,
 They called to Yawar and commissioned him, saying,
 "Go, go thou Dazzling One,
 Show thy divine image to the elect righteous
 That they may see thee and shine
 And may exalt Laufa (communion) <sup>2)</sup> to its rightful place.
 At its rites <sup>3)</sup> they will behold Us
 And will be confirmed in praise of the Mighty (Life).
 They will behold the Great (Life)
 And the Place which hath no end!
 And Life is victorious.

367

When He opened His Garment
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When Radiance appeared,
 To whom was his mystic archetype <sup>4)</sup> given,
 A mystic counterpart, to whom was she given
 And for whom was she guarded and established?
 When He opened His Garment,
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared
 And Radiance appeared in its place,
 A mystic counterpart for Yawar
 Was concealed and guarded.
 And Life is victorious.

368

When he opened His Garment
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When Radiance appeared,
 For it, Transmitters were appointed
 For it, there were appointed Transplanters.

<sup>1)</sup> In such texts as the Alf Trisar Šuialia it is assumed the nhura (light) is the (female) complement of the (male) force ziwa (radiance, glory).

<sup>2)</sup> Laufa (union, communion), is the simplest form of commemorative meal for the dead. See W.W., pp. 232-5. Its modern name is lofan.

<sup>4)</sup> Dmuta, translated in No. 366 as "divine image", is the ideal counterpart; also "appearance", "likeness". See p. 236 n. 5.

(But) yonder, yonder They covered up its arousing <sup>1)</sup> brilliance,
 It doth not flash forth amongst dull-witted Plants!
 But was reserved for one, one (only),
 And will rise with him to the Place of Light.
 And Manda-d-Hiia will watch over him in his place;
 He will guide him, will rejoice with him
 And be his companion for ever and ever.
 And the Great Life be praised in his light!
     Life is victorious!

When He opened His Garment
 And when Radiance was formed,
 When Radiance appeared,
 Who was king over the Light?
 Who became king over Light?
 And who, in his realm, was named chief,
 Who was named chief in his realm
 And who became Captain of the mighty?
 Who was it who twined (wreaths) of virtues <sup>2)</sup>
 And set them on the heads of enlightened ones?
 When Life opened His Garment
 And the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared,
 Radiance appeared in its place
 Yawar became king over Light,
 He it was who became King over Light.
 In his realm he was named Captain,
 Captain he was called in his realm
 He became Captain of the Mighty.
 He twined <sup>3)</sup> (wreaths of) virtues
 And set them on the heads of enlightened ones.
 (Yea), Yawar arranged all, and did nought therein
 Amiss or lacking, Nought was wanting, nought defective.
 Nothing grieved him, (for) in it all
 There was nothing awry!
     And Life be praised!

In the name of the Great Other Life, be there health, purity,

<sup>3)</sup> Kana ḡ-zidqa. The word kana (receptacle, storing-place, assembly, assemblage, gathering, congregation; base, fundament, origin, place of origin etc.) in the series of hymns which follows refers to the various ritual foods set out on the holy table or platter for the sacred meal, in short, the foods collected for the purpose.

<sup>4)</sup> This part of the hymn refers to the celebrant, and is chanted antiphonally by the priests present. (Today, owing to the lack of priests, the celebrant himself repeats the whole hymn.)

At the Source of the great Stream<sup>1)</sup>
 Of the predestined<sup>2)</sup> Ether-World do I stand!
 I am the Word of the First Life.
 Pre-existent am I to all 'uthras,
 For the Life created me and blessed me
 And gave me strength, benison and goodness<sup>3)</sup>,
 And sent me to bless my mystic brethren,
 All the 'uthras; to speak and to be obeyed.
 And I came and blessed them and gave them strength,
 Benison and goodness, just as my Father<sup>4)</sup>
 Had given them to me.
 And I, likewise, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam —
 Or any man who is sincere and believing
 And utters this saying sincerely —
 Will receive a blessing like the blessing
 And outflow<sup>5)</sup> of the Ether-Land,
 Foreordained and blessed by the Second Life.
 And all 'uthras of the world of Light
 Are blessed by it.
 It came to this world which is all birth
 And to sons of the great Family of Life.
 And Life is victorious.

 Of the living <sup>5)</sup>; bless (also) and mention
 (Their names) with "forgiving of sins"
 ("Be there for them") and with "Thy blessing shall Rest upon them for an age of ages
 And world without end".

And Life is victorious.

373

In the name of the Great Life!
 And in the name of the Manda-d-Hiia
 And in the name of the great powerful Mind <sup>6)</sup>
 Who thought and evoked companionship for Himself,
 And said "There shall be companionship for Me

<sup>3)</sup> Mara-d-Rabutha, "Lord of Greatness" is, in the texts which describe the ordination of priests, the prototype of rba or rbai, the priest who initiates and trains the young postulant to priesthood.

<sup>5)</sup> Haiania. This might mean either the dead who are commemorated, or living persons, the relatives or teachers of the priests.

<sup>6)</sup> Mana here has this (foreign) meaning (Avestic manah), and not the Aramaic meaning ("garment", "vessel" etc.) Mandaean writers love word-play, and therefore references to a robe or vessel are sometimes hidden references to mana meaning "soul" or "mind".

In my dwelling! And I will administer all works
 And will create a world of ether
 And make a durable <sup>1)</sup> Abode.
 There shall be mystic 'uthras
 By whom elect righteous (people) will be set up (fortified)
 Prepared for the everlasting <sup>1)</sup> Abode.
 And then He, the great and powerful Mind <sup>2)</sup>
 Pondered and created mystic 'uthras.
 And he created one mild 'uthra
 Who was sublimer than all the 'uthras.
 And He blessed him, established him and strengthened him.
 To him he gave the waters, and spread
 Abundance in the worlds of light.
 He set him over all jordans and streams
 And over the Root which originated therefrom.
 He showed him favour, blessed him and confirmed him.
 And over the kana d-zidqa (Oblations) and the Table <sup>3)</sup>
 He made him ruler. And He made him ruler
 Over all sanctuaries (škinata),
 So that they should exist through his strength.
 And they will thrive in their sanctuaries
 For through him all the 'uthras are refreshed,
 They rejoice and are completely enlightened.
 And they praise Manda-d-Hiia who instituted for them
 This kana d-zidqa and Table
 In their sanctuaries. So that from him
 There was tabuta <sup>4)</sup>, and by him it was bestowed
 Upon the righteous elect who were worthy
 Of the Everlasting Abode. Because it was prepared for them <sup>5)</sup>
 By him. And by (means of) that kana d-zidqa and Table
 By which their souls are uplifted <sup>6)</sup>,
 Everyone who partaketh thereof in silence
 Shall have strength and firmness like 'uthras,

<sup>1)</sup> Daura taqna, a firm (or steady, durable, lasting, abiding) abode is the antithesis of daura bailla — the vain (or void, perishable, null, useless, ceasing) abode.

<sup>3)</sup> Patura "table", see p. 61, n. 5.

<sup>4)</sup> I. e. the sacred meal on the ritual tables.

And increase and knowledge like sons of salvation,
 And his name shall be established with his Father.
 (But) he who doth not partake of the Oblation in silence,
 - And there is nought which hath not its limit! — <sup>1)</sup>
 Will have neither lot nor portion <sup>2)</sup> in the House of Life.
 The great Mighty Mind (Mana) taught and revealed:
 He said "From him who refresheth himself <sup>3)</sup>
 By this Kana d-zidqa and Table in silence,
 And pronounceth over it the name of the Life
 And the name of Manda-d-Hiia,
 My charity will not be cut off".
 So I worship, laud and praise the Life,
 My Father, who planted me and raised me up,
 Gave me strength and water
 And set me in authority over
Kana d-zidqa and Table.
 I accepted <sup>4)</sup> it from Him and went towards the škinata, <sup>5)</sup>
 I came and established the 'uthras in their škinata
 So that in them they should speak and be heeded,
 Should have strength and increase
 And praise the Being who placed them therein.
 (But) any man who doth not partake
 Of this kana d-zidqa in silence
 And doth not pronounce the name of Life
 And of Manda-d-Hiia over it,
 A great retribution will befall him,
 He will no more be counted among 'uthras.
 For when this kana d-zidqa and Table were transported hither,
 I was its guardian, it was I who transferred it (them?)
 From my Father, and distributed it (them)
 Amongst the škinata of all the 'uthras.
 When elect righteous (men) have come into existence
 I will go towards them with guardian(-spirits);

<sup>1)</sup> This tag, probably a proverb, occurs in several Mandaean compositions, it means roughly, "and there is always an exception". See G.R. pp. 75, 290, 291 and 292.

<sup>2)</sup> Hlaq umnaq = hlaq umna.

<sup>5)</sup> The škinata of the 'uthras are the prototypes of earthly sanctuaries (the cult-huts), and 'uthras are depicted as performing in the world of light the sacred rites which men perform on earth.

I will give them strength, and water and abundance,
 And knowledge like (that of) mighty 'uthras,
 Sons of light. I will set up for them
 A kana d-zidqa and Table.
 In their houses, and by association therewith
 Their souls will be uplifted.
 For this kana d-zidqa and Table
 Were the product of the great First Vine.
 And when He appeared and came into being
 And created companionship<sup>1)</sup> for Himself,
 He said, "For me there shall exist an Ether-world,
 And in it there will be sanctuaries (škinata)
 We will set up 'uthras in them.
 Upon them will rest (my?) glory<sup>1)</sup>:
 They will speak with the voice of Life
 From beginning to end. And we will transport to them
 Sublime and illumined jordans<sup>2)</sup>, and we will bless them
 With a blessing. So that there will be bounty<sup>3)</sup>
 From them, and the kana d-zidqa and Table
 Will be given (furnished) by them.
 Strength and soundness will result to all the worlds of light,
 And (also) to the elect righteous who are refreshed
 By this kana d-zidqa and Table.
 And they will speak and will be heard.
 Now I worship, laud and praise
 That great First Vine who ruleth all the worlds of light
 And blesseth the elect righteous with His blessing
 And with the bounty (good food) brought to them,
 By which they are strengthened and increased in might.
 Their hearts leap for joy: they are elated
 And their appearance becomes bright in every way.
 They praise Manda-d-Hiia who bestowed upon them
 This kana d-zidqa and Table
 Set up for them in their sanctuaries.
 (But) anyone who doth not partake in silence

<sup>1)</sup> Šauta has at least six possible meanings (including "thirst" and "obedience"!)

Of the kana d-zidqa and Table and omitteth to mention
 The name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḡ Hiia, thereon,
 All demons and devils will not absent themselves from his table!<sup>1)</sup>
 Because he heedeth not every word of his Father <sup>2)</sup>
 The Seven will become his persecutors <sup>3)</sup>
 He will be put to the question before his Father.
 The great and mighty Mana taught and told
 The elect righteous and the Naṣoraeans
 Who are to exist in the earthly world <sup>4)</sup>,
 "When ye beget generations and when ye teach them
 Their knowledge, Explain to them,
 Show them and tell them
 About the rites which ye have performed;
 About the kana d-zidqa and Table.
 (Teach them) to partake thereof in silence
 And to mention the name of Life and the name
 Of Manda-ḡ-Hiia thereon. "Partake of it,
 And when ye have refreshed yourselves
 Pronounce this blessing upon it
 And a Helper will be yours!"
 Then I worship, praise and laud
 That Mystic, Great First Cloud <sup>5)</sup> (Spouse)
 From whom all good things came forth,
 And all the 'uthras who (were found?) worthy <sup>6)</sup>
 When these wholesome things were transplanted.
 They gave me orders concerning them
 To set them down and protect them everywhere
 In every place where partakers refresh themselves.
 And they shall have strength and (bodily) soundness in their
škinata (dwellings);
 When they refresh themselves therewith
 They rejoice and their souls exult exceedingly.
 They praise Manda-ḡ-Hiia who gave them
 This kana d-zidqa and Table of which they have partaken
 And praise him eternally.

Manda-d-Hiia revealed and said
 "Any man who partaketh in silence
 Of this kana d-zidqa and Table and pronounceth thereon
 The name of Life and the name of Manda-d-Hiia,
 'Uthras of light shall bless him with their blessing;
 He shall be protected by the Secret Name
 And it will protect all the 'uthras.
 There shall be one Helper for him:
 All that he hath said will be heard by hosts
 Of 'uthras of the Ether-world".
 And Life be to (those who) know,
 Life to the believing and Life to men
 (Who) instruct us (in the faith)
 And Life is victorious over all works.

374

In pure raiment do I stand;
 In that glorious splendour in which I stand
 I worship, praise and laud
 The four hundred and forty four thousand names
 Of Yawar-Ziwa, son of Nbaṭ-Ziwa, King of 'uthras,
 The great Viceregent of škinata (sanctuaries),
 Chief over mighty and celestial worlds
 Of radiance, light and glory;
 Who is within the Veil, within his own škinta,
 Before whom no being existed.
 Then I worship laud and praise
 The One Great Name, which is great
 And the Name which is powerful.
 Moreover I worship laud and praise
 That Mystic First Mind (Mana) of Glory,
 Who emanated from Himself, Whose brilliance
 Exceedeth all (other) mystic glories;
 It is greater than word of mouth (can describe)
 And His light mightier than lips can express.
 For He is the great mystic First Mind (Mana)
 Whose glory was transmitted
 Neither from the uttermost ends of the earth
 Nor from gates within it.
 For He is the Mana (Mind),

The great, the Mysterious, the First,
 Whose glory was transmitted by redoublings <sup>1)</sup> of radiance
 By intensifications <sup>1)</sup> of light.
 Then I worship, laud and praise
 The redoublings of radiance
 And intensifications of light by means of which
 The great mighty Mana was formed and made.
 Then I worship, laud and praise
 That pure Staff <sup>2)</sup> which was conveyed to him
 By Šar-Gufna, the great mysterious First.
 Then I worship, laud and praise
 That pure Wreath which was transmitted to him
 By Pirun, the great, mystic, First Vine,
 Then I worship, praise and laud the pure vestments,
 And the coverings of radiance which were transmitted to him
 From the mighty Tannas <sup>3)</sup> of the jordan.
 Then I worship, laud and praise
 That banner Zihrun, which was unfurled before
 The great mighty Mana, in the radiance of which banner
 Three hundred and sixty-six mighty celestial worlds of light shine.
 Then I worship, laud and praise
 That 'Uthra whom they summoned
 From amongst a thousand thousand 'uthras, 'uthras
 Innumerable. They clothed him with radiance,
 Covered him with light, transmitted to him strength
 From the strength of the Great First Life his Father,
 And "speaking and being heard" <sup>4)</sup>
 From the "speaking and being heard" of the great Mana,
 The mighty, mysterious, First, of the glory of Life.
 They called him, armed him and sent him saying to him,
 "Arise, go to Mšunia-Kušta <sup>5)</sup>, to the chief of worlds,

<sup>3)</sup> Like Lidzbarski, I am mystified by this word. It dissolves, (ham ziwa pšar tana No. 19), it is personified in company with niṭuṭiata, "Drops", suggesting "vapours" No. 308, also No. 378, p. 284. (See p. 9, n. 1).

<sup>5)</sup> I cannot understand why Mšunia-Kušta, a world of immaterial ideals or prototypes, should here be called "of the darkness". The line may have been inserted by accident.

That which is called 'of the darkness',
 And teach pious, believing and amiable Naṣoraean
 That they should set up their Table,
 (A Table) replenished with food;
 And their Cup (a Cup) full of mambuga <sup>1)</sup>.
 So that the good may behold and be refreshed <sup>2)</sup>,
 The wicked be discomfited and the children of the world
 Put to shame.
 The righteous <sup>3)</sup> will see that the Life existeth.
 They will raise their eyes
 Toward the great First Father of Glory
 And toward the Lord of Celestial Greatness <sup>4)</sup>
 Who giveth light (and?) sure strength
 To the righteous,
 And <sup>5)</sup> to thee, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam, (be there)
 Lofty strength, great and mighty confidence,
 Grace, fame and honour!
 And shouldest thou seek the honour that is hidden,
 The Mana will come and will rest upon thee,
 Our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 And (upon) thy brother-priests here.
 And the right hand of the 'uthras
 Will be laid upon thee, thyself, our father
 Adam-Yuhana son of Sam and (on) all the priests
 And laymen of the sanctuary (škinta).
 And Life is victorious.

375

I have blessed, my Lord, all the good things <sup>6)</sup>
 Which Thou didst make for the ancient world in the beginning,
 (For) from Thee they opened and came forth.
 This is a tree <sup>7)</sup> which is a Tree of Life,
 And a Vine, a Vine of Life!

<sup>7)</sup> "The tree" here probably refers to the priestly bridegroom, and the "vine" to his bride? See the rubric at the end.

Satisfying (fare) that is superior to all means of healing
 Is that which thou hast brought, revealed
 And given to these souls!
 Blessed is this pure oblation
 Which goeth before its Giver.
 In joy he (or "it") opened his mouth
 At the Judgement and pleadeth his cause
 Before the Being sitting in judgement!
 (It is) a deliverer of the bound,
 It cheereth those who are in affliction,
 Causeth sucklings to flourish,
 Is the sight of the blind
 And the hearing and pleasure of the deaf.
 It establisheth speech in the mouths of the stammering,
 And the deaf and the dumb.
 Its presence is praised,
 For thereby souls are held together.
 And (it provideth?) means of ascent
 To the Great Place of Light
 And to the everlasting Abode.
 And blessed art thou, our good father!
 For we have eaten of thine Oblation
 And have lived <sup>2)</sup>.
 And we have drunk from thy mambuga <sup>3)</sup>
 And were refreshed (have benefited by)
 Thine unction, thine oblation, thy bounty <sup>4)</sup>, Thy basket <sup>5)</sup> when full of food
 And thy bowl when full of spring-water <sup>3)</sup>.
 And may this kana d-zidqa and Table
 Increase and be plentiful in thy house,
 Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 As was the table of Adam the First Man,
 Which lacked nothing, nor was it stinted.
 (So be it with) this kana d-zidqa and table

<sup>1)</sup> Lit. "talketh its speech", i.e. makes a speech in defence of the soul to the judge.

<sup>5)</sup> Sala (or "a straw or reed food-mat").

In thy house, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 For an age of ages and for ever and ever!
 And Life is victorious.

[This petition of "The great Father of Glory" is a blessing bestowed on a bridegroom,]

(Note. — Probably for the marriage of a priest. One such marriage forms part of the consecration of a ganzibra.)

376

In the name of the Great Life!
 And in the name of the great Father of Glory!
 Now thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 With that benediction wherewith
 The great first Palm-tree <sup>1)</sup> was blessed.
 And the Palm-tree blessed the bursting forth <sup>2)</sup>
 Of its foliage. It was so, and the sprouting <sup>2)</sup> (branches)
 Blessed runnels (of sap) and established them
 And established the waters of life.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 With that blessing conferred upon
 The eight hundred and eighty thousand banners <sup>3)</sup>
 And conferred upon the great Mirror.
 And the jordans were blessed thereby and the running streams
 And (that) whereby the seven mystic mirrors were blessed.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 And the 'uthras and the škinata, by that blessing,
 Bestowed upon the <sup>4)</sup> Tanna and Ham-Ziwa (Radiance-glowed <sup>5)</sup>),
 And upon the First Word given them.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 With that blessing wherewith the Great Mystery was blessed.
 And the Great Mystery blessed the two manas
 Who dwell with one another.

Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
Wherewith the secret and guarded Treasure was blessed,
And a mystic Sprout <sup>1)</sup> emerged therefrom.

And the mystic Sprout <sup>1)</sup> blessed the Eggs (hilbunia <sup>2)</sup>)
And the Drops concealed within them.

Then thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam
With that blessing wherewith Smandr'iel <sup>3)</sup> was blessed,
Whose fragrance is pleasing like the fragrance of the Vine
When in leaf, like the foliage of the fresh myrtle
Which was set up before the King, also the blossom
Which came from them.

Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
Wherewith the mystic Table was blessed,
And wondrous apparel, and the great Crown,
Were blessed therewith.

Then thou art blessed, our father Adam-Yahia son of Sam,
With that blessing wherewith were blessed
Zihwat-Aina, Kihwat-Aina, Piršat-Aina and Nibṭat-Aina <sup>4)</sup>.

Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
Wherewith Nbaṭ-Mana-Kasia was blessed
When He was sitting in his House (hilbuna) and had no consort.
When He was blessed with this blessing
A Wellspring gushed up <sup>5)</sup> before Him
And She, the Wellspring, parted for the niṣubta <sup>6)</sup> Planting?

 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, with that blessing

 And the great kinta blessed the two kings.
 And the two kings blessed the 'uthras, guardians

Blessed the rivers and running streams
 And said to them, "Whoso amongst 'uthras drinketh water from
 you,

Then thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 With that blessing which Ham-Ziwa bestowed upon
 The Beam-of-Light whom he set beside him,
 And he endowed her with his wisdom and his faith.
 And from them proceeded fertility (niṣubta).

Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 By that blessing which two pure manas

<sup>5)</sup> Hina is omitted in D.C. 3.

That for which their hands had pleaded,
 (So that) they praise Thee for evermore.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith the Vine of Life
 Was blessed and liveth <sup>1)</sup>
 And the wondrous Vine blessed her young vines <sup>2)</sup>, her sons,
 And said to them "Ye shall have strength and increase,
 And the lustre and glory of the Jordan, <sup>3)</sup>
 And an assignment in the worlds of light".
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
 Wherewith the great Ganzaiel <sup>4)</sup> was blessed;
 And he blessed three 'uthras
 And gave them strength and firmness and said to them
 "Like as the bud which appeared in that Vine
 And remained and sent forth a shoot <sup>5)</sup>,
 May the radiance that resteth on its tendrils
 Have blessed thee" <sup>6)</sup>. And he said to them
 "As long as water flows will the lovingkindness
 Of the mystic Mana <sup>7)</sup> flow on, and He will enlighten thy mind
 With Naširuta (priestly wisdom) and thou wilt receive Fame and honour from the ether".
 (And he said to them) Ye will shine like the brilliance
 (Of the sun?) <sup>8)</sup> and your forms will give out
 A sublime effulgence <sup>9)</sup> Ye will beam like Hibil-Ziwa
 Amongst the 'uthras. And thou shalt (ye will?) have Increase like the sublime Vein <sup>10)</sup> which They created. <sup>11)</sup>
 And They constructed škintas, made 'uthras,
 Drew down rivers, distributed streams
 And gave them food (ṭabuta) and a Table,
 And bestowed upon them the blessing

<sup>4)</sup> Ganzaiel appears to be the archetype of a ganzibra and the "three 'uthras" the three concelebrants.

<sup>7)</sup> D.C. 53 has Tana (for Mana as D.C. 3, p. 279 : penult.).

<sup>11)</sup> D.C. 3 has "which 'uthras created" (d-qrun iutria; p. 280 : 4).

 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 With that blessing wherewith the three kings blessed Ayar <sup>2)</sup>,
 They appointed and made him Chief of the škinata
 And he was signed with a great seal
 And set up (as chief?)
 For ever and ever. They erected a throne for him;
 Spread above him a canopy of radiance,
 Hymned him and said to him,
 "Since the day that the great Jordan extended itself
 And a channel <sup>3)</sup> was allotted to each of the škinata,
 They made thee a king, our father!
 A collector of dues (of) portions allotted <sup>4)</sup> to the Life,
 And a twiner of the wreath for postulants (to priesthood).
 Instruct the young plant (nišubta) <sup>5)</sup> about the škinata
 (O) establisher of its treasures! Our father!
 O mana which passeth not away!
 Troth is not broken and Union
 In which there is no imperfection or fault!
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 By that blessing wherewith Ziwa-Kasia (Mystic Radiance)
 And Nhura-Yaqra (Holy light) <sup>6)</sup> were blessed:
 And ye shall have abundance, renown and honour.
 And honour, "speaking and being heard" will be thine,
 Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam
 Like the great Father of Glory by Whose word
 Worlds were created, and by Whose utterance
 Dwellings (škinata) came into being.
 And He gazed, looking upon His Likeness,
 And created 'uthras in His likeness;
 Made Seed and gave (it) to the 'uthras.

<sup>2)</sup> Ayar, or Ayar-Rba, see p. 86, n. 2, in ritual scrolls which describe rites performed by spirits as prototypes of those performed on earth, (see p. 264 n. 5), is always cast for the role of chief celebrant.

<sup>3)</sup> D.C. 3, p. 280 : 15 has the probably correct version, giuza, "channel". D.C. 53 (414:ult.) has ginza, "treasure".

<sup>6)</sup> The reference is to the "holy union" of the male and female principles of light.

Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing which the great Father of Glory
 Bestowed on His First-born, and the First-born Blessed the Palmtree and Wellspring <sup>1)</sup>
 Which proceeded from Him.
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father.
 With that blessing which King Nbaṭ bestowed
 Upon the Egg, the secret mystery which proceeded
 From himself.
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing which the Egg, the Secret Mystery,
 Bestowed upon its inner covering
 Which proceeded from the Hidden.
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing which Yawar bestowed
 Upon the Living Flame.
 And it increased and was increased.
 And (may) the kana d-zidqa, Table, and this mambuha
 Increase and become plentiful in thy house,
 Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 And the 'uthras and škinata
 Who sit at thy right and thy left.
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing which the mystic Vein <sup>2)</sup> pronounced
 And burst forth into sixty watersprings.
 And it said to them, "Your images will shine
 In my image, and your roots <sup>3)</sup>
 Will become numerous <sup>4)</sup>, and my root,
 And ye will have renown and honour
 Like holy manas in their škinata.
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father
 Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 With that blessing bestowed upon
 The great mystic First Škinta.
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,

<sup>1)</sup> Palmtree and Wellspring, see p. 14, notes 5 and 6.

With that blessing bestowed upon the great Sacred Unique One <sup>1)</sup>:
 And He blessed the 'uthras, his sons,
 And the 'uthras and škinata blessed the postulants
 Who stand before them.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing which was bestowed on the three holy manas
 When remaining in their hilbunia <sup>2)</sup> ("eggs", "houses"?)
 So that none can behold their forms.
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing bestowed on the pure Niṣubta <sup>3)</sup>.
 From the jordan she arose, she endowed 'uthras with radiance,
 Gave light to the škinata, wreaths to the Drops
 And a chart <sup>4)</sup> to postulants. Blessed is this (chart):
 By it they are strengthened and praise
 The prolific Vine and the source of the flowing channel
 Which hath no end.
 The three holy manas will bless thee,
 Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam.
 They will hymn thee and say to thee,
 "As a leader of radiant spirits <sup>5)</sup> art thou come hither:
 As a captain of light thou goest thither,
 As head of the škinata thou twinest a wreath
 For the rays of light.
 Jordans will come into being, Yawar, in thy brilliance,
 And in thy Root <sup>6)</sup> (amongst thy kindred) rays of light will be set up
 At thy call and at the sound of thy preaching
 'Uthras gather about thee.
 Many vines will be raised up for thee.
 And they said to thee, "Just as jordans become many,
 So may thy charity to 'uthras increase".
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,

<sup>3)</sup> What are we to make of niṣubta here? Is she the personified spirit of procreation, or "the Bride", or...? See p. 171, n. 2 and p. 135, n. 2 for possible interpretation.

With that blessing bestowed upon Simat-Hiia <sup>1)</sup>.
 And Simat-Hiia was blessed when she arose,
 (And) came from the worlds of darkness.
 They retreated(?) <sup>2)</sup>, and worlds of light were established.
 And all the 'uthras gather about Yawar,
 Blessing him <sup>3)</sup>, Yawar, father of all worlds
 And founder of all škinata.
 The 'uthras and škinata arose <sup>4)</sup>
 Blessing the sublime one, Yawar, great ruler of the škinata,
 And saying to him, "Blessed art thou, Yawar,
 And blessed is the Bride of Life who was thus proven <sup>5)</sup> (?).
 Blessed is the breach which thou, Yawar, hast broached!
 Thou didst come and didst broach a breach.
 Thou hast exalted horns and hast separated
 The goodness of the good (good beings?) from the evil (evil beings?)
 And the wicked from the good and orderly.
 (Of all worlds of light) <sup>6)</sup>
 And the Disposer (of all worlds of light and? <sup>7)</sup>
 Of worlds of darkness transported his Bride <sup>8)</sup>
 From her pit <sup>9)</sup>, that Place.
 The škinata were blessed, and their Disposer,
 So that they were illumined
 By the blessing he bestowed on 'uthras. (?) <sup>10)</sup>
 And he set up a Table for kings,
 Spread out the firmament
 And stars appeared therein.

<sup>6)</sup> I suggest that "of all worlds of light" is obviously misplaced, and should follow msadrana, making the next line "and the Disposer of all worlds of light and of darkness".

<sup>9)</sup> Gibta (Gubta "hill" or "pit") Or, "by her choice"? Doubtful. The word is rare, but occurs in Pišra ḡ-Ainia (J.R.A.S. 1937, 590 : 20).

<sup>10)</sup> The construction makes translation doubtful.

Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
 Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 With that blessing bestowed upon beloved 'uthras
 Formed from the loins of Radiance
 And nurtured by beams of light.
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
 With that benison bestowed upon the holy Mana
 When He was in His own škinta.
 He blessed the jordan and extended it before Him
 And blessed the Table and set it up before Him
 So that they might eat at it and be refreshed,
 And be sustained thereby on their thrones
 Of radiance, light and glory.
 And He created the Crown, set it upon His head,
 Blessed it and held it on his right arm <sup>1)</sup>.
 And He, the Holy <sup>2)</sup> Mana taught and said,
 "Any man who crowneth himself
 Will have neither lot nor portion <sup>3)</sup> in the House of Life".
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 With that blessing wherewith the great First Mana Blessed Himself <sup>4)</sup>. And the great First Mana
 Blessed the eight hundred and eighty 'uthras
 Who grasped the banner <sup>5)</sup> of the king.
 And they hymn Him, saying to Him,
 "When Yawar was successful, (with his Bride?)
 She was neither wanting nor unworthy,
 There was nought in her imperfect or amiss".
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing bestowed on the disembodiment (spirits <sup>6)</sup>)
 Of good ganzivri, and thou wilt be blessed

---

<sup>1)</sup> The crown, when not on the head, is slipped over the right arm and kept there until the preliminary prayers are over.

<sup>5)</sup> A reference to the consecration of the banner before baptism. The priests (and later persons to be baptised) grasp, first the lower part of the pole and then the peak when reciting the banner hymns.

<sup>6)</sup> See J.B. trs. p. 181, n. 4, "für die den Körper abstreifenden Seelen"; i.e. spirits casting off the body.

(With a blessing bestowed) by Dmut-'Qara, and Nišubta-Qadmaita<sup>1)</sup>
 And The Drop upon whom the seal of a king was placed.
 And the Beloved 'Uthra <sup>2)</sup> blessed thee when he was baptised
 In those jordans. They immersed him, but he was not purified,
 (He was still imbued with) the hue of darkness
 Until Simat-Hiia arose. She took a pot of frankincense
 And a king's crown, cried in the jordan
 And blessed Yawar. And Simat-Hiia spoke
 Hymning the jordan and saying to it, (and) say ye it (too <sup>3)</sup>!
 "From two mountains didst thou come into being!"
 How fitting it is that 'uthras pronounce blessing
 Upon Yawar, blessing him and uplifting him,
 And raising his Bride up to the Place of Light!
 They twine for him a wreath, a wreath of purities,
 So that Darkness on beholding it
 Is confounded and ashamed. When (thus) confounded
 The plots which it had in mind are nullified".
 When Simat-Hiia had said this,
 All the 'uthras observed silence <sup>6)</sup>
 (But) Yušamin and Simat-Hiia bless Yawar
 Saying to him "Blessed art thou, Yawar;
 And blessed are 'uthras who abide with thee
 With that benediction wherewith the copious
 Flowings and upsurgings of mighty springs of light
 Were blessed; and wherewith was blessed,
 ..... <sup>7)</sup>, the mystery which resteth within the Well-
 spring.

Further, thou wilt be blessed, thou, Yawar;
 And thou, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam;
 With that blessing wherewith Šišlam was blessed

<sup>1)</sup> Literally the names of these personifications are "Counterpart-of-Glory" and "First-Bride" or "First-Propagation". Obscure allegorical references make the text unintelligible.

<sup>2)</sup> "The beloved 'uthra" "is probably Hibil-Ziwa, who was baptised after his sojourn in the world of darkness and marriage with Zahriel.

<sup>7)</sup> D.C. 3, (287 : 15) has sar udnasar, D.C. 53 (422 : 14) sar utnasar. Possibly a miswriting for saq udna "rose up and appeared".

When he ascended and abode in his škinta,
 In his own House (Egg).
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father with that blessing
 Bestowed upon the Occult Radiance and sublime Light
 (Which) inspired the 'uthras.
 Then thou wilt be blessed, our father with that blessing
 Bestowed upon the mystic Vein <sup>1)</sup> that dwelleth
 Within the Wellspring.
 And thy root will multiply (branch out)
 And the root of the 'uthras, thy sons,
 Like the Vein which is lodged within the Jordan.
 And thou wilt have chosen righteous ones
 Who will exalt Treasure of Life.
 And we will assign thee thy Niṣubta <sup>2)</sup> of Life (Spouses?) who bear witness <sup>3)</sup> to Life,
 Acknowledge Knowledge-of-Life
 Give alms and offer up this (prayer of) blessing
 Which was bestowed on the holy Mana.
 And Life is triumphant over all works,
 And victorious is Knowledge-of-Life
 And his devotees and his people for ever and ever.

377

And they address a hymn to him:
 "The Egg, the Hidden Mystery, hath blessed thee
 And establisheth thee.
 The Vein <sup>4)</sup> which hath no end hath blessed thee; Jordan and Table have blessed thee; Holy Kušta <sup>5)</sup> hath confirmed thee;
 The three Wellsprings which give benediction in the Jordan
 Bless thee, our father! <sup>6)</sup>
 Crowns, and the secret treasure of the Egg of holy Manas
 Have blessed thee. The Spouse (cloud) hath blessed thee;
 A sublime Vine confirmed thee.

<sup>4)</sup> The references appear to allude to the various offices of a head priest, beginning with simple baptism.

The Great Life blesseth thee with His pure mouth
And the sublime Treasure which is with thee confirmeth thee <sup>1)</sup>.

[This prayer seeketh blessing on an infant, a postulant, or a masiqta. And when they brought Adam into his body, it consecrated him.]

378

In the name of the Great Life! may there be health, purity, joy of heart and forgiving of sin for Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing which Hibil-Ziwa pronounced upon Adam,
The first man. Moreover, thou shalt be blessed,
Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
And all thy škinta and the ritual food (tabuta)
And these priests and Mandaean (laymen)
Who sit to right and left of thee,
With that blessing wherewith Manda-ḡ-Hiia was blessed
When he sprang forth and proceeded from the waters
And from celestial springs of light.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
With that benediction wherewith Sam-Gufna was blessed.
And Sam-Gufna blessed jordans and running streams
And said to them "Just as ye have increased,
(Ye) jordans and running streams,
So shall the progeny of Adam the first man increase.
His race, his planting and his disciples <sup>2)</sup> (pupils),
Adam's", and thine (also) our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
Shall be plentiful as this spring of living water —
And how profound it is no man knoweth! <sup>3)</sup>
Thou wilt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
Pronounced upon Hibil-Ziwa by three 'uthras.
They said to him "Go, bring us joy, purity and goodness!
And bring us living waters (Water of Life) to the škinata (sanctuaries).
And bring us a sturdy stock <sup>4)</sup> by which sanctuaries and 'uthras

<sup>3)</sup> D.C. 3 has, instead of this line, ulika ḡ-adam 'utra (a miswriting).

<sup>4)</sup> Širša, see p. 277, n. 3.

May be maintained.

In it they will shine and Rays-of-Light thrive".

Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,

By that blessing conferred upon the jordan Sindiriawis <sup>1)</sup>

And the great and lofty Fruit-tree <sup>2)</sup>;

And that which the great and lofty Fruit-tree

Conferred upon its offspring, that is, its foliage.

Then thou wilt be blessed, our father, that that blessing

Conferred upon the jordan Hus and the torrent Pirun,

Conferred upon jordans (rivers) and running streams,

And upon the Table <sup>3)</sup> which is without stint

And given to 'uthras and to škinata so that

They may eat thereof and be refreshed.

And pronounce the blessing of the Table

Laying their pure right hands on it

And saying to it, "May this kana d-zidqa and Table be life-sustaining <sup>4)</sup>

And plentiful" (and) in thy house, thine,

Adam-Yuhana son of Sam, (thy table and that of) thine <sup>5)</sup> offspring,

Adam-Yuhana and Šarat-Mamania the children of Adam-Yuhana,

Shall resemble that kana d-zidqa and Table which the Great and Mighty Mana

Brought and bestowed upon His offspring and sons.

Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,

With that blessing conferred upon Šar-Ziwa,

The First Being, who emanated from the vapours <sup>6)</sup> (?) of the waters,

When he rose to the bank of the jordan, blessed the jordan

And blessed (all) jordans and running streams.

And he blessed the abundance-producing <sup>7)</sup> utterance

Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,

Like that speech that bestoweth plenty <sup>7)</sup>.

<sup>4)</sup> The root NFS has two meanings, and there is a play on these in this passage: i.e. also "abundant and increased".

So that thy treasure, thy oblation and thy goodness <sup>1)</sup>
 And thy prayer and thy praise may be much;
 Be increased, be life-giving and refreshing <sup>2)</sup>;
 — Thine, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam —
 Like the Sprout <sup>3)</sup> which came and grew great
 In the worlds of Light.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing imparted to the mystic Crown
 They set upon the 'uthras.
 Thine appearance will be radiant and bright
 Like that crown that they set upon Manda-ḡ-Hiia <sup>4)</sup>.
 And thou wilt have plenty and renown
 Like the great Crown, which hath <sup>5)</sup> great renown
 In the worlds and ages. Thou wilt have honour
 Like that of teachers <sup>6)</sup> and postulants
 When they perform (rites) and give instruction
 And (so) acquire fame and increase.
 Then thou shalt be blessed our father.
 With that blessing wherewith Sar-and-Sarwan <sup>7)</sup> was blessed,
 The Emanation which came into being of Itself;
 And thy radiance will be vital and wax great <sup>3)</sup>
 Like His radiance, and thy light increase
 Like His light. Thou shalt have jordans.
 And abundance like His abundance,
 That of the Emanation which emanated from Itself.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing bestowed upon the living waters
 And given to škinata. And they (the waters) spread and come <sup>8)</sup>
 To the škinata: Hibil drew them down
 And sent them to the worlds.

<sup>7)</sup> Sar and Sarwan, usually a pair, here an "emanation" are mentioned in Prayer 45, also in G.R. 172 : 5, 221 : 4 and 374 : 14.

<sup>8)</sup> D.C. 3 (293 : 3) tafin bisšar qiriš (uatin etc.) Corrupt.

(And thou shalt be blessed with) the blessing
 That Hibil-Ziwa gave to Adam. He pronounced benediction
 And said to him "Thou art blessed, Adam, First Man,
 And thy plants (offspring) <sup>1)</sup> shall be blessed,
 And thy dependants <sup>2)</sup>, and thy basket when full of bread
 And thy cup when full of mambugia <sup>3)</sup>, and thy sons
 When they stand before thee."
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith the 'uthra Smandriel <sup>4)</sup> was blessed.
 And the 'uthra Smandriel blessed fruits, grapes and trees.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith mighty fruit (trees) were blessed,
 And wherewith was blessed the Living Flame
 And the Table that lacketh nothing.
 Rhām and Rhāmiel-'Uthra were blessed by it
 And Rhām and Rhāmiel-'Uthra blessed clouds of mist and rain.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 Adam-Yuhana son of Sam, with that blessing
 Which blessed all clouds so that they are not wanting or lacking,
 And so that this kana d-zidqa and Table
 Shall be neither wanting nor ill-provided
 In thy house, our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith those seven stars
 Were blessed, and sovereignty was given to them.
 Thou shalt be blessed, moreover, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith were blessed
 Those twelve constellations of the Zodiac.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 Wherewith the five sensory organs <sup>5)</sup> were blessed.
 Moreover thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing bestowed on heavens and earth;
 And they blessed the covering of Smandriel <sup>6)</sup>-'Uthra
 And spread it out. Then thou shalt be blessed,

<sup>6)</sup> The "covering" is over the earth only, since here it must mean vegetation, the province of Smandriel.

Our father, with that blessing wherewith
 The two pure mountains are blessed,
 In which (lie?) outstretched<sup>1)</sup> the earth and sky,
 And they do not move, and are not removed.
 (Neither) shall be removed this kana d-zidqa and Table
 From thy house, Adam-Yuhana, son of Sam.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing bestowed upon the First Word,
 Assigned to 'uthras and škinata.
 And on beholding the First Word,
 The 'uthras and škinata all rose from their thrones,
 And addressed a hymn to Him saying to Him,
 "Our father! the Guardian of Truth (Kušta) hath blessed thee
 And the Nasiruta from which thou camest into being hath blessed thee.

Our father! the Cloud that gave thee being blesseth thee
 And a sublime Beam-of-Light will establish thee".
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith the holy Tanna was blessed,
 And by which the three hundred thousand 'uthras
 Who sit on the bank of the Tanna are blessed.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith Šihmai<sup>2)</sup> was blessed,
 The Pure Mirror into which all the worlds of light gaze.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith the Mystic Vein was blessed,
 And it was divided into three hundred and sixty thousand channels,
 And was given to the 'uthras and škinata.
 And 'uthras and škinata shine therein,
 And are established thereby.
 And thine appearance, our father, shall shine
 Just as 'uthras and škinata shine, and thou wilt be established,
 And plants (offspring) will be raised up unto thee,
 Thy sons, like those. There came a glory
 Which resteth on 'uthras, and it shall come and shall rest upon
 thee,

<sup>1)</sup> The probable meaning is that from these two mountains a wide horizon, sky and earth, lies extended below?

<sup>2)</sup> ŠHM = to beam, gleam.

Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!
 Then, our father, thou shalt be blessed
 With that blessing wherewith are blessed
 Fruits, grapes and trees, and that conferred on
 The beloved 'uthra. And the beloved 'uthra
 Blessed the plants, his children: he gave them strength
 And increase and water.
 Then thou, our father, shalt be blessed,
 With that blessing wherewith was blessed
 The holy Splendour (Banner)<sup>1)</sup>: it was endowed with radiance
 From beginning to end, and to the 'uthras
 It gave the pure Word which they speak
 And which they hear (and obey).
 Hence those 'uthras blessed the holy Banner.
 And they come and bless thee<sup>2)</sup>,
 And hymn thee, our father. They shed radiance,
 They blessed thee and the skinia of the mighty (Life)
 Blessed thee, and the great Tree which is all-healing.<sup>3)</sup>
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith were blessed
 The Seven Ships<sup>4)</sup> which float and traverse the Dwellings.
 Thou shalt have progress-onward<sup>5)</sup> like those Ships.
 And thou shalt have speech and hearing
 Like the 'uthras who dwell in them.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith are blessed
 Books and reliable teachings; moreover, our father,
 Thou shalt be blessed with the blessing
 Which 'uthras pronounced upon Yawar
 When he brought his treasure and came towards them.
 Those 'uthras who blessed Yawar
 Will come and bless thee and hymn thee
 Saying to thee "(O) Advent of a pure Mirror! (Thou art)
 Chief of all enlightened beings!"

 Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
 With that blessing wherewith holy manas were blessed.
 And the holy manas blessed the jordan of living waters
 Which they drew down hither and it cometh from its place.
 (So also) may kana d-zidqa and Table
 Be drawn to and come to thy house,
 Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith was blessed
 Sindiriawis, jordan of living waters,
 That was drawn down<sup>4</sup> to the Earth and given
 To Adam, the first man.
 And a kana d-zidqa and Table will come

 They will come, and a kana d-zidqa will come
 And the Table and (all manner of) good things<sup>6</sup>)
 And will flow abundantly to thy house,
 Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing which the three Vines bestowed
 Upon the holy Mana, imparting to Him strength and increase.
 They said to Him, "Go, appoint vines like thyself

Rejoice, our father rejoice! rejoice in thy škinta!
 Rejoice in the Plants, thy sons!
 How great is the glory of thy banner!
 Thy brightness our father, waxeth and increaseth
 Over thy škinta and all the 'uthras!,
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith was blessed
 The Pure Pearl, and she came and dwelt in the generations.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith were blessed
 The Three Wellsprings of Radiance,
 Whose light is lent to one another.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith is blessed
 The fair <sup>1)</sup> Radiance, whose like is not found
 In the worlds and generations.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith was blessed
 The pure Kimša <sup>2)</sup> in which there is no fault
 Or falsehood, from which 'uthras had being,
 And from which polished mirrors appeared.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
 With that blessing wherewith
 A Mystic Emanation <sup>3)</sup> was blessed,
 And the Mystic Emanation blessed the Ether Earth <sup>4)</sup>
 And established the corporate forms <sup>5)</sup> that dwelt therein.
 Then thou shalt be blessed, our father.
 With that blessing they bestowed
 Upon the Cloud Šarat. And thee (likewise)
 Will they come and bless: they will hymn thee and say to thee,
 "O Son of Treasuries of Radiance! <sup>6)</sup>
 O Son of škinata <sup>7)</sup> of the mighty (Life)

<sup>3)</sup> See p. 271, n. 2.

 Evil (spirits) never held thee back!

379

Health, purity and forgiving of sins be there for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!
 Thy propitiatory gift shall provide thy portion.
 For each one (for whom) thou didst intercede and help over,
 And didst pile up <sup>7)</sup> (gifts) here, Manda-d-Hiia will lay up
 A thousand thousand (gifts) in the world of light.
 Thou wilt have joy of heart, ease of body and fulness of hand!
 And thou shalt clothe with garments and cover with coverings <sup>8)</sup>;
 Shalt break bread into fragments and set it in place,
 Shalt recite masiqtas, celebrate Oblation and make ṭabuta (ritual meals).

<sup>3)</sup> Hilita = (a) propitiatory gift, propitiation (b) a gift to the priest. (J. Pl. HLY "to make sweet by a gift", "propitiate"). See p. 113, n. 5.

<sup>5)</sup> A zidqa brika should be celebrated by the copyist on completing a holy book. A sheep is killed for a lojani in which he and those who commissioned the copying share.

<sup>6)</sup> Three hundred and sixty baptisms, necessary to expiate a serious pollution.

<sup>8)</sup> I.e. perform the ceremony known as Ahaba d-Mania, a zidqa brika performed for one who dies naked or in lay dress; a proxy wearing the vasta for the deceased.

Then strength, soundness and victory will be thine;
 And goodness, beauty, repute, honour,
 Glory, aid, speech and hearing; such as that
 Which the Life, His Father, gave to Yawar and Tauriel.
 And which Yawar and Tauriel bestowed on Hibil-Ziwa;
 And Hibil-Ziwa came and blessed three 'uthras
 And the three 'uthras blessed Adam and all his descendants.
 With that blessing shalt thou be blessed, our father,
 Adam-Yuhana son of Sam.
 Moreover, we bless thee for <sup>1)</sup> the Unique Great Sacred (Being)
 Whose name is called "the great Mighty Mana (Mind)".
 When He came into being, formed Himself in His own perfection,
 Alone, in His škinta, for with Him there was no companion.
 Then He, the Great Mighty Intelligence pondered
 Within mighty inner Eggs that are hidden
 And created Companionship for Himself.
 In the beginning, He uttered a first cry <sup>2)</sup>
 And created four hundred and forty-four thousand 'uthras
 And set them upon His right.
 With his second Cry <sup>2)</sup> he created three hundred and sixty-six-Thousand <sup>3)</sup> 'uthras and set them at His left.
 And at His third Cry he called into being
 Twenty-four thousand 'uthras and set them
 Before Himself. And He clothed them in His radiance
 And covered them with His light;
 And placed upon their heads outflowings <sup>4)</sup> of Radiance and light
 And created for them wreaths in the likeness of His (own) wreath, the Great Mighty Mana's.
 He placed in their hands a staff of living water
 And established in their right hand
 The holy handclasp of troth <sup>5)</sup>.
 He spoke with his pure mouth
 And blessed them with his honest tongue
 And with faithful lips of radiance, light and glory.

<sup>2)</sup> Qrita = "a calling-forth", "a creation"; "a cry".

He created habitations (škinata)<sup>1)</sup> for them
 And drew down jordans of living water for them
 And said to them, "Ye shall rejoice and be glad
 In your škinata 1), like a jordan (river) of living water
 Your consort 2) will resemble the Cloud 3) (divine Spouse)
 From which ye came into existence,
 And your perfume and sweet odour like the fragrance 4) of 'uthras.
 And a škinta was created: it was founded, it was, it appeared
 Of itself. It was a great Canopy (or pavilion?)
 For the Great Unique Holy One,
 A canopy of radiance, light and glory
 Which was all eyes.
 In the (eyes? . . . . . 5))
 It stretched out before Him, so that
 It doth not reveal to them, the 'uthras, His appearance.
 Then the Great Mighty Intelligence (Mana) planned and created
 Vast and pure worlds of light.
 Jordans He deployed, He made škinata 1)
 Installed 6) 'uthras and appointed ašgandia 7)
 Chief of these (ašgandia) envoys before Him
 Was Adakas, "the Great Word" is his name;
 For he is a "go-between", taking out 8) praise, Blessing, prayer, heedfulness and enlightenment 9).
 And them he giveth and he bestoweth on the jordan
 His blessing. So the 'uthras arise, worship his name
 And praise his title: they do not oppose his calling (name)
 For he, (as) the ašganda (envoy), receiveth the praise of the 'uthras
 And conveyeth it into the presence of the Great Mighty Mana
 And layeth it up in His treasure-house.
 Then those seven-hundred and seventy-eight thousand 'uthras,
 Who were created by the Second Cry of the Life, will bless thee.

1) Or "sanctuaries" the word has its customary vagueness!

2) Or "companion"?

3) "Spouse"? See p. 37, n. 4.

4) Rba d-'utria (in both mss.) should surely be riha d-'utria as translated here.

5) D.C. 3 (303:13) bania ptahibh, D.C. 53 (441:2) bainia ptahibh? Obscure.

6) D.C. 3 uahib 'utria, D.C. 53 uautib 'utria

7) The Akkadian aš-gan-du meaning "Messenger", "ambassador" conveys the meaning of a "go between", "an envoy" and ašganda here is exactly that: "an intermediary", a "go-between".

8) D.C. 3 mafaq.

9) Or, "glory and vigilance".

By Them, and from those 'uthras one 'uthra was singled out,
 Younger than his brethren and older than his fathers.
 They assigned to him <sup>1)</sup> his name, "Mahzian <sup>2)</sup>-the-Word,"
 That is Yuzataq <sup>3)</sup> Manda-d-Hiia is his name —
 And he gave them prayer and praise, (so as)
 To furnish the 'uthras in the Divine Presence <sup>4)</sup>
 With praise (befitting) the worship
 Of their Father, the Great, Mighty Mana.
 And a messenger came to them, an envoy from the Presence
 Of their Father, the Great Mighty Mana, (saying)
 "The 'uthras' prayer is acceptable <sup>5)</sup> in the Presence
 Of your Father, and your prayer fitting
 In the eyes of <sup>6)</sup> the Chief of Envoys,
 The Messenger who came to Mahzian-the-Word,
 To rectify the rites of 'uthras, (to purge them)
 From fault and to put in order the worlds of light".
 Then the great Mighty Mana, when summoning Manda-d-Hiia
 From His left, seated him on His right,
 And pronounced blessing on him and made him —
 — The younger brother, more reverend than his parents —
 Made him ruler over mighty and celestial worlds of light,
 Over jordans and running streams
 And over all dwellings, in order to regulate and to station
 The 'uthras in their (appointed) places.
 And by his brother-'uthras he is called "the Capable".
 Manda-d-Hiia called three 'uthras and blessed them.
 And he summoned his elder brother Hibil-Ziwa
 And clothed him with his radiance
 And covered him with his light and shed on him
 Some of his glory, and held him (by the hand)
 In the presence of the great and mighty Mana,
 And said to him "At thy command have I summoned him,
 And I wish to send him to the worlds of darkness,
 To the powers of Siniawis, the under-world".
 The great Mighty Mana blessed Hibil-Ziwa,

Gave him lofty strength and aid.
 And Hibil-Ziwa said "I will come,
 And with me will come Habšaba (Sunday)
 And Kana-d-Zidqa. With me will come lofty strength
 And help: with me will come sixty-six jordans,
 And within each jordan nine hundred and ninety-nine
Škinata. And in each škinata
 Fifty thousand 'uthras will dwell!"
 With that blessing thou art blessed, our father,
 Adam-Yuhana son of Sam! Moreover the mystic
 Well-ordered and well-ordering Mana will bless thee,
 And the hidden (unseen) and watchful 'uthras will bless thee,
 For their names abide in the secret and guarded place
 The radiance of which burneth and its light
 Was set up for all the 'uthras of the Ether-world.
 They acknowledge and praise it and the Great Life also
 Who is concealed in praise (addressed) to Itself<sup>1</sup>) (?).
 Praised be all generations of living beings
 Which issue therefrom and exist and praise
 That mystic Intelligence, and the Radiance which burneth,
 And the Light set up in the great Presence of primal Glory
 In the Place where They sit, speak and are obeyed.
 (Yea), concerning everything that Ye have planned,
 Word came, and was obeyed in each aerial world!
 So also shalt thou speak and be heard, our father!
 Thou wilt ask, and it will be answered thee
 By that mystic and (all-) arranging Intelligence,
 For all that He planneth cometh into being.
 For He made, and establisheth before Him,
 Sixty worlds of light: when He spoke there came into being
 The 'uthras of the Ether-world, with their mysteries
 And their own speech.
 And then the mystic Intelligence, who giveth to every individual
 Strength and glory, appointed an 'uthra,
 An organizer, a great and lofty teacher of Truth,
 A pleasing being, an Enlightener,
 And He set him up as chief of all the 'uthras,
 And granted him speech and hearing so that

<sup>1</sup>) Or meaning perhaps addressed to the Mana?,

He speaketh with him and he heareth Him,
 And He gave him dominion, and (granted him)
 To speak and be heard, from yonder radiance<sup>1)</sup> unto the depths of the earth.

With that blessing thou shalt be blessed, our father
 Adam-Yuhana son of Sam.

Moreover, the Tree Štarwan<sup>2)</sup> shall bless thee,
 From which proceeded wreaths of radiance,
 Light and glory for the Great mighty Mana.

Then that supreme Vine shall bless thee,
 That which was revealed from below the First Vine Ruaz<sup>3)</sup>.

It came to the earth (world) of Tarwan

And Nšab gave it to Tauriel-'Uthra

Who extended it over the Ether-earth.

And he made gushings forth of water

And made it flow to the world

Of sons of Perfection.

Then the First Life will bless thee,

And the Second Life will bless thee;

Manda-d-Hiia will bless thee

And the pure Yušamin<sup>4)</sup> will bless thee.

All the 'uthras of the world of light will bless thee;

Sons of Perfection will bless thee;

Šilmay and Nedbay will bless thee;

Hibil, Šitil and Anuš will bless thee;

Abathur of the Scales will bless thee;

The Place that is all radiance and beams of light

Will bless thee. Those who are covered

With holy and well-kept garments will bless thee.

Radiant beings, lights and beams of light will bless thee,

And 'uthras, škinata and jordans.

Vigilance will bless thee, and the praise-giving

In which all 'uthras shine. Holy, predestinate,

Calm and perfected manas will bless thee,

And the Fellowship which existeth in the škinata will bless thee,

<sup>1)</sup> D.C. 3 (308 : 2) mn hibil-ziwa; D.C. 53 (445 : ult) has mn lhil ziwa, the latter being the more probable version.

<sup>3)</sup> Ruaz (He-flourished, sprouted) is mentioned in Prayers 71 (a Vine,) 117 and 196.

<sup>4)</sup> Yušamin, see p. 12, n. 4.

That (their?) praise of the great First Life
 Will bless thee, Those mystic sproutings (emanations)
 Which bloomed at the word of the Great (Life) bless thee.
 That pure Vestment will bless thee, and that union
 That was knit together and cannot be divided, will bless thee.
 That mana <sup>1)</sup> of glory which was blessed with a hidden blessing
 Will bless thee, for those who sit within it will bless thee.
 Yon pure great Vein will bless thee
 And the Tongue which hath no ceasing will bless thee.
 Those multitudinous ones who sit in pure glory
 And converse in speech which is not mortal, will bless thee.
 The Enduring Place in which they dwell will bless thee, <sup>2)</sup>
 The Place whose glory is great will bless thee.
 That predestinate, pure Being, whose form sheddeth light
 Will bless thee. That mighty (Being) <sup>3)</sup> of radiance
 Will bless thee, that well-ordered and well-ordering One
 Will bless thee. All gentle voices, all bright banners <sup>4)</sup>
 Will bless thee: those secret prayers will bless thee,
 And those columns <sup>5)</sup> of white water will bless thee.
 And the Vein of pre-existent Ether will bless thee.
 Yon pure Sam-Ziwa, whom the First Life created in secret
 Will bless thee, and that 'Uṣṭuna <sup>6)</sup> (Body) will bless thee
 Which dwelleth in the pre-existent Ether
 From which all 'uthras of the Ether-world proceeded
 And which they worship and praise.
 It created Ether, (It) created 'uthras for Itself,
 For Itself It created 'uthras,
 And dwellings (škinata) and lovely manas
 Proceeded from It. It will bless thee,
 That sublime Ether, from which there came to life <sup>7)</sup>
 A living flame. And it is incorporated in all 'uthras
 And (in?) all that exists. Its name in secret and its appellation

<sup>1)</sup> Here mana must have its Semitic (Aramaic) meaning, i.e. "robe", "garment" or "vessel". Play on this word is implied.

<sup>2)</sup> D.C. 3 (310 : 1 f.) has atra d-naṣša ṣauṭḥ unibirbak hanik rurbia d-ziwa nibirkak hanik sdīra umsadvia etc.

<sup>6)</sup> The 'uṣṭuna more or less personified here, must refer to the cosmic body of Adam Kasia.

<sup>7)</sup> Or "awoke", "came to consciousness".

Is magnified in (by?) the 'uthras.
 And Mara-d-Rabuta (the Lord of Greatness) <sup>1)</sup> will bless thee,
 He who hath interpreted, declared and professed
 In his mind the First (Life).
 And yon Ether-Piriawis will bless thee,
 The being who bestowed and abideth within yon jordan
 And that one (here).
 And that Occult Lord of Greatness will bless thee,
 Whose form not one of the uthras beholdeth.
 And that great Vine which standeth in the presence
 Of the Lord of Greatness, will bless thee.
 The great body (corporation) of Piriawis will bless thee:
 The Treasurer of the world of light will bless thee
 And the pure mountain the radiance of which shineth forth
 And its light flameth, will bless thee.
 All these names will bless thee, our father,
 Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!
 Moreover, thou wilt be blessed with the blessing
 Pronounced in the Jordan and in the land of Hauraran,
 The great land of light. And upon thee shall rest
 Its glory and joy, that which abideth in the Innermost <sup>2)</sup>.
 On account <sup>3)</sup> of its magnificence they rejoice, embrace one another

And take one another's hands in troth <sup>4)</sup>.
 Thy fragrance will be sweet like the scent
 Of trees of the world of light. Thy brightness
 Will break forth and thy light shine out
 In the earthly world like flashings of radiance,
 And beams of light, going forth to bring into existence
 And illumine a thousand thousand
 And eight hundred and eighty-eight thousand myriads
 Of mighty and celestial worlds of light.
 Thou wilt arise in the name of Life
 And wilt walk in the road of the upright.
 Mighty ones, sitting in glory, the living,

Will ask about thee, and living (souls) will discuss thee
 With praise of the Mighty Life.
 Filled with glory will thy heart be,
 And its joy rightly directed.
 And thou wilt ask and wilt find
 In the presence of the Great Life,
 Thou wilt speak and thou wilt be heard
 In the name of Yukabar-Kušṭa.
 And thy fame will be the fame of the Life
 And thy renown will be the renown of Yukabar-Kušṭa.
 And thine appearance will be (like unto)
 The appearance of mighty 'uthras, sons of light.
 Thou wilt be made great with the greatness of Manda-ḡ-Hiia.
 On earth thou wilt be as one of the 'uthras,
 And on earth thou wilt be named as
 One of the men (who were) the first Chosen Elect.
 Thou wilt be great and lofty, (they will ascribe to thee?)
 Fame and (good) taste, (name thee) head of the age,
 And thou wilt be a father of honour, who provideth
 His friends and the elect and the distinguished,
 With viaticum, (thou wilt be one) who appointeth
 'Uthras in their place and helpers of the Chosen
 Whose Signs were taken from the jordan.
 (Thou wilt be) the support of the discerning
 Who discern with their minds;
 The helping hand of the perfect
 Who, from first to last, establish perfection.
 The guide of sons loving the fellowship of Life,
 The deliverer of the righteous who are (True) graftings <sup>1)</sup> from the Stem of Life.
 Thy perfume, our father, is fragrant; thine appearance
 Is effulgent and giveth out light.
 Thy presence giveth joy.
 Thou makest thy conversation alien to<sup>2)</sup> the worlds (the worldly) (?)
 And thine actions we will make wholly fair and bright.
 Thy speech will delight and be pleasing
 And will resemble (that of) the worlds of life.

And thy words be like radiance, light and glory.
 Thou wilt seek an earthly dwelling:
 Thou wilt ask for and tread out roads to the Place of Light.
 Manda-d-Hiia will set up for thee a kana d-zidqa
 And a Table in thine own house, our father.
 And thy basket, so that it is filled with bread,
 And thy cup, so that it is filled with mambuga <sup>1)</sup>
 And thy Table he will set up.
 Thou wilt gather together friends,
 Wilt satisfy the hungry and refresh souls.
 Then came the glory of Life! It will rest on thee
 And the Likeness of the Great (Life) will protect thee
 From all that is hateful.
 Thy radiance will shine forth with the sun,
 Thine effulgence with the moon and thy glittering
 With the stars. Thy strength will be like
 (The strength of) the waters,
 Thy pleasantness like (that of) pure air <sup>2)</sup>.
 And thy glory like fire.
 All the planets and the Twelve Gates <sup>3)</sup>
 That look on thee will bow themselves before thee.
 Care will remove itself from thy heart
 And sighing from thy thought. Thou wilt have
 Joy of heart, wilt speak and be heard,
 Wilt ask, and there will be granted thee
 The strength of gods, with the command of angels.
 Thou wilt seek in the day and find by night.
 We will confirm thy speech in thy mouth
 And will set up thy throne in majesty.
 Thou wilt be the companion of the perfect
 And friend of the righteous and believing.
 The words of thy mouth will bring thee victory
 And thy good fortune will rejoice thee.
 Thou wilt act and succeed, wilt be on trial
 And be vindicated; wilt strive and wilt attain.
 Thy strength will be that of the storm-wind:

<sup>3)</sup> Other sects and faiths, each under a sign of the Zodiac.

Thy race will multiply (spread) like the waters.
 And — however long thine existence in the body — <sup>1)</sup>
 No illness, sickness, pain, blemish, wound
 Or (other) plague of the planets will reach thee
 Or get the mastery (over thee), our father.
 Great is thy blessing! Nevertheless, I (too) have blessed thee
 With a mouth of flesh! Manda-ḡ-Hiia blessed thee
 With a pure mouth. I have blessed thee with a tongue of flesh:
 Manda-ḡ-Hiia blessed thee with a true tongue of praise.
 I have blessed thee with lips of flesh,
 But Manda-ḡ-Hiia with faithful <sup>2)</sup> lips of radiance,
 Light and glory.
 When thou bearest him to the earth <sup>3)</sup>
 And mentionest thy fathers <sup>4)</sup> at thy time and moment,
 When thy measure (of years) is accomplished,
 In a blessed old age when thou hast become
 A greybeard full of honours and blessing,
 We will bring thee into a state of peace.
 One will set forth towards thee to set (thee) free,
 Adakas-Mana, thy father<sup>5)</sup> And he will take thee
 Out (of the body) upon a road in which there is no heat,
 Or trembling or quaking. He will pass thee over
 The watch-houses of the planets and thy brightness
 Will shine out over the purgatories
 Until fear cometh upon those purgatory-dwellers
 And guilty (souls) and (those) who have pined away (there <sup>6)</sup>).
 From their purgatories they will plead for thy favour
 And will say "How great is the radiance, how mighty the light
 Of the elect righteous being who passeth over us!"
 And thou wilt free and bear away with thee

In the name of the Life!

I worship, praise and laud that great mystic First Jordan
 From which there was praisegiving,
 And its brightness inspired the 'uthras.
 From it living waters came into being
 And its light reinforced all light-beams.
 From it resulted the enlightenment of the 'uthras:
 In it they rejoice, and from it a wellspring of radiance
 Came into being. From it, fruits, grapes and trees
 Came to life; from it pihta (bread) derived its existence.
 And it was broken and given to the One Great First Mana.
 And He, the Great First Mana was invigorated thereby<sup>3)</sup>
 And worlds of light, 'uthras and all škinata
 Refresh themselves therewith,
 Exist (live) and flourish.
 And they worship and give praise.
 Glory, serenity<sup>4)</sup> and delight come upon them;
 They rejoice, are glad, laugh and make merry,
 Exult and disport themselves.
 And on thee (too), our great, lofty and respected father,
 Glory, bliss, perception and felicity will rest.
 Yea, that jordan will bless thee

<sup>4)</sup> D.C. 3 (322 : 8) has nihutai ("my serenity" or "my calm") for nihuta.

From which praisegiving originated, and it was great <sup>1)</sup>).

There will come kana d-zidqa and a Table

And good things (food) will abound and be plentiful

In thy house. Thy strength here on earth will be firm,

And yonder, in the worlds of light like (that of)

The great First Mana.

Thou shalt have speech and hearing;

Thou wilt speak and be heard.

Thou wilt call thy brother-priests here on earth

And they will answer thee. There, thou wilt call on

'Uthras and they will answer thee.

Here on earth thou shalt have assurance

Because two of Kušṭa's witnesses stand in thy presence,

Seeing and noting what thou doest and what thou thinkest

Day after day and hour by hour.

Yonder, thou wilt be accounted as one of the 'uthras.

Life will joy in thee and the 'uthras will hymn thee

And say to thee <sup>2)</sup>

"Thou wast from the First Jordan, our father!

From a Stock of great brilliance

Did they call thee forth! Niṣab clothed thee in vestments of water,

Tunics of righteousness cover thee.

On thy head he set a wreath, a wreath of praise,

For 'uthras and škinata are twined<sup>3)</sup> into the leaves of thy wreath."

Moreover the Great Unique Sacred One <sup>4)</sup> will bless thee,

Whose throne they set up at the kana d-zidqa.

He measureth <sup>5)</sup> the pious offering of each individual

And according to his works, He recompenseth him.

He delighteth in the Chosen Elect and bestoweth raiment of light.

And four Beings, Sons of perfection, bless thee,

They who guard treasures of life and confer

Garments of radiancy on the elect who dwell in the world.

<sup>3)</sup> A play on words, mitgadlia also means "glorified".

<sup>5)</sup> D.C. 53 is defective here: D.C. 3 (323 : antpenult.) has ukaiil zidqa d 'niš 'niš.

It is they who make abundant <sup>1)</sup> thine oblation and thy Table
Which is set before thy brother-priests.

All thy brother-priests gather about thee
And open their mouths, all of them, in a loud voice,
With acclamation, prayer and praise, they bless thee,
Hymn thee and say to thee, "All that thou doest will be rightly ordered:

All thy vines <sup>2)</sup> will give light,
And in all thy works there will be nought lacking or in fault.
And some of the blessing of the mighty First Life
Will rest upon thee."

And Life is victorious.

381

Darkness is crushed back into the Dark <sup>3)</sup>:
Light is established in its place.
Life hath accepted your prayer
And 'uthras have received your praise,
In the name of Šarhabiel, the First Great Radiance,
To support the Great Mana at His Place;
And to uphold the hands of good people.
There shall be healing (power) of Life
And blessing upon this kana d-zidqa and thy Table,
Our father, Adam-Yuhana, son of Sam!
We establish thy consecration <sup>4)</sup> (as ganzibra)
And thy confirmer <sup>5)</sup> ratifieth thy consecration
In the world of light. And thy confirmer is sinless, Thine advent is <sup>6)</sup> with sinless ones <sup>7)</sup> and thy confirmer sinless.
Come! as (one) fulfilled, deemed worthy, and established
In future honour and ample blessing.

<sup>4)</sup> Tarša, taraša (lit. a "setting-up") is a ceremony of dedication or consecration, e.g. of the cult-hut before a masiqta, of the "crown" when set on the head of a new priest, and of a ganzibra newly appointed to office.

<sup>5)</sup> Mqaimana here is the celebrant at the service of consecration of the new ganzibra. He must himself be a ganzibra.

<sup>7)</sup> Ritually clean priests and head priest.

He will be possessor of fee and alms <sup>1)</sup> (flowing like)
 The great rill of Water of Life which was drawn down (hither)
 And came from its Place. Tauriel-'uthra drew down to earth
 (Those waters) which come and come; come and cease not;
 They are never cut off, or lacking, or deficient.
 (In like manner) this kana d-zidqa and Table
 Shall never lack or be wanting in thy house,
 Adam-Yuhana son of Sam, our father,
 For an age of ages and for ever.
 And Life is victorious over all works!

[Then they shall set up the table <sup>2)</sup> of Blessed Oblation in (on) the altar-table <sup>3)</sup>. And when they finish the dedicatory prayer <sup>4)</sup> the ganzibra takes the phial of wine <sup>5)</sup> and reciteth the hymn "Vines shone in the water", and he poureth <sup>6)</sup> (the wine) into the drinking-bowl and giveth it to the baruka <sup>7)</sup> and the two witnesses.]

382

In the Name of the Great Life!

Vines shone in the waters:
 Mighty ones were confirmed <sup>8)</sup>
 For perfecting, for clearing the waters,
 Establishing Your likeness and giving us light
 Let your radiance shine upon us, great 'uthras!
 Shine, shine forth, come in mystic transfiguration <sup>9)</sup>, <sup>1)</sup> Agra uzidqa, "reward and oblation" i.e. fees received by priests for their services, and offerings in kind and money brought to them by the faithful.

<sup>2)</sup> As I have seen this rite, I can explain the nature of "table" here. It is the earthen tray, or small earthen altar-table (tariana) on which the ritual food is laid out.

<sup>3)</sup> The larger altar-table (tariana) on which the smaller (see n. 2) is placed.

<sup>8)</sup> This prayer (given in another form in Studi e Testi 176, p. 64) is hopelessly garbled. D.C. 3 (326 : 7) has (for lka lhil in the latter) lkalkh (D.C. 53 divides the word on two lines.) My translation in Š. d-Q. was governed by the variations. Hence for mitqaram which here obviously refers to the elevation of the ganzibra, I had "were established" (here). See also Prayer 177.

<sup>9)</sup> bhulfa kasia. In the Š. d-Q. I translated "instead of concealing it". I think the translation given above may be the truer, but the whole prayer is obscure.

Let your radiance shine forth and the radiance of the king.

Let your fragrance come and overpower (us with its sweetness)

[This hymn the ganzibra shall pronounce over the wine-bowl, giving it to the baruka (blessor) and to the two witness.]

383

In the name of the Great Life!

On the day that Hibil-Ziwa

Walked with Yawar,

Myrtle with them was plentiful, <sup>1)</sup>

Plentiful was the myrtle,

And to Yawar he gave it,

Into his right hand.

And he said to him,

“Take from me fresh myrtle

And pronounce blessing in the škinata

Its blessing pronounce in the škinata.

Then Yawar opened his mouth,

Blessing Hibil-Ziwa, blessing Hibil-Ziwa

And said to him, “Blessed art thou,

Our father, Hibil-Ziwa!

Like the myrtle that is in thy right hand

Thy Root shall flourish

Like the root of fresh myrtle:

And thou shalt have strength and increase

Like the living waters”<sup>2)</sup>).

[The “blessers” recite this hymn and give myrtle to the ganzibra].

384

Myrtle, myrtle! The king took it;

The king was surrounded by the perfume of myrtle,

The king was surrounded by myrtle-perfume,

And blessing Hibil-Ziwa,

He said, blessing Hibil-Ziwa,

“Blessed art thou, our father Hibil-Ziwa,

Who hast brought this plant of fresh myrtle

And hast set it up in the dwellings of 'uthras.

<sup>2)</sup> There are variants of the myrtle-hymns: I translated some in Studi e Testi, 176, p. 65.

The dwellings shine in its brightness
And delight in its fragrance for ever <sup>1</sup>).

[The ganzibra recites this hymn and taketh the myrtle from the "blessers".]

385

In the name of the Great Life!

All who inhale thy perfume and are crowned <sup>2</sup>) by thee
Sixty heinous sins will fall away from him.
And all pure spouses will be made perfect, <sup>3</sup>)
Delivered from evil actions.

(Those) who twine the wreaths and set them on our heads <sup>4</sup>)
Will arise without spot and behold the Place of Light.

(The ganzibra reciteth this prayer over the myrtle, <sup>5</sup>) inhaleteth its fragrance and giveth it to the šganda (acolyte) to smell, and to the "blessers" and all persons present; then he throweth the myrtle into the jordan and (folds and) putteth away the banner. And (then) they "honour their crowns." <sup>6</sup>)

Note. — Here D. C. 3 p. 328 has a colophon which begins: —

These are the prayers for the pihtania (breads) and all the blessings of the Blessed Oblation which I copied for my brothers and parents so that there may be support and a guardian for us on earth and forgiving of sins before the Life, my Parents, in the worlds of light, so that they may be instructed therein. I am poor, lowly . . . etc.

(Note. — Before No. 386 D.C. 3 inserts "In the name of the Great Life! On the day that Radiance appeared" etc. Prayer No. 414, p. 316).

<sup>5</sup>) These myrtle prayers and the ritual inhalation recall the Persian barsom rite. Its perfume was apparently inhaled ritually and was also a symbol of kingliness as appears in the Shahnameh (Shāhnāmeḥ, ed. Sa'id Nafisī, Teherān, 1914, vol. 9, p. 2995, 1.496 ff.). In this passage the king asks for barsom when food is offered: "food should be taken (only) when barsom is there". His request for barsom reveals that he is the king and results in his death.

<sup>6</sup>) I.e., take off their "crowns" and kiss them, see p. 28, n. 3.

See Prayer No. 329.

(The rubric differs slightly, so I give it)

[This is a hymn for consecration of crowns on the Sunday when the ganzibra wishes to consecrate the cotton crowns for the priests. Wearing his vestments, with the (novice's) vestments and the crowns in his right hand and his staff in his left, he goes to the bank of the jordan, grasping the crowns which he wishes to consecrate together with his own in his right hand. Then, after performing ritual ablution in the jordan, he approaches the cult-hut and examines each (item) of the vestments, and recites the 'Salutation' at the Door of Mercies (i.e. facing North), to (as many) kings as he is able. After that he shall recite this hymn once over each crown. And Life is victorious!]<sup>1)</sup>

In the Name of the Great Life!

Health, victory and forgiving of sins be there for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, who have prayed this prayer and (these) Devotions. Forgiving of sins be there for a man whose eyes wait upon his Father and whose thought is directed to the Life and whose mind doth not stray from Knowledge-of-Life.

Poor am I who make this petition: a lowly man who hath kept aloof from the Seven. And I say "O Lord of the lofty firmament, (O) Being who accepteth request, receive my prayer and my praise here; guide it with Thy directing (power), grant me a place in Thy Place, give me a dwelling in Thy world. Do not question me about my sins and the burden which hath weighed down my soul in this world. Behold me, who have sought purification before Thee! Look on me, who have borne persecution for Thy name! End for me acts of violence, for I am Thy servant and Thy child. Now I humble myself and my children to Thy name, for I have been true to Thy name, and speak (it) in my heart and talk (of it) in my mind. And I subdue my form and my loins, (O) . . . . . <sup>1)</sup> superior to all glories, before the pure Light which is above all lights.

And I say, "O Lord of gleaming banners, Lord of mystic books, Lord of "Letters-of-Truth" <sup>2)</sup>. Lord of prayer and praise, He who uplifteth the prayer of 'uthras and sponsors the praisegiving of kings, Support of prayerful thoughts! Let there be strength and constancy for all lovers of Thy name! Look upon me with Your eyes and pity me in Your heart! Support me with Your strength, clothe me with Your glory, cover me with Your light. Cut me not off from Yourself! And put far from me fear, dread and terror of the seven stars and the twelve constellations: deliver me from the hands of the wicked, and loosen my feet from the bonds of death. Cut me not off from Your presence. Arm me against all that is evil: be for me a bulwark against rebels and a Hand of Truth against the destructive powers of this world. Turn away, repulse from me insecurity<sup>1)</sup> (?), poverty, ill-luck, lack of sleep and hours of agitation, an evil day and blows (onslaughts) which occur all the time. Be to me Life in life; give me to drink of freshly-flowing Water of Life. Set up for me a kana d-zidqa, a Table and good fortune so that they are fully supplied<sup>2)</sup> by Naširutha. And my brethren will be with me and will provide (me with) a peaceful transplanting<sup>3)</sup>: my wife, my plants (children), and my priests shall accomplish it.

I shall depart and come towards You after a (ritually) perfect departure (death), with pure oil<sup>4)</sup>, and with the proven Sign; in ripeness of years<sup>5)</sup>, without feebleness<sup>6)</sup>, in a blessed old age, in my own home<sup>7)</sup>.

Look on the plants, marvel at the šualania (those entering the priesthood under tuition); then let there be with You a forgiver of sins for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš who have prayed this prayer and these "Devotions". Forgiveness of sins be there for me, for my father and mother, for my teacher, for my wife, for my offspring, for my priests and for all souls who arose at the name of Life and verified the sign of Manda-d-Hiia with pious and believing heart.

Yea, Life, verily Life, life with the victorious there shall be for those love Their name! They will not sever the holy union knit between living ones, with those who know the Life and believe in the Life, and with those who teach us the faith. And Life abideth in Its Dwellings and Life is victorious over all works!

And now (I ask) of Life, Your compassion, Your forgiveness, Your reconciliation<sup>8)</sup> and Your compassion, Yours, Great First Life! Pity, forgive, awake and have compassion upon this my soul, mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš who have prayed this prayer and these "Devotions". Let there be forgiveness of sins for me! Our forefathers, there shall be forgiving of sins for them. Yušamin son of Dmuth-Hiia, there will be forgiving of sins for him.

... (the prayer continues from this part as in Prayer 170, inserting the name of the copyist, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, and his relatives, and teacher wherever such insertions are customary. The insertions are called zharia, "injunctions", "rubrics")

[This is the chant of "Our forefathers".]

In the name of the Great Life.

Then, when she (the soul) reacheth the seven mysteries,
Servants of the Seven go out towards her

And come and surround her and question her.

And they said to her "O soul, whence comest thou?

And whither goest thou?" She said to them,

"I come from the Body the name of which is Earth.

And I go toward the good Kimša <sup>3)</sup>".

They say to her "Servant of whom, art thou?

Messenger of whom art thou called?"

She said to them "I am the servant of the beloved Kimša

And the envoy of the vast Ether".

Then they bless her and commend her and say to her,

<sup>1)</sup> Ṭabuta.

<sup>2)</sup> This is the great Commemoration prayer known as the "Our forefathers". It is usually preceded by the Ṭab ṭaba ṭabia prayer as in prayer 170. It is recited at every rite for the departed.

<sup>3)</sup> Nöldeke suggested "End" for kimša (root KMS), noting that 'k' and 'q' are often interchangeable. Lidzbarski doubted this interpretation (see J.B. p. 192, n. 1) and in his note to Prayer 126 (M.L. p. 192, n. 1) suggested an "Ort im Jenseits". In Prayer 126 I translated the word "a formation", "taking shape" etc. The word is of a very nebulous meaning. See p. 119, n. 2.

Towards the good Kimša'.
 For they seek to grasp the mystery of the Body
 And (so) question her.
 And thereupon she ascendeth
 Towards the Good Kimša.

[This is a prayer about the questioning of the soul<sup>1</sup>).]

413

See Prayer 177.

D.C. 53 ends here. I append as a continuation the prayer which in D.C. 3 (p. 331) precedes Prayer 386.

414

My Lord be praised!
 In the name of the Great Life!
 On the day when the radiance within Radiance
 Broke through and emerged,
 A counterpart of the jordan was formed in mirrors;
 In mirrors a counterpart of the jordan was formed.
 And water was produced in the Ether.
 The jordan emerged in its glory
 And the water was intermingled with the Ether,
 Intermingled was Water with Ether.
 And the strength of Light increased greatly,
 Was increased and established.
 A wreath they twisted into crowns<sup>2</sup>
 (Of) myrtle leaves. And trees bore their burden (fruit).
 Naširutha spoke therein to kings (priests)
 And their purities were intertwined.

(The bridegroom shall recite this prayer when entering his house before he "taketh kušta with his wife". Then he shall "honour" his crown<sup>3</sup>). Beware of performing a marriage or (entering into) a partnership when the moon is in Cancer, Capricornus, Sagittarius or Scorpio: they are evil days for a wedding.)

<sup>1</sup> See 175. Prayer 412 varies slightly from it, and the explanation is missing from the former.

<sup>2</sup> The union of wreath and crown is symbolical of marriage.

INDEX

Note. On Names

In Mandaeen literature spirits, angels, demons, and persons are given names denoting abstract qualities, activities, virtues, vices and so on. The abstract nature of the divine First Cause is divested further of any tinge of anthropomorphism by use of a plural form: It is named Hiia, from the verbal root HIA "to exist"; hence it means "existence", "life". To this appellation are attached such adjectives as "First", "Second", "Third", "mighty", "majestic" and "multiform".

Abstract qualities of varied shades of related meaning are covered by the name Kušfa, a personification of "truth", "pact", "sincerity", "good faith"; whilst category or species is personified in such names as Adam—"man", "mankind" and Anuš "humanity" "human being".

It is not always possible to discover the original meaning of a name. Most, indeed all of them, derive from a verbal root, or from a substantive. The suffix 'il or 'iil (corresponding to the "iel" of angel-names in English) is often attached to such names, for instance, RHM Rham'il "to love"; Tauri'il (taura, a bull); Nuri'il (nura, fire); Gadfi'il (gadfa, wing) and Gabri'iil (gabra, male, man). In magical texts angel and devil-names are legion. In the Canonical Prayers they are comparatively few.

به این ترتیب در این حالت می توانیم بگوییم که
 برای هر یک از این حالات می توانیم یک عددی را
 به آن اختصاص دهیم که در این حالت به آن
 همواره یکسان است. به عنوان مثال اگر
 در هر یک از این حالات عددی که به آن
 اختصاص داده ایم را جمع کنیم می توانیم
 عددی را به دست آوریم که همیشه برابر
 با ۱۲ می باشد.

 همواره یکسان است. به عنوان مثال اگر
 در هر یک از این حالات عددی که به آن
 اختصاص داده ایم را جمع کنیم می توانیم
 عددی را به دست آوریم که همیشه برابر
 با ۱۲ می باشد.

به همین ترتیب می توانیم برای هر یک از این
 حالات یک عددی را به آن اختصاص دهیم که
 همواره یکسان است. به عنوان مثال اگر
 در هر یک از این حالات عددی که به آن

אם  $\{a_n\}$  היא סדרת אינסופית של מספרים ממשיים
 אז  $\lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} a_n = L$  יחידה אם ורק אם
 לכל  $\epsilon > 0$  קיימת  $N$  כזו שלעבורה
 לכל  $n > N$  מתקיים  $|a_n - L| < \epsilon$
